RUSSIANS TELL NEW RETREAT

Testimony Starts in Nazi Spy Trial

COAST GUARDS, CHICAGO WOMAN ARE WITNESSES

Hint One Saboteur May Get Mercy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—Eight Nazi agents, who were landed stealthily on the east coast last month to launch a campaign of destruction against American arms plants, went on trial for their lives today before a military commission.

The first witnesses called were four coast guardsmen, three of them officers. It is believed they were to testify on the landing of the enemy agents by submarine. The coast guardsmen were brought to the trial room during the afternoon session in a manner which indicated they are regarded as important witnesses.

Another witness, Mrs. Gerda Melind, 24 year old divorcée of Chicago, who was engaged to one of the defendants, Herbert Haupt, was in the department of justice building, and it is reported she testified.

Tries to Dodge Photographers.

The young woman, who broke her engagement following Haupt's arrest, was escorted to and from the building during the noon recess by an army officer. She attempted to dodge photographers.

Haupt's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Haupt, also have been summoned. Mrs. Melind's father, Herman Struckman, also is to be a witness, along with at least a dozen other Chicagoans.

The morning session of the trial lasted two hours and 40 minutes. The afternoon session lasted three hours.

The saboteurs were taken to the trial room, in the department of juctice building, in two closed vans.

Taken to Fifth Floor.

Inside the building the prisoners were hurried to the fifth floor. First they were escorted into an assembly room, usually devoted to training Federal Bureau of Investigation operatives.

In this trial room, the prisoners, who were charged with violating civil and military laws against sabotage and espionage in time of war, will learn if they are to face a firing squad or go to the gallows.

As the trial board convened, there were indications that one of the agents may escape the death penalty. Separate counsel was appointed for George John Dasch, 39 years old, a veteran of the German army in the World war. Dasch came to this country to work as a waiter and went back to Germany in 1941.

Col. Carl L. Ristine was named yesterday to represent Dasch before the tribunal. The appointment was taken as indicating that Dasch had given the authorities a complete story of sabotage plans or possibly had aided in the capture of his fellows.

Trial May Take All Week.

Members of the commission, prosecuting counsel, and defense counsel refused to discuss the proceedings as they left the room. Attorney General Francis Biddle, chief prosecutor, said he could say nothing because he was under orders of Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, chairman of the trial commission. Asked to estimate the time which will be required for the trial, Biddle said: "Probably most of the week."

The prisoners were taken back to the District of Columbia jail at the end of the day, but some of the witnesses and presumably a considerable number of guards appeared to be spending the night in the justice building, where cots were placed late in the afternoon.

Argentina Officially Bars Ships from E. Coast of U. S.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 8 (AP).—The Argentine government today made public its decree prohibiting Argentine ships from calling at ports on the east coast of the United States. The order followed in detail the zone prescribed by the Germans in the extension of their submarine blockade, effective June 26, to United States Atlantic ports and Iceland. Argentina's decision to avoid the blockade was announced yesterday.

CARY GRANT WEDS BARBARA HUTTON

Lake Arrowhead, Cal., July 8 (AP).—Handsome Cary Grant of the movies and the one time "poor little rich girl," heiress Barbara Hutton, were married today.

Only four friends witnessed the ceremony—Mrs. Madeline Hazeltine, Frank W. Vincent, Grant's manager; Frank Horn, Grant's secretary, and William Robertson.

The newlyweds left immediately after the ceremony without disclosing their destination, but Grant said they will make their home in Brentwood, Cal. He is due back at RKO-Radio studio tomorrow for work on a film.

For nearly two years the two had been regular companions at cinema colony affairs.

Grant, 38 years old, was born Archibald Alexander Leach in Bristol, England. He played in stock, on the stage and in operettas before coming to Hollywood in 1931.

Made Citizen Last Week.

Grant only last week became an American citizen. At the time he said he intended to volunteer for active duty with United States armed forces.

He was married once before, to Actress Virginia Cherrill. They were divorced.

His wife's fortune has been variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000. She was born Nov. 14, 1912, in New York, the daughter of Franklyn L. Hutton and the former Edna Woolworth, daughter of F. W. Woolworth.

She took society by surprise when, before she became of age, she announced her engagement to Prince Alexis Mdivani of Georgia. They were married in Paris, June 22, 1933, but she divorced him in Reno in 1935.

Twenty-four hours after her divorce she married Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, Danish nobleman, and renounced her American citizenship. She recently took steps to regain it and it is believed her marriage today will facilitate that step.

Their son, Lance, was born Feb. 24, 1936. She sued the count for divorce in June, 1938, but it was not made final until March 1, 1941.

Wartime Trip Takes Tribune Man Deep Into Red Tape Land

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo, July 8.—Well, I am here. It was a struggle rich in lessons for any one rash enough to want to travel today. And tomorrow I will be off on the second half of my journey to Cairo. All the obstacles presumably have been smoothed out, but I am confident that there will be plenty of trouble that I cannot foresee.

This story starts at Lisbon, Portugal, where I arrived from Germany and received my assignment to the British 8th army in North Africa. In peacetime it is an easy trip, but the best suggestions I could get were to proceed to Cairo by way of London or New York. I also discovered there was a possibility of going direct from Lisbon to the Belgian Congo and from there to Khartum in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. I chose this route.

My grief, like that of every one else, started with the passport. The officials want to know why you need one, why you need to travel, why you are not doing time in jail, which from your looks you should be doing, and why you live anyway. Here I got a lucky break. It was all arranged beforehand and it took only two trips and 50 minutes waiting before an American consular official stamped my passport "valid for Egypt and necessary nonenemy countries en route from Portugal."

A Discouraging Outlook.

The British press officer at Lisbon is supposed to be a fount of knowledge and I consulted him. He was discouraging.

If I worked hard, he said, I might get out of Lisbon toward the Congo in about six weeks. He explained that before I could even book passage on a boat I would have to have a visa for the Portuguese colonies. Before getting that I would have to have a visa from the Belgian authorities to enter the Congo. The Belgians would not give me that until I had a visa from the British allowing me to pass thru British African territory. Finally the British would not issue their visa until I could show one for Egypt, my destination. It was a house of cards in which the Egyptian visa was the key card.

Regarding that the Britisher said: "You will either have to make an airplane trip to London or send your passport to the Egyptian legation at Madrid [Spain] and wait three to six weeks. But hold on a minute, I've just heard a rumor that the Egyptian legation that was formerly at Vichy [France] has arrived here and set up shop in the Hotel Tivoli. You might investigate."

Found: The Egyptians.

I took a taxi to the Tivoli but found no sign of the Egyptians. A haughty desk clerk admitted he had seen some Egyptians but could not recollect their address and then hinted that 20 escudos [about $1.50] would help his memory. He got the money and I got the address and galloped up to a brand new apartment to find the Egyptian minister and consul.

They treated my request for a visa as one of the better jokes of these sad days. After only 30 minutes of arguing, they consented to write out a telegram, for which I paid, asking the minister of the interior at Cairo for a visa.

Full of unjustified optimism I went to a steamship office to reserve a ticket. This was another joke. It was June 1 and the steamer Angola was sailing on the 6th but you could not get one guinea pig more on that boat. Luckily I was accompanied by THE TRIBUNE'S permanent representative in Lisbon, who knows his way around and without whom I would never have got here this fast. He crashed us into the president of the company, who looked as if we were asking for his watch and chain. Finally he gave us a note instructing his subordinates to see what they could do.

The next five days were nothing

JAP DESTROYER BELIEVED SUNK IN ALEUTIANS

5th U. S. Sub Victim in Alaska Waters.

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—A lone American submarine, following up the smashing undersea attack on Japanese warships in the Aleutian Islands on the Fourth of July, was reported today to have torpedoed and probably sunk an enemy destroyer last Sunday in the vicinity of Kiska Island.

Announcement of the action was made in a navy communique which noted that this was the fifth enemy destroyer sunk or damaged by American subs in the Aleutian area during the two day period July 4-5.

Three Sunk in One Day.

The Independence day operation, carried out by at least two submersibles, resulted in the sinking of two destroyers at Kiska and one at Agattu Island. A third destroyer at Kiska, which is 585 nautical miles west of Dutch Harbor, was left "burning fiercely."

Thus in two days the submarines, pressing home their attack under incessant fog which had hampered aerial bombardment, raised the enemy's ship losses in his attempts to consolidate his positions on American soil to five sunk, one probably sunk and nine damaged.

47 Ships Sunk to Date.

The toll of Nipponese ships taken by American submarines in the war to date as reported in navy communiques thus was raised to 47 sunk, 14 probably sunk, and 13 damaged.

[The Japanese invaders of the Rat Island group of the Aleutians are squarely across the path of a possible United States air line to Siberia, and thus could hamper American air aid to the eastern Russian theater in the event Japan attacked Siberia. Tho Russia and Japan at present are observing treaty neutrality, the Japanese obviously are watching carefully for a sign of Russian disintegration in the battle of the Don.]

INDIA PREPARES PLAN TO RAISE WAR PRODUCTION

LONDON, July 9 [Thursday] (AP).—India's war resources committee, set up as a result of recommendations by a United States technical mission, has formulated a program calling for increased war production by more efficient use of the general engineering industry, the India office announced today.

At the same time, India's annual trade review disclosed that war orders in 1940 and 1941 resulted in new production records in iron, steel, coal, and paper, and a 6 per cent increase in cotton piece goods.

Pledge No Aid to Japs.

WARDHA, India, July 8 (AP).—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Indian leader whose influence is second only to that of Mohandas K. Gandhi, told the press today that the All-India, Congress committee intended, "so far as we can," to avoid doing anything to assist Japan. The committee now is in session.

TWO NATIONS BID AGAINST U. S. FOR BOLIVIA RUBBER

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 8 (AP).—Argentina and Uruguay are contesting a United States bid for purchase of Bolivia's exportable rubber supply, it was learned tonight.

Argentina seeks the entire annual output of 1,200 tons, offering to return 30 per cent of the amount in manufactured articles. Uruguay made an offer for 600 tons.

The producers are inclined to prefer the United States, which offered a long term contract as well as bonuses in event production exceeds 1,500 tons a year.

Stettinius Going Abroad to Study Lend-Lease Use

Washington, D. C., July 8.—Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, will make a special trip to Great Britain soon to study the results of the lend-lease program and discuss the future exchange of goods between the two allies, it was learned today. It is understood that Stettinius will remain in Britain about a month, traveling in England, Scotland, and Northern Ireland.

Nazi Battleship Tirpitz Heavily Hit—Moscow

MOSCOW, July 9 [Thursday]—(AP).—The powerful new German battleship Tirpitz, on the loose again from her Norwegian fjord refuge and ranging the United States-British supply route to northern Russia, has been torpedoed twice and seriously damaged by a Russian submarine, a Russian communique announced early today.

The 35,000 ton battleship, pride of the Nazi fleet and sister ship of the Bismarck, which the British navy harried to her doom on May 27, 1941, was hit by two torpedoes in the Barents sea, the official report declared. The Barents sea is a part of the Arctic north of Murmansk and Archangel.

Sink Transport, Damage Another.

The Russians, in the same action in northern waters, sank a German transport and damaged another, the communique declared. The date of the attacks was not given.

[The Tirpitz was attacked in the general area where the Germans claimed they had sunk 32 vessels and a United States cruiser out of a 38 ship convoy carrying supplies and war material to Russia. The Tirpitz was last spotted at sea off Narvik last March 9, apparently planning to raid a convoy bound for Russia. Under attacks from torpedo planes she was chased to a Norwegian refuge at Trondheim. The Tirpitz was reported still at Trondheim as late as May 22 and units of the American navy joined British patrol forces in the North sea in June to keep her bottled up.]

The battleship carries a complement of 1,500 men, according to Jane's Fighting Ships, British authoritative guide on the world's navies. She is 791 feet long, has a beam of 118 feet and carries eight 15-inch guns.

Radio Silence Delays News.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—German claims to have sunk during the past week 32 ships and an American heavy cruiser in a superconvoy headed for Murmansk were neither denied nor confirmed here today.

"As long as the ships are at sea no reports are expected," an authoritative source said. "The ships would be in danger if their radio silence were broken. The government is fully alive to the necessity of putting out a communique as soon as possible."

The German Claims.

BERLIN, July 8 [from German broadcasts] — (AP). — The sinking of four additional merchantmen in a "British-American" convoy reported attacked on the arctic supply route to Russia was claimed today by the high command, which said altogether 32 ships of the convoy of 38 had been sent to the bottom.

(There was no confirmation of the German claim from any other source. Previous German accounts of ship sinkings along this route have proved far in excess of actual losses when the convoys reached their destination.]

The high command said the four ships sunk by submarines trailing the convoy aggregated 24,700 tons and brought to 217,000 tons the total sinkings reported in the past two days.

Say U. S. Cruiser Sunk.

A communique repeated the statement in the special war bulletin yesterday that a United States heavy cruiser was sunk in the attacks.

The communique said the convoy was "very well protected by heavy enemy naval forces, destroyers, and corvettes" and was loaded with aircraft, tanks, ammunition, and food for Russia.

The communique also repeated a previous statement that German naval Red Cross planes rescued a large number of American sailors.

NEW HIGHWAY ACROSS TRACKLESS NORTHERN AUSTRALIA COMPLETED

SYDNEY, Australia, July 8 (AP).—A highway capable of maintaining heavy military traffic has been built across the trackless northern territory of Australia in a little more than a year, the Sydney Herald's war correspondent reported today.

A year ago there were only a few cart tracks meandering thru the grassy plains. Today there is a smooth highway, so designed that army vehicles will not be halted when the rainy season arrives.

Civilian road workers, including several United States engineers, achieved this in an extraordinarily short time. The feat was described by the general officer commanding the northern territory forces as "one of Australia's greatest romances since the days of the pioneers."

GERMANS WIN STARYI OSKOL IN HEAVY FIGHT

Reds Say Crossings of Don Wiped Out.

MOSCOW, July 9 [Thursday] (AP).—The Russians acknowledged today that the battered city of Staryi Oskol, 65 miles west of Voronezh, has fallen to the Germans after heavy fighting, but soviet reports indicated that spirited counterattacks have wiped out the first German crossings of the vital Don river 65 miles east of Staryi Oskol.

The Russians executed an organized retreat to new positions under pressure of new attacks by greatly superior numbers, it was said.

Russian tanks, cavalrymen from the Urals and Red infantrymen appeared to have taken the situation in hand as the Germans moved nearer Voronezh, vital as an important link of the Moscow-Rostov rail line.

Russian dispatches said that light enemy units which reached the east bank of the Don river in the Voronezh area had been destroyed and the bridgeheads over which they crossed were torn down.

Air Force Turns Tide.

The tide apparently turned Monday night when the Red air force bombed and shattered German pontoon bridges and prevented the enemy from sending reënforcements to the east bank.

With these landings reported liquidated in several places, there was no confirmation of the German claim that Voronezh, main line railway city lying at the tip of a narrow "V" formed by the Don and Voronezh rivers, had fallen to the attackers.

"During July 8 our troops fought fierce battles west of Voronezh," the soviet midnight communique said. "After stubborn battles our troops evacuated the town of Staryi Oskol. On other fronts there were no essential changes."

Staryi Oskol was an objective of a German drive which developed in full force last week-end as the Germans sought to fight their way to the Don river in their offensive from Kursk.

The city, the southernmost point of a triangle formed with Kursk and Voronezh, is some 80 miles northeast of Kharkov, scene of heavy fighting this spring.

Battles Rage at Two Points.

The battle of Voronezh was concentrated mainly at two points, on the north side and in the center of the sector. Flying thru rain and low lying clouds the Red air force hammered the German crossing points and concentrations on the west bank of the river. After heavy air, artillery, and mortar bombardment, German infantry, supported by two squadrons of cavalry and 20 tanks, attacked the Russian lines, but were rolled back.

In the central sector the first major landing parties to reach the east bank were reported thrown back behind the water line. There, bringing up reënforcements, the Germans renewed their attempts to storm across the stream. Individual groups penetrated the Russian positions, Red army dispatches said, but were later exterminated.

Push Nazi Drive Aside.

Russian counterattacks apparently have pushed aside heavy German forces from the main line of their offensive smash toward the Caucasus.

Despite the success of the counterattacks, Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said frankly that enemy pressure was being stemmed "with great difficulty."

The great number of tanks, motorized infantry, and planes which the Germans were employing indicated they considered this offensive one of the most important operations of the war. Its first objective is to drive a wedge between central and southern Red armies.

Nazis Adopt New Tactics.

This time they were adopting new tactics to protect their flanks in contrast to their earlier, more reckless blitz dashes of tanks and planes which left their flanks exposed.

The tanks which made the first break-thru in the center of the Kursk sector toward Voronezh were accompanied by artillery which, placed on the outside edges of the salient, laid down a fierce covering fire.

SPEED TRAINING OF THOUSANDS IN SIGNAL CORPS

Chicago Schools Turn Out Radio Experts.

A mammoth training program to prepare technicians for field service with the United States army signal corps is under way in the Chicago area, it was disclosed yesterday by Col. Charles N. Sawyer, signal officer of the 6th corps area.

Men are going into training in technical schools at the rate of more than 200 a week. By Jan. 1 it is expected that more than 5,000 will have been turned out in the 6th corps area alone, said Col. Sawyer. These men will be experts in radio and radio engineering and in telephones and other branches of communication.

Take 20 Week Courses.

In a series of 20 week courses the men selected are doing the equivalent of two years' college work. The course in high frequency compares with the senior year and postgraduate work at one of the better technical institutions. The preradar course is equivalent to the junior year at an advanced institution and the candidates for it must have had two years of college mathematics and physics.

The studies for radio mechanics—which are open to high school graduates—compare with first and second year courses in a technical school.

The work is being given at the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, the University of Illinois, the Illinois Institute of Technology, the University of Wisconsin, and seven signal corps schools in Chicago and Wisconsin. The Chicago schools being used are Burr, Bancroft, Spry, and Coyne, thru coöperation of the Chicago board of education, said Col. Sawyer.

Age Limits 18 to 45.

Men between 18 and 45 years are being accepted. Those who have 1-A selective service ratings must serve as enlisted reservists. Those who have 3-A's may retain their civilian status, but must pledge to serve a full year after completion of their training. Depending upon their qualifications, the reservists may attain commissions.

After six months of technical studies, they are called to active duty for a basic training period of 13 weeks. Some, however, may be deferred as long as nine months. After completing the basic military training, the reservists may apply for a course at officers' training school.

"This is the only corps area in the country," said Col. Sawyer, "where an enlisted reservist can start at the bottom, go thru all the necessary schools, and emerge with a signal corps commission as a radio engineer."

Pay of Civilian Group.

Salaries for those who retain civilian status, because of 3-A ratings, range from $1,800 to $2,600. This pay is fixed by the civil service commission.

"There is a vital need for these in the type of war we are fighting," continued Col. Sawyer, who has been in the signal corps about 30 years and who is a graduate of both West Point and Yale. "Hitler had thousands of engineers and technicians trained and ready when he launched the way. Japan has been training them many years."

INFLATION FIGHT VITAL AS REST OF WAR, SAYS JONES

Warns: None Can Avoid Its Consequences.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—The United States no more can afford to to lose the battle against inflation than it can afford to lose the war, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones warned tonight in calling for strict observance of measures to control rising prices.

Jones' warning, voiced in a radio broadcast, came on the heels of realization that the administration's seven point program to curb inflation has not progressed beyond the political stage. Refusal to impose restrictions on farm prices and wages have been the principal influences undermining the program, according to critics.

All Will Suffer Alike.

"No business man can expect higher prices for his products without paying higher prices for having them made," said Jones. "The farmer cannot expect to have the price of agricultural products soar and still be able to get as much of other things for his money as he does under normal circumstances. The worker is blind to reality if he believes that undue increases in his wages can, in some mysterious way, be kept out of increased prices for such things as food and clothing and rent.

"All who find themselves better off economically because of war activity must remember that the more actively they spend their increased income, the more they contribute to inflation, by bidding up prices of what they buy. In the race for higher prices no group and no individual can stay ahead more than momentarily. Any advantage which he thinks he has obtained is an illusion."

Urges Reversal of Habits.

Americans must reverse their habits of easy spending and save by paying off debts and investing in war bonds, so they will be in a position to purchase the products of a vast productive capacity when the war is over, said Jones.

"Inflation, once out of control, means disaster," he warned. "If a billion dollars will buy only three pounds of steak, as was the case with respect to marks during uncontroled inflation in Germany, a billionaire still is a poor man."

WAAC PROBLEM: MAKING SOPRANO SERGEANT ROAR!

Feminine 'Forward March!' Fails to Carry.

Not that he has any illusions about the musical qualities of his own booming voice. Rather, he is looking for ways and means of developing the carrying power of a feminine "Forward march!"

The first 770 enrollees in the women's army auxiliary corps will report here July 20. Of these, 440 will be given officer training, including instructions in commanding squads, companies, and battalions.

A Soprano "Squads Right!"

Whether the auxiliaries [privates] in the rear rank will always hear "squads right!" and "at ease!" from a soprano sergeant is what's worrying Col. Faith.

"There is no problem in teaching a man to speak out so that every one can hear," he said. "Army officers are taught to give their voices an extra push from 'way down in their volumed voices."

He expects his operatic studies [in the abstract] will help him teach women to make themselves heard.

How About 30 Inch Step?

Another thing: The standard army marching step in 30 inches. Faith says he doesn't expect a 5 foot, eyes-of-blue miss to stretch that far to martial music, but he doesn't know yet how much the distance will be shortened.

"There's a minor tempest on that question among our staff members right now," he said.

"But just imagine what we'll be up against some time when WAAC's and soldiers march in the same parade, one with a step longer than the other and both marching to the same music."

Maybe this will be the solution to all Faith's problems: Plans contemplate ultimately making the training school faculty all feminine.

"Eventually, in all probability, there will be a woman commandant, too," he observed.

Vote Barge Canal in Florida in Effort to End Oil Shortage

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—The senate commerce committee today approved, 11 to 3, a bill for the construction of a barge canal across Florida and erection of at least two pipe lines at a cost of 93 million dollars, to help relieve the oil shortage along the east coast. The house approved the measure on June 17.

Josiah W. Bailey.

Sen. Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the committee, said that if all contemplated projects are carried out it appears that minimum requirements for oil and gasoline—based upon continued drastic rationing—may be met by the end of this year and leave a slight surplus. The "minimum requirements" figure is placed at 1,367,000 barrels a day.

Approved by WPB.

Only yesterday Oil Coördinator Harold L. Ickes announced War Production board approval of a 30 million dollar pipe line relocation program, including the transfer of pipelines from Texas to Florida, to provide an estimated additional flow of 200,000 barrels of oil daily to the east coast.

Altho these and other steps are being taken to increase oil and gasoline deliveries to the Atlantic coast, administration officials continue to think of gasoline rationing as a step to curb consumption of tires, even if there is plenty of motor fuel available. A decision on whether nationwide gasoline rationing is to be imposed is expected after the current scrap rubber inventory is completed.

Waterway to Be Enlarged.

The barge and pipe line bill, as approved by the house and the senate commerce committee, provides for construction by the war department of a high level lock barge canal from the St. Johns river across Florida to the Gulf of Mexico, as well as enlargement of the present intracoastal waterway from the vicinity of Apalachee bay to Corpus Christi, Tex., and extension to the vicinity of the Mexican border so as to provide thruout the entire length of the canal a channel 12 feet deep and 125 feet wide.

The bill also would authorize the construction of one or more pipe lines for the transportation of petroleum products from the vicinity of Port St. Joe to the vicinity of Jacksonville, Fla. For these purposes 80 million dollars is authorized as an expenditure. In addition, 13 millions is allowed for construction of a crude oil pipe line from either Charleston, S. C., or Savannah, Ga., to the Tinsley oil field in the vicinity of Yazoo, Miss.

WAR JOB 'ORPHAN' CALLED PROBLEM FOR COMMUNITY

St. Louis, Mo., July 8 (AP).—Mama's got a war job and the kids are running wild, without supervision, creating a serious social problem.

This was the conclusion of the St. Louis Social Planning council, which conducted an extensive survey in coöperation with the public and parochial schools.

Thousands of war-job orphans under 12 years of age were found to have no supervision whatever while their mothers are at work. Countless others have only the casual care of an older brother or sister or a busy neighbor.

Working mothers in 4,068 families in which there are 7,764 children responded to questionnaires. This data disclosed 2,363 of the 7,764 children are left at home with no one to look after them.

It is not altogether the mother's problem, but "a community problem of great importance," asserted Miss Mary Alexander, a council executive.

"If the community ignores the situation it will have a far worse one to solve later—one of child delinquency and anti-social behavior of youth. The mothers are not indifferent to their children's welfare. They are anxious and worried, as revealed in their replies, but they have no one to look after their children."

Camp Grant to Get One Company of Women Troops

Increasing Sub Toll Stirs Senators to Action.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—A senate appropriations subcommittee plans to quiz Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commander of the army air force, on failure to utilize more fully the organized civil air patrol in anti-submarine activities, it was learned today.

Gen. H. H. Arnold.

The civil air patrol is a unit of the Office of Civilian Defense and has a membership of 50,000, of which about 20,000 are experienced civilian pilots.

There have been widespread demands that civilian pilots be given a more prominent rôle in patroling for submarines off American shores. The axis subs, in their unrelenting campaign against American and other united nations shipping, have sent 347 vessels to the bottom off the American coast and in South American waters since the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

The subcommittee is conducting hearings on a 1 billion 809 million dollar army bill which includes an appropriation for extending CAP activities.

"Umbrella" of Planes Urged.

Some time ago Sen. Wayland Brooks, [R., Ill.], proposed that an "umbrella" of small planes piloted by civilians and equipped with light bombs or depth charges be established from Florida to Maine to deal with U-boats. The only reaction from Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was that the civil air patrol was already used in this capacity. There were indications, however, proved by the increased rate of sinkings, that such civilian activity was limited.

The testimony yesterday of James M. Landis, director of the OCD, before the senate subcommittee, it was learned, affirmed this belief and led to the decision of Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], chairman of the subcommittee, to call Gen. Arnold in the near future to inquire whether the war department has been slow in requesting civilian pilots to patrol the coastal waters.

Doing Excellent Job.

Committee members asserted they were impressed by Landis' testimony in which he said there were plenty of civilian pilots and airplanes available to expand patrol activities, but that the army air corps, which has direct control of CAP operations, has failed to request more units than the few now in service.

Landis told the committee, according to its members, that the CAP units now in service have done an excellent job and have been credited officially with successful operations against enemy subs.

Members of the CAP have expressed their desire for action and have criticized the relatively minor functions assigned to them.

Rank of Flight Officer Approved by President

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt today signed into law a measure creating the rank of flight officer in the army air corps, with pay and allowances provided a warrant officer, junior grade. The new law permits any person who has completed training as an aviation cadet or student, or has served in wartime as a commissioned officer, to be appointed flight officer.

HOUSE OF COMMONS TO HOLD OPEN DEBATE ON SHIPPING LOSSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—The government, it was announced today, has agreed to allow the house of commons to debate the reported serious shipping losses in a public session on the third day of the next series of parliamentary sittings. The public discussion was arranged on the understanding that it will take place in an atmosphere that will not help the enemy. Prime Minister Churchill is expected to participate in the debate.

The gap between launchings and sinkings long has been recognized as the most vital problem confronting the united nations, governing not only their ability to take the offensive but their ability to wage war at all.

The Daily Express urged immediate action to double the output of British shipyards. It demanded that the army "release riveters and skilled men" and other industries sacrifice their claims so that the supply of labor for the shipping industry can be increased. The paper called for abolition of the blackout where it impedes production, and banishment of "all preconceived ideas about ownership and control of shipyards."

SUBS SINK THREE MORE SHIPS OFF U. S.; TOLL IS 347

Canadian, Dutch, Latvian Vessels Victims.

The sinking of a Canadian cargo vessel and a Dutch merchantman in the Caribbean and a Latvian cargo ship off the Atlantic coast were announced yesterday by the navy, bringing to 347 the number of united nations and neutral vessels destroyed by enemy action in American and adjacent waters since the attack on Pearl Harbor according to a corrected compilation by the Associated Press. The navy said 8 survivors of the Canadian ship and 37 survivors of the Dutch ship reached gulf coast ports and 34 survivors of the Latvian ship landed at an east coast port. Ships sunk in American coastal waters since Pearl Harbor now total 300, with 1,875 known dead, 1,812 missing, and 9,812 rescued. Details of the new sinkings follow:

13 DIE IN TORPEDOING

A GULF COAST PORT, July 8 (AP).—Thirteen of a crew of 21 aboard a Canadian cargo ship were killed May 8 in the Caribbean when an enemy submarine torpedoed the vessel, breaking it in two, the 8th naval district announced today.

Three of eight survivors, landed at a gulf port, reported the ship went down within 30 seconds after the torpedo hit the starboard side at 10:20 p. m. All eight survivors, including the captain, were swept overboard by the force of the explosion.

SUNK WITHOUT WARNING

A GULF COAST PORT, July 8 (AP).—Thirty-seven persons were rescued when a medium sized Dutch cargo vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean on May 12, the 8th naval district revealed today.

Ten of the crew members, none of whom was an American, were landed at a gulf port and told how the ship was torpedoed without warning at 10:35 p. m., sinking within 10 minutes.

The submarine commander, who talked to the master of the ship, appeared to be German, but several of the crew were Italian.

TWO TAKEN PRISONER

AN EAST COAST PORT, July 8 (AP).—The master and a seaman of a Latvian cargo ship were taken prisoner aboard an axis submarine which shelled and sank the medium sized vessel off the Atlantic coast on June 29, survivors reported on their arrival at this port.

Crew members told newsmen that Capt. Janic Martinsons of Skriveros, Latvia, and Ordinary Seaman Bernardo Gardana of Spain were taken aboard the submersible.

The other 34 crewmen sailed in two lifeboats for five days before they were picked up.

COASTAL ROADS CLOSED

Atlanta, Ga., July 8 (AP).—Fourth corps area headquarters today ordered several North Carolina coastal roads closed to night traffic because of evidence that recent submarine sinkings along the coast "were assisted by lights from motor vehicles."

The highways were ordered closed to all thru traffic except on such parts as are included within the bounds of municipalities. Provision is made for egress and ingress of all bona fide residents living on or adjacent to the highways, but those entitled to drive the roads at night are expected to use parking lights and not go more than 15 miles an hour.

Similar regulations apply to two Florida east coast roads.

LA GUARDIA PUT ON DEFENSE BY BLACK-OUT ROW

New York, July 8 [Special].—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia today attempted to defend his permitting flagrant violation of air raid regulations Monday night during the practice blackout of New York City by saying he knew there were no enemy planes overhead. He and high police officials present allowed fans to light up cigarets and cigars after the All-Star baseball game in the Polo Grounds, he added, as part of their plan to avert a panic. The mayor admitted he ordered the black-out with knowledge the game was to be played that night.

Army officials pointed out yesterday that the lighting of matches out of doors is strictly banned because the flame can be seen by flyers thousands of feet above.

The crowd was caught in the Polo Grounds by the black-out after the start of the game had been held up for an hour because of weather. The game ended only a minute before the black-out, and there was not time to permit the crowd to leave.

In addition to defending himself, La Guardia criticized the manner in which the violation of regulations was reported in the press. He complained he did not receive "the help and cooperation other mayors get from their press."

HEARING LEAVES EDITOR OF PM IN 1-A DRAFT CLASS

Board, in Effect, Rejects Ingersoll Charge.

New York, July 8 [Special].—Ralph M. Ingersoll, editor-publisher of the tabloid newspaper PM, was kept in classification 1-A by his draft board after a rehearing last night, Ingersoll was notified today.

The rehearing was held at the request of Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York City director of selective service, following an appeal by Marshall Field, owner of PM. Field contended that Ingersoll was indispensable to PM.

Chairman Walter H. Mallory of Local Board No. 44 transmitted the decision to McDermott without comment. Col. McDermott's only comment was a reiteration of Mallory's and his previous attitude that "it still is standard practice not to try selective service cases in the newspapers."

Reject Ingersoll Charge.

The board's new action in effect rejected Ingersoll's charge that it was prejudiced and that his induction had been ordered as a move to kill PM.

Ingersoll charged yesterday in a 6,000 word open letter to the board covering pages 2, 3, and 4 of PM that the board was serving the interests of his and PM's enemies, whom he cataloged as enemies of the nation.

The letter suggested that the local board step aside and permit "a less prejudiced" board to pass on his case. While maintaining that he was making no appeal for deferment or other special favors, he also suggested it was a "wise practice" to order a six month deferment for executives in business positions similar to his.

10 Days for Appeal.

Selective service officials said that Ingersoll and Field now have 10 days in which to file a formal appeal on the basis of indispensability. No witnesses are called in cases before an appeals board, the reviewing body making its decision solely on the record. No further appeal is possible.

One other possible course of action is an appeal by Ingersoll on the basis of dependency. Ingersoll said a former wife and an old family servant are dependent on him, but he has stated repeatedly he will not make such a deferment claim. In such a case, however, appeal to President Roosevelt is possible in the event of a split decision by an appeals board.

Ingersoll was classified 1-A on June 17 and was called for induction June 24. A last minute telegram from Field for further consideration of the case halted the induction.

Gen. Eisenhower Received by King of Great Britain

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the United States army in the European theater, had an audience with King George VI. of Great Britain at Buckingham palace today. It was announced only that it lasted "for some time."

WAR STAMP CORSAGE DAY TOMORROW; NEW BOUQUETS ARE READY

Tomorrow will be National Corsage day in stores, theaters, and war savings booths thruout the United States. War stamp corsages originated in the Chicago war savings staff office of the treasury department and have swept the country.

The first corsage of three trillium-like flowers of three 10 cent stamps each has been declared "wilted" and the component stamps pasted in albums. Like the first corsage, the new one contains nine 10 cent stamps and sells for $1, the extra dime covering the cost of material and labor. Each cellophane covered stamp in the new corsage blossoms on a stem of its own with gay red, white, and blue loops fluffing out above the bouquet.

Nine 10 cent stamps are clustered smoothly around a tiny red, white, and blue cockade in the men's boutonierre, which also sells for $1. Both the corsages and the boutonierres are sold without profit. Harry Perlman of the war savings staff designed the corsages and is chairman of the committee for their distribution and sale.

CHANDLER'S POOL UNDER SCRUTINY OF WPB SLEUTH

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—A War Production board spokesman said today the WPB would investigate the construction of a swimming pool for Sen. Albert B. [Happy] Chandler [D.,Ky.] "if any circumstances are presented to show priorities orders were violated."

The senate committee investigating the defense program sent its chief investigator, Matthew J. Connelly, to Kentucky yesterday for an inquiry which Chairman Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] said was asked first by Chandler and then by John Young Brown, Lexington, Ky., who is opposing Chandler for Democratic renomination.

NAZIS CAPTURE STARYI OSKOL FROM RUSSIANS

Reds Retreat Before New German Attacks.

ing cities ahead of their line of advance in an effort to spread panic in the Russian rear, clutter the roads with refugees, and confuse Red army communications. Front line cities were subjected to fierce raids, with civilian quarters suffering many dead and wounded and great damage.

There was every indication, however, that the Red army was maintaining order in the face of this violent offensive.

Cavalry Retakes Town.

In the counterattacks cavalry played a striking rôle. One unit of horsemen reported it had burned 12 enemy tanks and killed 500 troops in recapturing an inhabited point. The Red air force, in formations of 15 to 20 low flying "Stormers," was bombing German concentrations of tanks and troops, dispatches said.

On the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow sharp but local combat developed in several sectors where the Germans had concentrated reserves. Alternate successes were reported with no important change in positions.

Claim Salient Widened.

BERLIN, July 8 [from German broadcasts] — (AP).— The encirclement and capture of numerous soviet troops northwest of Voronezh in enlarging a German salient in that general district and the surrounding of strong Russian forces on the Rzhev front, west of Moscow, were reported today by the German high command.

Russian counterattacks northwest of Voronezh failed, but the Russians continued to attack to the northwest in the Orel sector after being repulsed in fierce fighting that brought strong German aerial forces into use, a communique said.

[The general picture as described by the Nazis thus portrays the Germans as broadening the spearhead they have thrust from Kharkov and Kursk about 120 miles eastward to Voronezh and 300 miles south of Moscow, while the Russians are doggedly counterattacking on the north and northwest flank in an effort to smash thru and cut off the advanced German forces. Rzhev is on the upper Volga river and a railway 130 miles west of Moscow.]

Twenty soviet tanks were captured in the Rzhev area, the communique said.

WAR PLANTS BAR FORMER SOLDIERS, BRITON CHARGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8. — Charges that men discharged from the fighting services for physical unfitness were refused jobs in aircraft and munitions factories were made in the house of commons today by Maj. Goronwy Owen, Liberal. He said man power boards had ordered that all replacements in such factories be women.

"Is this an indication of how ex-servicemen are going to be treated after this war if they are now treated in this shabby fashion?" Owen asked.

Malcolm McCorquodale, parliamentary secretary of the Labor ministry, refused to accept the allegations but agreed to make inquiries to determine if these men were compelled to accept jobs beyond their physical capacity and therefore would be eligible for lighter work normally reserved for women.

SARACOGLU, TURKEY'S FOREIGN MINISTER, MAY BE NEW PREMIER

ANKARA, Turkey, July 8 (AP).—Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, who has played a leading rôle in negotiating pacts with both Germany and Great Britain since the war began, was widely mentioned tonight as the most likely successor to Premier Refik Saydam, 61 years old, who died last night in Istanbul after a heart attack.

The death of Saydam, premier since January, 1939, will result in no change in Turkey's foreign or home policy, informed sources predicted.

Dr. Ahmet Fikri Tuzer, interior minister, became acting premier pending the naming of the new government chief. The procedure is for the president to place his choice before the grand national assembly for acceptance.

NEED O. K. BY U. S. ON RESURFACING OF STATE ROADS

Springfield, Ill., July 8 (AP).—Illinois must obtain federal approval for its 1942 program to resurface 200 miles of highways with bituminous materials because of new wartime restrictions on use of asphalt and tar products, Wesley W. Polk, chief state highway engineer, said today.

Polk said contracts already had been let for most of the bituminous resurfacing program and that speedy approval by the United States Public Roads administration would be sought.

State highway engineers meeting with district officials of the Public Roads administration and engineers from Indiana, Kentucky, and Michigan were told yesterday that use of road oil would be banned as a fuel saving measure.

The road oil ban, Polk said, probably would have little effect this year because most of the oil operations by county, city, and township highway officials already have been completed. The state uses comparatively little road oil, he added.

URGES PRIORITIES ON SAFETY HELPS FOR WAR PLANTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—High priority ratings for industrial health and safety equipment were urged today by Francis B. Murphy, director of labor for Illinois, at a conference of labor directors and commissioners called by the department of labor.

Daniel Tracy, assistant secretary of labor, who presided in the absence of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, voiced approval of the recommendation which was supported by the labor representatives of 16 industrial states.

Murphy, who is also chairman of the war labor standards board of Chicago, said that the need for health and safety precautions has grown tremendously with the expansion of war industries. Operators of war industries should be given higher priority ratings on such items as machine guards, sheet metal for ventilators, motors for blowers, other safety devices and sanitary facilities, he asserted.

GEN. SHORT DOING PRIVATE WORK AT FORD PLANT

Detroit, Mich., July 8.—Ford Motor company officials said today that Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, former commander of the Hawaiian department of the United States army, has been making a traffic survey in a private capacity at the Ford plant here, but asserted that "he is not now connected with the Ford Motor company." Further comment on Short's activities was withheld.

Short was relieved of his command after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and on Feb. 28 his application for retirement from the army was granted, with $6,000 a year retirement pay. At that time the war and navy departments announced that he and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, former commander of the fleet, would be courtmartialed on charges of dereliction of duty at "such time as the public interest and safety permits."

JOIN NAVY AND SEE WORLD GO DRY FOR ARMY

Sacramento, Cal., July 8 (AP).—Soldiers in Sacramento can be served liquor only between 6 p. m. and 10 p. m., while sailors can stand up to the bar and get anything they want as long as the place is open.

"That is causing all kinds of friction," George Reilly, member of the state board of equalization, reported today. "The soldiers have to drink beer after 10 p. m., and they don't like it when sailors taunt them with, 'Why don't you join the navy?'"

There are feminine complications, too.

"If the soldier has a girl friend," Reilly added, "she quits the army at 10 o'clock and goes over to the navy."

TELLS POSSIBLE PLAN TO ENGAGE MAIN JAP FLEET

Need Bases Near Nippon, Says British Expert.

Charlottesville, Va., July 8 (AP).—An over-all strategy of defeating Japan by forcing its main fleet into action and conquering Germany thru an invasion of Europe was outlined as a promising possibility today by Brig. G. K. Bourne of the British joint staff mission in Washington, D. C.

The high staff officer outlined considerations confronting the united nations' war planners in an address before the University of Virginia's institute of public affairs. He refrained for military reasons from defining any specific courses of action adopted thus far.

He observed that the Japanese fleet can always avoid the ultimate battle until allied bombers are based within operating distances of it.

He said a "permanent invasion" of Europe never had been attempted and noted that even at the height of his power after the fall of France Hitler refrained from the "uncalculated risks" involved in an invasion of Britain.

Stresses Rôle of Bases.

"No military offensive is sound," he said, "unless it is launched from a firm and secure base."

Turning to the Pacific, he said Japan had the advantage of fighting on interior lines and had skilfully arranged successive advances in a way which ever gave Nipponese sea forces the advantage of protection from land based aircraft. This procedure the allies may have to follow in their own offensive against the Japanese, he added.

Bourne said Japan is virtually secure from attack from all quarters except Siberia. He added that it may be that the Japs will feel it necessary to eliminate that danger source before attempting a further advance.

Holds Japan Vulnerable.

Japan is vulnerable, nevertheless, he said, and depends upon her fleet for protection, as does England. The question then is one of forcing the main Japanese fleet into action and not one of surface actions between battle squadrons. He added:

"Until American bomber forces can be placed within operating distances of the Japanese main fleet you probably will get within striking distance of their main fleet only when the Japanese command either decides to risk it or makes a major blunder—as avoiding action in this vast area is a simple matter."

He said that the first essentials of grand strategy were continued and increasing assistance to Russia and the defense of Britain against Nazi seizure. The latter entails an intensification of the war against submarines in the Atlantic.

Germany or Japan First?

"The big question then arises," he said, "and which it is the duty of our combined chiefs of staff to decide: 'Which main enemy we should concentrate on to defeat first—Germany or Japan?'

"The vital theater which we must hold at all costs is that which contains our two industrial bases, the United Kingdom and North America, and the great sea route running between them.

"A great defeat in this area—for example if Britain were successfully invaded—would more severely cripple our united power to continue the war than a comparable defeat in any other area. From this point of view, therefore, it must be the first plank in our defensive strategy to defend the British Isles and to pursue the anti-U-boat campaign with increasing vigor.

"But this is no reason for deciding to concentrate on the defeat of Germany before Japan. Potentially she has greater power to wage war than Japan and can be considered the stronger partner. Is it sound strategy to attack the stronger partner, or will it be better to weaken her by cutting down the weaker first?"

Nazis Warn Frenchmen of Death for Aid to 'Chutists

VICHY, France, July 8 (AP).—German authorities in Paris issued a warning today that death is the penalty for any one in the occupied zone who gives aid "in any manner whatever to any member of an enemy airplane crew or enemy parachutist." At the same time, rewards were promised to any Frenchmen reporting the descent of parachutists or the presence of British or American planes which might make forced landings or be shot down.

Wartime Housing Shocking in Scotland, Commons Told

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—The house of commons turned to a discussion of public health, housing, and education problems today and received first hand accounts of wartime conditions in Scotland.

The Rev. James Barr, Laborite, described housing conditions as shocking and reported instances of families of 9 and 11 being crowded into one room with as many as 5 persons sleeping in one bed.

Aerial bombings disclosed that many buildings constructed under the government's housing plan consisted of 1 part cement to 13 parts of sand, another parliament member said. He suggested that in one instance alone "maybe two dozen persons would not be dead today if a stronger mortar of 1 to 5 ratio had been specified."

Diphtheria Deaths Reported.

Thomas Johnston, secretary of state for Scotland, said that diphtheria had taken the lives of 428 children among 8,000 who had contracted the disease. There was only one death among 1,000 children who had been immunized. Deaths of infants increased from 68 to 83 a thousand from 1938 to 1941.

Johnston explained how following the arrival of a ship from Bombay on May 24 with one case of smallpox aboard, a number of such cases had developed in Clyde. Ten were found to be traceable to the ship despite quarantine and other precautions including vaccination of all passengers and crew members.

Juvenile Delinquency Gains.

Smallpox caused four deaths among 33 cases, 20 of which had never been vaccinated while the 13 others had not been vaccinated since infancy, he added.

Juvenile delinquency has increased alarmingly in Scotland during the war, Johnston reported. An increase of 22 per cent—3,400 cases over the last prewar year—he attributed largely to such wartime conditions as the lessening of parental control, the blackout, and relaxing of school discipline.

He reported 6,752 prosecutions for theft and 2,883 for housebreaking, these two crimes alone accounting for half of the total number of convictions of young people.

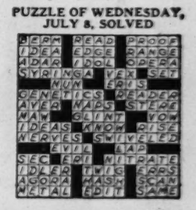
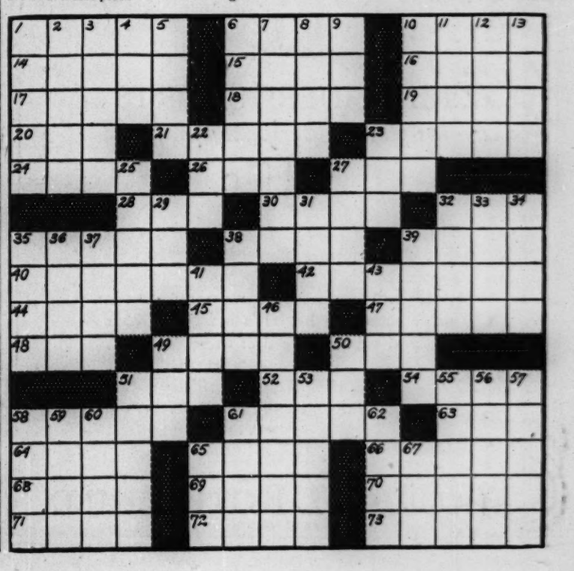
PUZZLE OF WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, SOLVED





CHINESE BATTLE TO SAVE 2 VITAL RAILWAY TOWNS

Fight Japs' Drive to Link Shanghai to Singapore.

CHUNGKING, China, July 8 (AP).—The fight for China has gone into a new phase with battles swirling around two railway line towns southwest of Nanchang where the Japanese have struck toward Hunan province in a bid for control of the second vital link of an overland rail system to link Shanghai to Singapore, the Chinese high command disclosed tonight.

A communique said invasion columns which drove to Fengchang and Changshu, 30 and 45 miles southwest of the Kiangsi provincial capital, failed to outflank Chinese positions and were engaged in a battle with heavy casualties on both sides.

A Central News dispatch said Japanese spearheads penetrated both towns but had been surrounded.

Seek to Ease Shipping Load.

The Japanese seemed launched upon a new effort to storm westward into Hunan, where they were beaten back previously.

A clear route, at least across the southeastern third of the province, would be needed to advance their plan to ease the load on their coastal shipping by winning a complete north-south rail system.

Already in Japanese hands are rail connections from Corea and Manchukuo thru Shanghai to Hangchow. Attacking from Hangchow thru Chekiang province and from Nanchang thru eastern Kiangse province, the Japanese in the last month have won all but a bitterly contested 25 mile segment of the first rail line needed to complete such a system.

U. S. Flyers Still Inactive.

The new drive is aimed along a 230 mile second loop extending from Nanchang to a juncture with the Canton rail line south of Changsha in Hunan province.

The Japanese also have tried pushing north from Canton toward that juncture. From a branch of the Canton line the invaders would have to build a last link of 300 miles to join with communications thru French Indo-China, Thailand, and Malaya to Singapore.

For the second successive day, a communique from Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters said there had been no further United States air action in China. Unfavorable weather was blamed for the inactivity from July 5 thru July 7.

The Central News reported "allied aircraft" had made their second attack this month on the big Japanese base at Canton on July 6.

A FOURTH SURVIVOR OF BATTLE CRUISER HOOD IS DISCOVERED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—A fourth survivor of the sinking of the battle cruiser Hood was discovered today when Jack C. R. Silk, a former stoker on the Hood, pleaded guilty to using a false name and identity card and to deserting from the navy. Official figures have listed the names of only three survivors.

Silk, one of the Hood's crewmen listed as missing, said he was aboard the warship when it was blown up and sunk by the German battleship Bismarck, May 24, 1941. He testified that he had reached a raft and drifted for three days before being picked up by a trawler. Silk said he landed at Liverpool but never reported himself as a survivor.

He was ordered held by the court until July 15 pending further investigation of his case.

BRITISH RESUME NIGHT RAIDS ON NAZI TARGETS

LONDON, July 9—[Thursday]—(AP).—Royal air force bombers attacked targets in Germany during the night, it was stated authoritatively today, after being grounded for five straight nights.

The latest raid, details of which were not immediately announced, was the second on Germany this month. Bremen was attacked last Thursday night.

In offensive-defensive operations, two German bombers were reported destroyed by British "intruder" pilots over German occupied territory during the night.

On the home front, the government said that "during the hours of darkness there was nothing to report."

Council Fixes $200 Fine for Damaging War Garden

"Don't tread on that victory garden, mister—there's a law against it." If you are a victory garden grower you can shout that at trespassers. Yesterday, at the request of George T. Donoghue, director of victory gardens for the Chicago metropolitan area, the council enacted an ordinance providing a maximum fine of $200 for any one who destroys or damages a victory garden, and a maximum fine of $50 for trespassers.

Roosevelt and Soong Buy U.S. Stamp Honoring China

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt and T. V. Soong, China's foreign minister, today purchased the first of the new 5 cent stamps commemorating five years of Chinese resistance to Japanese aggression. Postmaster General Frank C. Walker sold them the stamps in the President's office. They are the first American stamps on which a foreign language appears. The stamp bears the pictures of Abraham Lincoln and Sun Yat Sen, first president of the Chinese republic; a map of China before Japan began slicing off parts in 1894; a sun, the official symbol of the Chinese revolution, and some inscriptions.

FLY FIVE MILLION MILES TO SUPPLY U.S. PACIFIC ARMY

Air Transport Service Plays Vital Role.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 8 (AP).—The United States army air transport service was disclosed today to have flown 5,000,000 miles in the last five months to rush vital equipment and personnel to strategic points on the Australian front.

This is a service where things often must be done in a hurry. Yet only one plane has been lost, that by an accident.

In one instance, the service was called on to transport a complete artillery battery—men, guns, equipment, and ammunition—to a vital area hundreds of miles away. The haul involved 500,000 pounds. The planes landed the battery in small balanced units with guns and ammunition ready for instant action.

When the United States and Filipino forces were hard pressed on Bataan, the service flew a transport to the Philippines with quinine and other medical supplies.

Serve as Ambulances, Too.

Returning from their trips the planes often serve both as flying ambulances, bringing home wounded men, and as cargo carriers, hauling back airplane engines and other equipment needing repair. One plane carried 300 tons of supplies 2,000 miles in one month.

Most of the aircraft are a special type of American transport plane converted from former air liners. They are adapted to carry guns, engines, and propellers lashed under the fuselage and have fittings for ambulance litters. Many Australian planes also are being used under charter.

The head of the service is Brig. Gen. Rush B. Lincoln of the United States army air force.

No Action in South Pacific.

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 9 [Thursday]—(AP).—The allied communique today reported merely that "activity in all sectors was limited to reconnaissance."

TRUCKING OF U. S. WAR GOODS THRU CANADA IN BOND TO BE DISCUSSED

OTTAWA, Ont., July 8 (AP).—Revenue Minister C. W. Gibson announced today that a conference will be held with United States officials to consider requests for permission for the duration of the war to move United States war supplies thru Canada by truck, in bond.

Gibson's statement did not mention any specific part of Canada which might be affected if such permission were granted, but presumably the principal area would be the Niagara peninsula.

United States trucking interests for some years have been seeking unsuccessfully the right to truck goods in bond across the peninsula, the shortest route between Detroit and eastern American cities.

New Soviet Envoy to Japan Presents His Credentials

It's a Long Trip in Lisbon —Just to the Boat!

but futile visits to the Egyptian consulate. No word came from Cairo and the consul stood firm; he would give no visa without an order from his minister. I had the American legation in Lisbon cable the American legation in Cairo in an attempt to find my "credentials." It required a reply from American Minister Alexander Kirk himself, plus two letters of recommendation from the American legation at Lisbon, before the Egyptian consul softened and at noon June 5 gave me my visa.

Then more battles and all this time a struggle for transport.

Luckily we had arranged with other passport offices to open up at exceptional hours for my benefit. At the British passport control a young Portuguese doorman said:

"It is afternoon, nobody's here, and you can't get in."

Might Makes Right for Once.

"But I've telephoned and have an appointment for this hour and if I miss my boat tomorrow——," I said.

"That's O. K. with me, you can get another boat, but you can't get in here," was his answer.

It was a question of forcible entry and I got my visa, but that zealous doorman had wasted precious minutes and I risked finding the Belgian consulate closed.

I made that just in time and had only to wrestle with Portuguese control officers and steamship clerks. There is one advantage there—they are touchy about crude bribes but will gladly accept a package of 50 American cigarets and see that your papers get thru.

Finally, Everything Is Set.

At 6:30 o'clock that evening, after a battle which began at 11 a. m., I stood triumphant with all my visas and passage on a boat sailing at 4 p. m. the next day. The British press officer told me it was a miracle; that he had never seen one of the many journalists who had passed thru Lisbon get away so fast.

There was the last ordeal of actually setting foot on the boat. Arriving an hour before sailing time, I found a howling mob around the gangplank and police who separated the sheep from the goats. The former were Portuguese and they went on board. The goats were the foreigners, who had to stand for two hours in a steam bath - atmosphere, wedged into a screaming, smelly mob which pushed us forward to the police line, which in turn shoved us back.

The foreign women passengers wept and children became hysterical. I have never seen people treated that way, except possibly the refugees in Poland in the darkest days of the war. All this was because the Portuguese police had failed to bring our passports, which they already had seen, and visas to the boat. We were not allowed to embark before the passports arrived.

For His Bed, a Pantry Shelf.

On board I found myself with three Portuguese officials in a cabin about half the size of an American kitchenette. For sleeping I got a board about as wide as a pantry shelf and a mattress. The substance of which that mattress was made still arouses my curiosity. It was a mystery. Certainly it was not granite, nor cast iron, nor reënforced concrete, because I have slept on all of those and they were not as hard as the mattress.

On board the Angola I took stock and felt reasonably sure that I had not overlooked anything, especially sufficient money. Money provides an unceasing headache, with currency regulations varying according to government fancy. If you do not have enough money with you—and in usable form—you risk being stranded somewhere and having a week elapse before relief can reach you. If you take too much you risk having the excess confiscated when you cross borders or at least of finding that the kind of money you have no longer is any good and you are unable to exchange it.

Finds Swiss Money Best.

The best general device is a letter of credit, but even that is subject to hazards if it is not established in currency exchangeable everywhere. No longer is the American dollar an open sesame all over the world. The best generally valuable money is the Swiss franc.

In the whirl of my attempts to get visas and tickets I had been unable to get a letter of credit established—a procedure which takes at least two days. But I was satisfied that I had enough money to take me thru the Congo. It was an unjustified confidence and here in Leopoldville I have had to send for more but fortunately the Belgian Congo admits dollars freely and pays out promptly.

We reached Funchal, Madeira Islands, on June 8 and were greeted by a presidential salute of 21 guns for Francisco Machado, minister of Portuguese colonies, who was sailing with a commission to establish himself in the colonies if necessary and exercise sovereign powers in case he should be cut off from the homeland—so in a certain sense he really was one head of the state.

From Funchal we had 11 days at sea with only occasional glimpses of the low lying foggy coast of west Africa. We stopped at the Portuguese Island of Saint Thomas—Sao Thome—on the equator.

More Red Tape on the Congo.

The village of Saint Thomas was gayly decorated in honor of Machado. One general store showed appreciation of the cosmopolitan character of the ship's passengers by displaying all its flags. Along with the British, French, Belgian, Portuguese, and Spanish flags it had the Italian emblem and the Nazi swastika. Beside the swastika floated the Stars and Stripes with 11 stripes and about 33 stars, as far as I was able to count.

Two afternoons later the ship labored thru a swirl of yellowish green water and among marshy islands to the mouth of the Congo river. Belgian officials came on board and wanted to know where my medical certificate was. After more arguing, an official said I should have been told to get one at Lisbon but that he would let me land anyway.

On a little tug we struggled thru three hours of darkness simply to cross the mouth of the Congo and land on the Belgian side at a hamlet called Banana.

The next day we spent seven hours on the tug as it labored against the Congo current. During the whole day, aside from a few Negroes in canoes, the only sign of life was a few low buildings on an island. The rest was an impenetrable tangle of vegetation.

That night, at Boma, the medical certificate haunted me again when I was informed that I must have it to be "immatriculated" in the Congo but again the official was indulgent and gave me the proper papers, saying a medical certificate was only a formality.

Another Certificate Is Needed.

It was another full day of the same kind of travel we arrived at Matadi and then another day to reach Leopoldville.

I thought I had cleared all the hurdles and would simply climb on a plane for Khartum. A British official quickly disillusioned me. He was not interested in the Belgian medical certificate; he wanted a special one for vaccination against yellow fever.

I did not have it? Well, I would have to get it and then wait thru three weeks of quarantine before I would be permitted to enter the Sudan or even board a plane going in that direction.

So here I am. I have been vaccinated but my quarantine does not expire until July 20. Meanwhile, I can only listen to radio bulletins of the fighting on the Egyptian front and draw a moral for the benefit of all travelers today. It is this: When you think you have foreseen all the headaches and obstacles which the military and civil authorities today can put in your way, you can be sure that there are others you have not even imagined.

BRITISH LEAVE A GIFT FOR ROMMEL: FISH OIL IN WELLS OF DESERT

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP).—Fishy water, so unpalatable that no stomach can stand it, was all the British left behind for the Germans to drink on the western desert.

This was the result of fish oil methodically poured into the wells at all oases. Altho German engineers may have cleaned the wells by now and made the water drinkable, it will keep its lingering taste of fish for months.

Because water sources on the desert, altho scarce are virtually indestructible, this method has supplanted former efforts to blow up the wells. Where a well is blasted the enemy can get palatable water within 24 hours by digging a new one nearby.

EGYPT HOLDING, PACIFIC COUNCIL TOLD AT PARLEY

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The situation in Egypt, and its relationship to operations in other theaters of the war, received a major share of attention at a meeting of the Pacific war council today at the White House.

Council members, representing the eight united nations actively engaged in warfare in the Pacific, noted that the allied forces apparently were holding in Egypt, at least for the time being, and they took encouragement from that.

Walter Nash, New Zealand's minister to the United States, told reporters the council studied just what was happening in Egypt.

"The situation is, we're holding," he added, "and that is good. I do not know whether it is permanent, but it is infinitely better than it was a fortnight ago."

DAVIS TO SIFT WAR NEWS IN EFFORT TO END MUDDLES

All Releases Will Pass Thru His Office.

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Elmer Davis is completing plans for the Office of War Information to control the issuance of government press releases concerning the war effort, his associates said tonight, and when necessary to issue statements under its own name to clarify any situations which might become muddled by conflicting utterances of officials or private individuals.

Davis, former radio news commentator picked by President Roosevelt to head the new agency, is expected to issue his first major organizational order next week and to announce his top aids, said the associates, who preferred not to be quoted by name.

Past Conflicts Noted.

Some conflicts of opinion in the past—on the necessity for nationwide gasoline rationing, for instance, or on whether sugar supplies warrant increased rations—have created confusion and tended to undermine public confidence in the course of action finally approved.

In such cases OWI intends to obtain information from all the agencies involved, arrive at the best conclusion possible and present it as the government's view, even tho its finding might conflict with that of an agency or an official.

MacLeish to Plan.

Under present plans virtually all releases concerning the war effort except those of the war, navy, and state departments and the White House will funnel thru a central OWI news desk. There they will be checked for accuracy.

Davis has made no official announcement of his selection of key figures but the names of several have filtered out. Archibald MacLeish, formerly head of the Office of Facts and Figures, will be in charge of a policy and planning bureau, it was understood, and will have as a major task the weighing of public opinion and the counteracting of enemy propaganda.

PERMIT VOTED ON SIX MOVABLE SPANS FOR NAVY

The city council yesterday enacted an ordinance which permits Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to contract with the army for the reconstruction of six bridges on the south branch of the Chicago river. The navy department has asked that the bridges, now fixed spans, be made movable so craft constructed here can be moved down the Illinois waterway. Mayor Kelly has been assured that the war department will pay the city the cost of reconstruction, maintenance and operation for one year.

Lodge, After Africa Trip, Freed from Active Duty

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.], army major who saw active service with United States tank forces in Africa, was ordered returned to inactive status by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, it was disclosed today. Stimson wrote Lodge that he was ordering a change in status because he believed Lodge had "gained a knowledge and understanding of military and strategic considerations which will greatly enhance your usefulness to the country as a United States senator." Lodge is running for reëlection this fall.

BRITISH HAMMER AT GEN. ROMMEL'S SEA SUPPLY LINE

Patrols and Flyers Knife Camped Land Forces.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP).—The British defenders of Egypt resorted to desert patrol and air actions today against the bivouacked axis forces west of El Alamein, but the great decision apparently was in the making in aerial battles as far away as the mid-Mediterranean Isle of Malta.

There were indications that the supplies which Marshal Erwin Rommel needs to resume his march into Egypt were being harassed in transit overseas from Italy, and the ports of entry in Libya were being methodically bombed by the allies.

The British communique issued tonight told of continuing enemy air attacks on Malta, and these intensified blows apparently were designed to counteract British attacks on axis convoys supplying Rommel's desert armies.

Save Six Fighter Pilots.

The communique said that British fighter planes shot down eight axis planes, three bombers, and five fighters, in the last 24 hours. In the Malta operations and the desert warfare combined eight British fighters were lost, with six of the pilots saved.

In addition to the indicated long range attacks on axis convoys at sea and in African ports such as Tobruk and Bengazi, the allied aerial forces were striking Rommel in the positions he has taken by curving his southern flank like a fishhook, with the shank on the seashore west of Alamein and the point around to the southwest above the Quattara depression.

Allied Air Forces Stronger.

The allied air forces—American, Australian, South African, and British—are in a stronger position now than when the present campaign began six weeks ago, the RAF disclosed.

In the 42 days, it was announced 134 axis planes were shot down in air combat for certain, more than 100 more were destroyed on the ground and 50 by anti-aircraft defenses. The number of planes listed as probably shot down runs into the hundreds more.

During the same period 110 allied flyers were listed as missing—figures corresponding only roughly to plane losses because many planes shot down have been repaired and are flying again.

Since Nov. 18, 1941, more than 483 axis aircraft have been shot down for certain in the western desert alone, while those listed as probably destroyed run into the thousands. This does not include axis losses over Malta.

Claim Heavy British Losses.

BERLIN, July 8 [from German broadcast]—(AP).—The British suffered heavy losses in attacks against the southern wing of the German-Italian forward position southwest of El Alamein, the high command said today.

Attacks Two Italian Cities.

ROME, July 8 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italian communique said today that in numerous air combats on the Egyptian front nine British aircraft were shot down. "Over Malta, Italian-German formations renewed their attacks on the air and navy base and inflicted on the RAF a loss of 14 aircraft." The Italians admitted a loss of three planes.

"During the night of July 7 the enemy dropped several bombs in the zone of Messina and Reggio Calabria," the high command said. The two are sister cities on the Strait of Messina.

Shorts as Working Garb Get Egypt's Divided Vote

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP).—Shorts were approved today as working garb for employés of the Egyptian ministry of social affairs—but the ministry of commerce workers had no such luck. Commerce Minister Mahmoud Soliman said he considered them undignified.

NAVY TO RETAIN CLUB BUILDING IF SOLD TO COUNTY

The 820 North Michigan avenue building, formerly occupied by the Illinois Women's Athletic club, which the county board has ordered foreclosed for unpaid taxes, is partly occupied by the navy for a midshipman's school, county officials reported yesterday. The county has no intention of asking the navy department to vacate the building if the 16 story structure should be acquired for the back taxes of $509,583, officials said. The building has been operated by a receiver under direction of the Superior court since 1934 when mortgage holders foreclosed and acquired the property from the Women's Athletic club.

FRANCE TO HAVE A HAND IN WAR, PEACE: DE GAULLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—France's part in the war and the peace was emphasized tonight by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, "Free French" leader, in a broadcast to America inaugurating "Free France" week.

"We are convinced that if the war and the peace are to be won they will be won with France," he said, declaring also that the Germans have won only temporary success in overthrowing France and that the country will yet "be an essential element in the decisive battles."

"The mind and soul of France," he maintained, "still have a place in the camp of liberty."

School Board Appropriates for Building Maintenance

The Chicago board of education yesterday approved the expenditure of $79,439 for cleaning, painting, and decorating 44 schools, $38,095 for alterations and minor improvements in 45 schools and several bureaus, and $18,222 for alterations on the old building of the Westcott school to provide housing for students to be transferred from the Vocational school.

EGYPT'S WEATHER COOLER IN JULY, BUT THERE'S AN ILL WIND

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP). — The weather is getting seasonally cooler in the Nile valley and on the western desert battlefront, with daytime temperatures now ranging from 90 to 110 degrees Fahrenheit.

Oddly, July is cooler usually than May and June when the mercury sometimes hits a maximum of 130. From the daytime high of 110, the temperature drops as low as 70 in the July nights and it is positively chilly in the desert dawn.

Personal comfort depends largely on the wind which usually blows for 50 days at a time, bowling irritating dust clouds across the wastes of the desert. Under tribal laws, if the hot, dusty "khamseen" blows longer than 50 days, as it occasionally does, the Bedouins are permitted to kill one of their wives. As for the Egyptian weather generally, it hasn't changed much since Herodotus complained about it 2,500 years ago.

RESCUE POLAND FROM THE NAZIS, AMERICA URGED

[By Wireless to the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 8.—An ardent plea for active steps to prevent the complete extermination of the Polish nation under Adolf Hitler's rule was read yesterday at a meeting of the Polish national council by Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk. The appeal came from leaders of the underground patriot movement in Poland.

The document read by the vice premier asked for strong action by the allied governments, particularly the United States and Britain. Germany should know that she will pay dearly for these persecutions, it said. The Vatican also, it adds, should more forcefully defend the nations under German domination.

Three million Poles and Jews, nearly 10 per cent of the entire population, have become victims of the Nazis, the report said. It added that 200,000 Poles and 300,000 Jews were executed or murdered outright, 500,000 deported to Germany for forced labor, 170,000 compulsorily recruited into the German army, and many thousands thrown into concentration camps. These figures exclude Poles and Jews who died of starvation and disease.

Reprisal Toll Now 100 to 1.

The death rate has risen from 6 per 1,000 before the war to 14 and has reached 24 per 1,000 among the Jews. The birth rate has fallen 50 per cent.

In 1939 the Germans announced that for every German killed 10 Poles would be shot. Now it is 100 Poles for every German killed or injured. In one town 200 persons were executed, including four women, in reprisal for the death of two Germans.

Vice Premier Mikolajczyk has corroborated the information that reached London recently concerning the Jewish massacres, the report said.

At Lwow, where 30,000 were killed, the Jewish council was compelled to present to the Gestapo [German secret police] a list of those to be executed. Polish girls to the number of 1,471 were deported to Germany.

Terrorism Sweeps Land.

As usual, before the opening of a new German offensive, a wave of terrorism swept Poland last spring. This also was attributable to the fact that the Germans were feeling less sure of themselves, the underground reports said.

The extent of the German fear is seen in the fact that armed German civilians have the right to shoot on sight in self-defense.

Transport thruout the land is deplorable, the report added. German soldiers march hundreds of miles before taking trains to the east. Lack of man power was given as one reason for the recruiting of Poles.

American Ship Grounded Off South Africa Sinks

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 8 (AP).—South African naval authorities today announced that a 5,500 ton United States vessel which went aground near Dassen Island, off the Cape of Good Hope, in a fog yesterday had sunk while being towed toward port. The crew was saved. The vessel's name was not disclosed. [In Washington, D. C., the navy department described the ship only as a merchant vessel.]

Briton Sells Horse Meat in Wrong Shop; Fined

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 8.—For exposing horse steaks for sale in a café where ordinary butcher's meat was being sold, Igis Gillespie was fined 20 pounds [$80] at Marleybone court today. Gillespie's lawyer said that some of the defendant's customers "wanted a real meal and preferred to have horseflesh." This is the first prosecution under the horseflesh control and maximum prices order.

17 ARMY FLYERS DAY'S TOLL FOR PLANE CRASHES

Seven Others Injured in Arizona Mishap.

Crashes of three army planes announced yesterday by army air services killed 17 persons and injured 7 others. Nine were killed in a crack-up near Smithfield, N. C., and one man was killed and seven injured in the crash of a bomber in the desert near Tucson, Ariz., both accidents taking place yesterday. A crash Tuesday night near Wendover, Utah, killed three officers and four enlisted men. The army also made public the names of five persons killed in a previously announced crash of a bomber Tuesday near Trenton, Ga. Details follow:

9 Dead in North Carolina.

Smithfield, N. C., July 8 (AP).—Sergt. U. R. Mallard of the state highway patrol said tonight that he believed that nine men were killed in the crash of an army bomber in a cornfield north of here this afternoon.

Parts of the mangled and burned bodies were thrown over such a wide area, he said, that it was virtually impossible to be sure about the number of dead pending an announcement by army authorities. First reports said that seven were killed.

A. D. Stephenson, a farmer, said that he was watching the plane pass overhead in a southwesterly direction when he noticed one of the wings fall off.

"It then crashed with a violent explosion," he said.

Seven Killed in Utah.

Wendover, Utah, July 8 (AP).—Three officers and four enlisted men were killed last night in the crash and burning of their army bomber on Bonneville salt flats, about 10 miles east of here.

First Lieut. Arthur L. Birlofl, Spokane, Wash.
Second Lieut. Van Vanderbie, Los Angeles, Cal.
Pvt. J. R. Swann, Albany, Ga.
Pvt. Kenneth M. Gillies, Jackson, Mich.
Pvt. Eugene P. Holsey, Tulsa, Okla.
Pvt. Homer R. Emswiler, Columbus, O.

One Dead in Arizona.

Hewitt said the money will be used for the following projects: a 36 inch main for the new south side Chrysler plant, $112,000; a main to the city limits for a new war plant beyond the city limits on the northwest side, $158,000; extension to the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, $32,000, and for additional plants and housing projects, $200,000.

Naturalized Italian Held for Added Investigation

Severino Vieceli, 44 years old, was held in $1,500 bonds yesterday by United States Commissioner E. K. Walker for further investigation by federal authorities. Vieceli, a naturalized Italian who lives at 1718 Congress street, was arrested Tuesday as he walked away from two army planes at the Chicago airport. He was carrying a camera. He had no draft card with him but he said he had one at home. Another hearing was set for July 16.

FOREMAN FIXES OLD LATHES AND SPEEDS WAR JOB

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

America's fighting men are armed with hundreds of trench mortars for which they would now be waiting had it not been for the persistence and ingenuity of a Chicago area worker—Felix Sulicz, a shop foreman for the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company.

Sulicz's effort is a good example of the accomplishments which THE TRIBUNE will honor thru monthly awards to war workers for outstanding service to their country. A solid gold lapel button will be given men winners and a similar gold pin will be given women.

When Pullman-Standard got a contract for the trench mortars, Sulicz was assigned to the task of putting in order machines necessary to production. All but three lathes were available—one for rough boring the barrel of a mortar, one for finishing boring, and one for honing the barrel to glossy smoothness.

Long Delay Avoided.

It would have required 18 months to get delivery of new machines—18 months during which no mortars would be produced.

Sulicz got busy. He searched Pullman-Standard's big Chicago plants and found three obsolete lathes which had been dumped on the scrap pile. Then he went thru numerous scrap bins in search of needed parts. And in five months he had the lathes in shape to do the precision work required. Instead of taking 18 months to get new machines, mortars were being shipped in less than a year because of Sulicz's enterprise.

The lathes were first considered by the company to be clever makeshifts which would have to do until new equipment could be obtained. Now, after more than a year of daily service, they are functioning perfectly.

Sulicz lives at 4901 Olcott street, East Chicago. He is married and has five children.

First Award in August.

In other war plants many other workers this month will match Sulicz's achievement and thereby do their part toward helping to win the war. The Tribune award will be made about the 10th of each month on a basis of work done in the preceding month. The first award will be made in August.

Workers in war plants in Illinois and in Lake county, Indiana, and Kenosha and racine counties, Wisconsin, are eligible. Nominations of workers who made an outstanding contribution to the nation's war effort should be sent to the War Workers Award Editor, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Nominations should include all details as to the service performed by the worker. An independent committee will select the individual to be honored. Nominations should be in the hands of the committee by July 31 of possible, but all to be considered for the July award must be in by Aug. 5.

Finger Prints of Berwyn Employes Ordered Taken

Mayor Anton Janura ordered finger prints taken yesterday of all Berwyn municipal employés. The mayor said the finger printing was being done at the suggestion of the federal government that all cities keep finer print record of employés. He was first in line, taking his own prints. Sergt. Charles Rudderham of the Berwyn police detective bureau will take the others.

DROWNS IN WISCONSIN.

Word was received in Chicago yesterday of the drowning of Frank Novak, 33 years old, of Chicago, at Ranch Lake, Wis. The coroner, J. S. Dougherty, said he apparently was seized with cramps after diving from a rowboat.

ORDINANCE APPROVED TELLING WHAT NOT TO DO DURING BLACKOUT

"Dont's" to be followed in an air raid, blackout, or practice air raid or blackout, were approved in ordinance form yesterday by the city council. The ordinance specifies:

1. You may not operate a vehicle unless authorized by the federal government or the Office of Civilian Defense.
2. Do not congregate in the street or on the sidewalk in groups of five or more.
3. Do not loiter in the street.
4. Do not remain outdoors for more than five minutes at a time unless authorized by OCD.
5. Do not operate a siren unless authorized.
6. Do not show a light during a blackout.

The ordinance also specifies that any ordinances which conflict with the blackout ordinance are suspended during the blackout. It provides a penalty of six months in jail or a $200 fine.

DEFENSE COUNCIL WORKERS LAUDED BY GEN. PARKER

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director of the Illinois State Council of Defense and former commander of the 6th corps area of the army, last night commended more than 100 employés of the council and thru them the army of workers thruout the city, county, and state.

"Our experience in each war," he said, "has been to have to expand a small standing army suddenly into an army of millions and it is vital when we do that to have such an army as that commanded by you here at home, that the men in the field may know they are backed up."

Certificates and lapel buttons showing they had taken 30 hour courses in air raid wardenship, first aid, and demolition work and had qualified, were distributed to 87 workers.

Among those who spoke were Capt. William F. Waugh, chairman of the civil protection division of the council, and Mrs. Frederic Upham, co-chairman of the women's division. Gov. Dwight H. Green sent his regrets that he was unable to be present.

Friendly Enemy to Give His Binoculars to Navy

Paul Glass, 909 Agatite avenue, is a friendly enemy alien. This morning he will present his binoculars to the navy in the United State marshal's office, 225 South Clark street. Glass turned in his binoculars to the police department when he registered as a German alien. Since that time he has reclaimed them to give them to the navy for use against his countrymen.

82 MORE ALIENS ARE ROUNDED UP IN DRIVE ON BUND

Group Seized in New York Includes Women.

New York, July 8 (AP).—Eighty-two persons, including a number of women, were arrested tonight by federal agents in the government's far-flung drive to crush the German-American Bund. Of those arrested, 70 were seized in New York and 12 in New Jersey.

The roundup, biggest since the FBI began its drive Tuesday with the seizure of 29 men in coast to coast sorties, brought the number in federal custody to 111. Denaturalization proceedings have been ordered against 24 other alleged bund members.

P. F. Foxworth, head of the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said all those arrested were taken under Presidential warrants issued thru the attorney general's office in Washington.

Foxworth said one of those captured today possessed a complete United States army uniform. He termed all of them "dangerous enemy aliens." All were sent to Ellis Island.

Kunze Bond Set at $50,000.

E. E. Conroy, assistant FBI director in charge of the Newark and New York offices, said at Newark 12 arrests were made tonight in raids thruout New Jersey. Conroy said FBI agents visited the homes of 42 German aliens in 22 towns and had seized firearms, ammunition, radios, photographic equipment, field glasses, and Nazi propaganda.

The bund has been nominally defunct since the outbreak of war between the United States and Germany, but the indictments against those arrested on the first day of the drive alleged a conspiracy continuing from Jan. 1, 1940, to the present.

Charges range from espionage—against Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former national leader of the bund recently captured in Mexico and now held at Hartford, Conn., under $50,000 bond—to evasion of the selective service act and the alien registration act.

One Pleads Guilty.

John August Grill pleaded guilty in New York City late today at his arraignment before Federal Judge George Sweeney, who previously had ordered seven others held in bonds totaling $85,000. The seven pleaded innocent.

Most of those who entered pleas today said they were innocent, including Kunze. Wilbur V. Keegan, counsel for the bund until last January, with offices at Teaneck, N. J., was held at Hartford with Kunze. He was arrested in New Haven last night.

In Cleveland, a plea of innocence was entered by Joseph Belohlavek, bund leader, to an indictment alleging conspiracy to violate the alien registration and selective service acts.

In Minneapolis, Carl Frederick Berg, a school janitor, tried to commit suicide in the city jail after his arrest last night on a New York indictment.

925 Chicago Postoffice Employes in Armed Forces

A 12 by 18 foot service flag bearing stars representing 925 postal employés was unfurled yesterday at the United States' postoffice. Paul G. Armstrong, state draft director, was the speaker, and the flag was accepted by Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen.

ALIEN PROPERTY AGENT SEIZES JAP STORE IN CHICAGO

Michigan Avenue Shop to Be Liquidated.

Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian, announced last night the seizure of Yamanaka & Co., Inc., Japanese importing company which operates a store at 846 North Michigan avenue. The company, incorporated in Illinois, is owned by Yamanaka & Co., Ltd., of Osaka, Japan.

Crowley also announced seizure of two other companies owned by the Osaka concern and operating stores in New York and Boston and a branch at Bar Harbor, Me. All the stores have been operating under treasury supervision since last Dec. 7, except the New York store, which was closed by treasury order April 29.

Stock to Be Liquidated.

The Chicago office of the alien property custodian said the Michigan avenue store will be closed a few days for an inventory, and then liquidated under supervision of an agent of Crowley.

Crowley's representatives here said all officials of the Illinois corporation have returned to Japan thru an exchange of nationals with that country. An employé, however, was left here to aid government officials in winding up the company's affairs.

Store Opened in 1928.

Yamanaka & Co., Ltd., has been owned by the same family since it was founded about four centuries ago. The Chicago store has been operated since 1928. Three years ago federal customs agents raided the store after the company had been accused of defrauding the government of thousands of dollars in import duties.

The three companies dealt in oriental art objects and antiques.

HOLD RESERVE TROOPS FOR POSSIBLE ACTION IN STATE EMERGENCY

Springfield, Ill., July 8 (AP).—Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commander of the army's 6th corps area, said today that regular army and state reserve militia troops were withdrawn from guard duty last spring at industrial plants and bridges "to form a striking force in case of emergency."

In an address before the Springfield Mid-day Luncheon club, Gen. Grunert declared that "a wonderful job has been done in training the Illinois reserve militia for a second line of defense."

The general did not suggest what emergencies might necessitate the use of reserve militia or military police, but said that the war department had expressed increased concern over the danger of sabotage. Civilian guards at war plants will be trained as auxiliaries to regular army military police, he added.

AID FOR SOLDIERS' KIN TIMED TO FIT IN WITH ELECTION

Wives Will Get Checks as Campaign Closes.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—Altho the government has begun taking dependent deductions from the pay checks of soldiers and sailors, it was observed today that dependent wives and children and other relatives will not begin receiving the payments until just before the congressional elections in November.

Just as administration congressmen and senators seeking reëlection make their final pleas for votes, the government will dump lump sums into the laps of wives and children, covering monthly deductions accumulated since June 1. In the case of a dependent wife the lump sum will be $250. Those with children will receive larger sums. Parents, brothers, sisters, and grandchildren will receive smaller lump sums.

Defended as Coincidence.

At the army allowance division, the fact that the first payments will be made on the eve of the election was termed merely a coincidence. It was not planned that way, it was said. After the first checks payments will be made monthly.

In the 1940 election campaign the New Deal said that large farm benefit payments made on the eve of the Presidential election were nothing more than a coincidence. In the same way New Dealers answered Republican charges that work relief rolls were boosted to unusual heights in election years.

The first deductions against service pay checks were ordered from June checks due July 1. However, because many checks already were made up, it was provided that deductions need not begin in those cases until Aug. 1.

In cases where July 1 checks have been disbursed June allotments will be taken out over a three month period — August, September, and October.

Two Classes of Dependents.

The allotment and allowance bill became a law by Presidential signature on June 23. The act applies to all army men up to the grade of line sergeant and to all navy men up to the grade of third class petty officers.

There are two classes of dependents —class A, which includes wives and children, and class B, which includes parents, brothers, sisters, and grandchildren.

Under class A, $22 a month is taken from the pay of each soldier or sailor. To this the government adds $28 for a wife, plus $12 for the first child and $10 for each additional child.

In the case of class B dependents, the soldier pays varying amounts from $22 if there are no class A dependents to $5 if there are such dependents.

OPA TO INCREASE PRICES FOR 1942 FRUITS AND JAMS

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—Ceiling prices for frozen fruits and vegetables of the 1942 crop, and for jams, jellies, and preserves made from the new fruit, will be raised shortly, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced tonight. The ceiling on peanuts and peanut butter may be discarded entirely in September, he said.

These departures from the universal price ceiling followed by slightly more than a week Henderson's announcement that retail prices of canned and dried fruits of the 1942 pack would be boosted 15 per cent or more.

The new price adjustments will approach that percentage, officials said, but may not soar quite as high. They will apply at packers', wholesalers', and retailers' levels.

Henderson said that peanuts and peanut butter may be removed completely from the universal price ceiling when marketing of the 1942 crop opens in September, or that as an alternative, "appropriate adjustments will be made."

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The United States and the Netherlands signed a lend-lease agreement today. Its provisions are similar to those concluded with Great Britain, Russia, China, Poland, and Belgium.

The Inquiring Camera Girl — BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

Do you recall any distracting events in church?

WHERE ASKED.

Chicago Temple building, 77 West Washington street.

THE ANSWERS.

Phyllis Umansky, stenographer, 1240 South Christiana avenue—A group of babies and children had been baptized and then it was the young 16 year old girl's turn. It was more quiet than usual as the pastor sprinkled baptismal water on her head. She broke the silence with three hearty sneezes.

Jack Cohrs, student, 136 De Windt avenue, Winnetka—It was quite an interruption when the boy beside me dropped the collection plate and it went rolling down the aisle on the wooden floor. The coins scattered and every one around joined in gathering them. The other ushers had to wait to be joined by the lagging one.

George Trapp, receptionist, 6612 Newgard avenue—As the altar boy was carrying the open prayer book to the priest he missed one of the steps, fell and lost the place in the book. Another priest came scurrying to the rescue to pick up the book and find the place so there would be no pause in the service.

Anne Taborsky, secretary, 1001 South 22d avenue, Bellwood—My relative hadn't attended church since he was a small boy and was quite reluctant to join me. He was so impressed by the sermon that right after the closing statement he burst out with applause and didn't realize until it was too late that every one was looking at him.

John Martin, clerk, 2046 Arthur avenue—The collection plate was traveling smoothly along until the little 3 year old boy made his shining copper contribution. After that he thought the whole tray of coins was his and with screams and wails he clung to it. The usher had to leave it there until after the service.

Grace Owen, stenographer, 426 South Linden street, Westmont—The man didn't want to make himself more conspicuous by getting up and leaving, so all thru the communion service he interrupted the silence with muffled hiccups. Members of the congregation had a hard time to keep from laughing.

DROP APPROVED PLAN TO RAISE POSTAGE RATES

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The house ways and means committee decided today to drop at once approved plan to raise 102 million dollars in additional revenue by increasing second and third class postal rates, and turned the question over to the house post office committee.

Members said the reversal followed disclosure by post office department officials that they could not make effective before next Jan. 1 new rates on those categories of mail which would make up a deficit estimated at 100 million dollars.

The committee's decision reduced to $5,922,000,000 the new revenue the proposed tax bill would raise.

RELAX GAS CURB SO CANDIDATES CAN SEEK VOTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8 [Special]. —Special allowances of motor fuel for electioneering may be obtained under the permanent gasoline rationing plan for 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia. On July 22 this plan will supplant a temporary rationing order which has been in effect since May 16.

The new regulations, forming a pattern for a proposed nation-wide curtailment on tire usage, were announced this afternoon by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

Most of the new regulations tightened the control of gasoline sales in the east, where the temporary system has been marked by motor fuel bootlegging and other chiseling. The relaxation for electioneering purposes was designed in response to criticism that the crimp on automobile operation might suppress political activities, giving an unfair advantage to incumbents seeking reëlection.

Voters to Be Transported.

Extra gasoline, under this provision, may be obtained by "a bona fide candidate for public office for purposes essential to the prosecution of his candidacy." The extra allotment also may be obtained "to carry persons to and from the polls for the purpose of voting in public elections," and for the transportation of election officials.

In the three days' registration period, starting tomorrow, each of about 8 million passenger car owners, with few exceptions, will be given an "A" book of 48 coupons, each coupon authorizing a four gallon purchase—the 48 coupons constituting a year's supply. Supplemental coupons may be obtained only on a showing of occupational necessity.

Maximum 470 Miles a Month.

The rules to prove occupational necessity are strict. Newspaper reporters and photographers, for example, will get a maximum, after proving need, for no more than 470 miles of driving a month.

An OPA spokesman said that coupons have been printed for east coast states only, but that a national supply could be produced promptly.

An announcement from the White House on nation-wide gasoline rationing is expected next week.

WPA Directors Study Ways to Reduce Rolls

WPA directors from the 48 states, meeting in the Stevens hotel, yesterday made plans to reduce WPA rolls to within the $340,000,000 allotment voted by congress for the fiscal year which began July 1. It is estimated that the appropriation will provide employment for an average of 400,000 employés compared with 975,000 in the year ended June 30. Charles P. Casey, Illinois state director, said the Illinois quota for July is 36,000 employés, compared with 47,000 employed last month. The conference will continue today.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE RUBBER RUCKUS IS ENCOURAGING.

The most encouraging thing about synthetic rubber at the present time is that any one connected with plans for its manufacture is engaged in an unholy row. The row is principally over what particular process is to be used to make butadiene, which is the principal ingredient of buna rubber, which, in turn, is a most promising synthetic for use in tires. Proponents of two rival processes of cracking the butadiene out of petroleum are trying to outshout each other, while Sen. Gillette and the farm bloc politicians in congress are howling as loud as any one that the unholy oil trust must not be permitted to prevent the making of butadiene from alcohol, obtained by the fermentation of surplus wheat and other farm products.

The encouraging thing about the ruckus is the clear indication that we can make all the rubber the country needs. There is no dispute as to the quality of the product. Butadiene, however manufactured, is merely an ingredient which will end up in the same synthesized product. There are, in addition to the buna rubbers, at least three other synthetics—butyl, neoprene, and thiokol—which, while they are not all suitable for tires, have special advantages for other purposes. The day is past when the timidity and obtuseness of burocrats or the selfish intrigues of the British and Dutch rubber barons can stall any longer the erection of synthetic rubber plants with sufficient capacity to meet military demands within 18 months and to offer the hope, at least, that thereafter some provision will be made for civilian needs.

The only question remaining is the process to be adopted. This, it may be noted, would be no question at all if the country were still operating under a profit economy. With an assured market for the product such as is offered today, all of the processes which offered chances of success would be put in operation and the most efficient one would eventually freeze out its competitors.

Unfortunately, the profit system has been suspended for the duration. The necessity of conserving every possible pound of critical materials demands that a choice be made between two or more highly technical processes concerning which most of the experts have a strong bias one way or the other. The burocrats are being forced to pass judgment on technical questions concerning which they have inadequate knowledge and are also under political pressure from the farm bloc.

Unless a wide superiority can be established for one of the competing methods against the others, the rational thing to do is to put all into operation. The more methods tried, the more likely it is that eventually a process will be found to make synthetic rubber more cheaply than by any process now available. The main thing is to get going. The nation, threatened with the confiscation of its tires, has not forgotten that burocratic stupidity and selfish interests blocked both the accumulation of an adequate stockpile of plantation rubber and the erection of any substantial synthetic rubber production facilities before Pearl Harbor. The one thing that will not be tolerated now is further delay.

HURRAH FOR CIVIL SERVICE.

The objection to organized gambling is not that it corrupts the people but that it corrupts their government. Chicago has just had a lesson in the depth to which that corruption extends—in the peculiar behavior of its civil service commission when required to pass on the conduct of a group of policemen specially charged with the suppression of gambling.

Any adult possessed of normal sight and hearing knows that gambling is a well organized business in Chicago. The fact that the organizers of the business are murderers and graduates of brothels makes their business more loathsome and their control of public officials more dangerous to the public.

Capt. Martin McCormick and his three subordinates on the morals squad were instructed to stop gambling. The gambling continued unabated. It would seem that this made a prima facie case of inefficiency, the charge on which they were brought before the civil service commission, but any one entertaining that thought reckoned without the ingenuity of the honorable commissioners.

The chairman of the commission is the Hon. Joseph P. Geary. Mr. Geary is a power in the Democratic party and the leader of the Hungry Gearys, a prolific clan whom some one figured out recently to be tapping the public pay rolls for some $80,000 a year. [Just salary, too, not income.]

Mr. Geary's Democratic colleague is William P. Ronan, recently appointed to the commission, a nice fellow, but strictly a stooge. Mr. Ronan is a grain broker, and the boys over at the Morrison hotel figured that he might as well be sitting around the civil service commission as the Board of Trade, since the Democrats have tossed both of them up for grabs.

Commissioner Geary was busy at whatever keeps a ward comedian busy, and Commissioner Ronan didn't know the score, so that left the conduct of the hearing in the hands of the Republican member of the commission. At least the statute says there should be a Republican member of the commission—to prevent the Democrats getting too raw—but if you think that put Capt. McCormick and his boys in a spot, you don't know your city hall Republicans. For the Republican member of the commission, so-called, is the Hon. Wendell E. Green. At least he claimed he was a Republican when he was appointed several years ago, but the depth of his party loyalty may be judged from the fact that he is a Democratic nominee for judge of the Municipal court.

The hearing conducted by Commissioner Green gave him an opportunity to demonstrate his fitness for the bench. Yahoo jurisprudence reached a new high when Commissioner Green, after refusing to compel one of the defendants to testify, read into the record his opinion of what the defendant would have been asked, and what he would have answered, if he had been placed on the stand.

The result of the hearing was an acquittal for all of the defendants. The Chicago Crime commission, which started out demanding that something be done about Capt. McCormick and his three blind men, is now demanding that something be done about the civil service commission. The gentlemen of the crime commission were not born yesterday and thus it may be suspected that they are merely talking for the record. They know as well as any one else that that is what the lugs were put in there to do.

THE CENSOR NEEDN'T BE AN ASS.

The New York Times has had an instance called to its attention in which the postal division of the office of censorship refused to transmit a personal letter to Argentina because the writer took what the censors described as a gloomy view of the war.

The "gloomy view," it developed, consisted of comment that many Americans do not yet realize how big the war is or what sacrifices we face. The censor who objected to this language did so in spite of the fact that the remainder of the paragraph in which it appeared expressed the conviction that every one is eager to make whatever sacrifices are necessary. The official explained that the postal section has decided that Latin Americans must not be allowed to think that there is any weakness whatsoever in our war effort.

"It's not good psychological warfare to let them think our productive capacity can't meet every demand," he said. "We don't want to emphasize the fact that we are being rationed or that our citizens are making sacrifices in their standard of living."

Whereupon Secretary of Agriculture Wickard goes down to Mexico City and tells representatives of all the Latin American countries at the Inter-American Agricultural conference that by the end of this year no one in the United States will be able to enjoy anything beyond the bare essentials of living. The official spokesman of the government is found making public statements far more gloomy than the censors are willing to allow a private citizen to make in a personal letter.

Theirs is the Pollyanna school of censorship, the school which insists to the very last that everything is sunny and that affairs are being conducted in the most successful manner possible by the wisest and most far-seeing of governments. When reverses come, as they are bound to come in any war, such a censor is exposed as a liar and his nation's propaganda is discounted thereafter.

There are two theories as to why censors are asses. In some quarters it is held that since no intelligent man will undertake to regulate arbitrarily the opinions of others, the job must inevitably fall to a fool, if not to a knave. Others contend that the duties of the office are so degrading mentally as to corrupt whatever intelligence may be brought to it originally.

Both these theories, it should be noted, pertain to the censorship of opinion, the thankless and impossible task of trying to force ideas to conform to the wish of the government. That is a small part, and indeed a nonessential part, of the duty of censorship in modern war.

The major duty of the wartime censor—the only proper duty—is to prevent information of military value reaching the enemy. In modern warfare this information will frequently be industrial or economic, rather than military, but whatever its nature the only thing of value to the enemy is facts, not opinion. The censor should stick to the control of facts. If he will, there is no need for his being an ass.

THE MOUSE THAT ROARED LIKE A LION.

By the time these lines are in print or shortly afterward, Mr. Ralph Ingersoll's draft board in New York will have decided whether or not he is to go to camp in the immediate future. Meanwhile it can be said with the greatest assurance that Mr. Ingersoll's distinctions are unique. There are some scores of men entitled to wear the Medal of Honor, but Mr. Ingersoll is alone in being the draft-dodging editor of a tax-dodging newspaper. No other newspaper man in the country aspires to share the spot with him.

Mr. Ingersoll devotes his talents to the editing and publishing of a New York newspaper known as PM. In it he has lately published an extended apologia in which he states that he and his paper with him are being persecuted by their enemies. He yields to no man in his devotion to his country's cause. Very reasonably he remarks that he holds himself to be no braver than the next man. He showed his quality, he says, when he vaulted lightly up the steps which led to war. Surely not even his detractors can say he was a coward then.

Mr. Ingersoll had received his orders to report for army service, but was allowed to return to his home when, at the last moment, his boss, Marshall Field, wrote a letter saying that Ingersoll was indispensable. The draft board said the case would be reviewed in the light of this appeal.

The paper of which Mr. Ingersoll is editor and publisher has been notably unsuccessful. It was intended to have a large appeal to the public in the largest of our metropolitan cities, but after the first few days the readers have pretty largely neglected it. Mr. Ingersoll has flopped as editor, and as publisher he has only deficits to show. This is the man Mr. Field says is indispensable. As the losses sustained by Mr. Ingersoll are deducted from Mr. Field's taxable income and, therefore, from the treasury of the United States, Mr. Field may be nearly right at that. It is by no means certain that another editor and publisher can easily be found who would lose as much.

Certainly it would be difficult to find another whose conduct as a citizen has been so damaging to his newspaper's reputation. Mr. Ingersoll is revealed as the mouse that roared like a lion. He made a loud noise, but he was still a mouse at heart—weak, timorous, shrinking from danger. When it came to the test, he didn't prove to be even much of a mouse.

WAR ON THE BOOKSHELF.

The book reviewers and book sellers have been making a great fuss over Tolstoy's three-decker novel, "War and Peace," because it deals with Napoleon's invasion of Russia, but thus far they have overlooked the same author's "Sevastopol." Tolstoy was an officer in the Russian army during the Crimean war and saw service at the siege of Sevastopol. His first important published work was a collection of short stories, called "Sevastopol," which were studies of fear and courage under fire.

* * *

In the current worry over Alexandria, the literary salons have not yet remembered the book which re-creates the atmosphere of that city when it was the intellectual metropolis of the ancient Greek world. This is "Aphrodite," by Pierre Louys—a novel that used to be classed as forbidden literature because of its extreme eroticism and pagan mood. In French, it is an achievement in style; in English, it is bad medicine.

* * *

"Aphrodite" was a bootlegged book in this country, but its dramatic version, staged as a spectacle by the late Morris Gest, is easily remembered as a succès de scandale. It supplied an exciting page to the history of the foundering Auditorium.

* * *

Tennyson's charge of "Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava" has been appropriately recalled during the fighting around Sevastopol, but nobody has mentioned its companion piece, "The Charge of the Heavy Brigade." Tennyson might also have written a third "Charge" to complete the story of Balaclava, for the French sent in the Chasseurs d'Afrique to take the heat off the Light and Heavy Brigades.

PATH IN A SUBURB.

There's a brown little path on my way to the train
In autumn, when thoughts have turned sober,
Where a jay in his wrath makes it perfectly plain
That this is his path in October!

Are etched in hard lines I remember,
Turns coat collars up in December.

Where flowers awaken each day,
Where bloodroot is pale, and leaves form a screen
For song sparrows nesting in May.

There's an overgrown way where blackberries grow
Their thorns catch my coat, passing by,
And a wren helps me say what I know to be so—

Inquiring Nuisance: What time is the Corporal Streamliner due from New York?

Information Attendant: 8:30.

I. N.: Thanks. [Starts to leave.]

I. A.: That is when it is due to arrive.

I. N.: Well, doesn't it arrive when it is due?

I. A.: Sometimes, but not today.

I. N.: Well, what time will it arrive today?

I. A.: Which section?

I. N.: What d'ya mean, "which section?"

I. A.: There are three sections and each will arrive at a different time.

I. N.: [Puzzled.] Well, I just don't know, I'm down here to meet my niece.

I. A.: Whether niece, nephew, or uncle, there are still three sections to consider.

I. N.: Well, what time will the different sections arrive?

I. A.: Section 2 at 8:50, section 3 at 9:10, and section 1 at 9:20.

I. N.: D'you mean to tell me that section 1 is the last to arrive?

I. A.: Well, yes and no.

I. N.: What kind of an answer is that?

I. A.: It's all very simple, sir. Section 1, 2, and 3 are all due to arrive at 8:30, but it so happens that today section 1 will arrive at 9:20, section 2 at 8:50, and section 3 at 9:10. That explanation provides the "yes" answer. But it also happens that section 2 will arrive as section 1 at 8:50, section 3 will arrive as section 2 at 9:10, and section 1 will arrive as section 3 at 9:20. That provides the "no" answer. Now if section 1 arrived as section 1 instead of section 3, and if section 2 arrived as section 2 instead of section 1, and if section 3 arrived as section 3 instead of section 2, then section 1 would arrive at 9:20, section 2 at 8:50, and section 3 at 9:10. Now putting it another way—

I. N.: [Putting hands to ears.] Stop it! Stop it! I may be dumb—

I. A.: Did you say may be?

SALUTE TO ALEXANDRIA.

At fertile delta of the River Nile
You stand, a city rich in memories.
Great kings, fair queens, and ancient mysteries.
A wild and restless king gave you his name,
And Cleopatra's matchless charm you knew.
The books of learned Greeks brought added fame,
And Roman grandeur was not strange to you.

Yet long ago the world wept o'er the flame
That turned to ashes all your priceless tomes,
And still laments that barbarous vandals came
To steal the light of progress from its homes.
Today we see the vandals' fire return,

When Chicago Had Sphinx Trouble.

The sphinxes of Lincoln park in the 1890s [July 2] were the gift of Andrew McNally Sr. of the Rand-McNally firm. These bronze figures were plainly females, and people of puritan minds objected to their front exposures. Then shields were used as camouflage, but children made a practice of placing sticks and other débris behind them. Finally Mr. McNally removed his sphinxes, and placed them at the gateway of his olive ranch in California.

LOW HEMOGLOBIN CALLS FOR IRON.

THE study of the blood in all its relations [hematology] is an engrossing science. Each year brings us new discoveries. While anemia has long been recognized, certain starters have defied identification. But trouble will come when the factories within the bone marrow are not producing at par. In addition a considerable volume of vital fluid may have been lost thru hemorrhage, or disease may have destroyed some of the cells.

The most common type comes about because the body contains too little iron. The sufferer presents a peculiar pallor because hemoglobin [red coloring matter] cannot be manufactured without this metal. This form represents nearly 95 per cent of all cases seen by the physician.

It is usually called "secondary" because it follows or accompanies a defect in diet or absorption. The term "hypochromic" is also applied and means "below the normal standard of redness." In other words, the fluid is not scarlet enough.

This indicates that the tissues are not adequately supplied with oxygen because only hemoglobin can combine with this important gas. There are plenty of cells, but they are low in this carrying chemical. We all can realize how rapidly weakness, lassitude, and a feeling of abnormal fatigue will come when the tissues are short of oxygen.

What are some of the causes? Clearly, if we fail to eat iron-containing foods, after a time the body may use up its reserves. Again, it may be that altho plenty of the element is at hand it may not be utilized. For example, if a disease of the digestive tract is present, or if the gastric juice contains an insufficient quantity of hydrochloric acid, this is exactly what will happen.

Infections, too, play a rôle. Bacteria and their toxins can destroy the power of the body to use iron and hence the cells will be unable to take it on board. Even vitamins must be considered. If C or B complex is deficient we may find that nutrition has suffered, with a corresponding drop in the red corpuscles. Finally, parasites such as hookworm or the fish tapeworm may withdraw blood from the intestinal mucous lining more rapidly than it can be replaced.

Treatment consists in spotting the causative factor and correcting it. We must make certain, first of all, that the gastric glands are furnishing enough acid. If not, this substance may be prescribed as a medicine. Then we feed enough iron so that the building materials will be at hand.

Cures of this character constitute spectacular episodes. The countenance resumes its natural expression and color, weight is gained, and nutrition reaches normal. In fact, we can usually observe the hemoglobin rise at least 1 per cent each day, which proves that we are on the right track and that all is going well.

We need not look upon this disorder with the slightest fear provided it is not neglected for too long a period.

SONNY'S WHISKERS.

J. J. J. P. writes: How can the first hairs on the upper lip of a boy be done away with without resorting to shaving?

REPLY.

No disgrace attaches to shaving. If unsightly, they may be clipped. Tweezing is not only painful but may invite infection.

THE HEART BEAT.

J. A. G. writes: Does an irregular heart action denote anything serious?

REPLY.

As a rule, no. If the condition persists, a careful examination may be indicated.

DRIP.

A. M. writes: What is postnasal drip?

REPLY.

HE VIEWS WITH ALARM.

St. Charles, Ill., July 3.—That was quite an article you had on that typical farmer boy, Hanford MacNider, who is out there doing a job on MacArthur's staff in Australia. Offhand, one would think he was a guy with the kind of a record that any fighting general would want around him. However, do you realize there is one thing that everybody ought to know and somebody should tell MacArthur—MacNider is a copperhead. You see, according to some people, everybody who disagreed with them before Pearl Harbor is a copperhead today, and MacNider certainly disagreed with them before Pearl Harbor—and probably still does! All those ribbons he wears now on his chest can't cover up that, and I am surprised these people haven't written to MacArthur to tip him off. You see, MacNider was one of those awful "isolationists" before Pearl Harbor, and for 20 years prior to that—feeling, as he used to say in his quiet way, that we shouldn't go around sticking our mug into other nations' quarrels until we got so fixed up at home that the others wouldn't be sticking their mugs into ours.

When MacArthur finds that out, he will probably send MacNider home in irons and replace him with a real American. Maybe he can get Ralph Ingersoll to take MacNider's place.

CHARLEY SAINT CHARLES.

SEN. WAGNER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Chicago, July 6.—The finding in the plane crash that caused Carole Lombard's death, in which the pilot, Wayne Williams, was held to blame, is only another example of the New Deal dodging responsibility. The man really responsible is Sen. Robert F. Wagner, a New Deal Democrat, sponsor of the labor relations bill and chairman of the National Labor Relations board at the time Williams, having been dismissed by the air line employing him, was ordered reinstated by the NLRB.

Williams would not have been pilot on the ship that crashed if Sen. Wagner had not insisted that this unreliable flyer be reinstated. Let's be honest and place the blame where it really belongs.

L. H. LINDEMANN.

PRINCIPLES OF THE DECLARATION.

St. Charles, Ill., July 4.—Permit me to express my appreciation for the three editorials, "Origins of a Free People," "The Leaven of 1776," and "Independence Day," published in recent issues of your newspaper. Only a newspaper having an editorial staff which has the viewpoint of Americanism as born out of the principles enumerated in the Declaration of Independence could possibly write such editorials. The spiritual value of those principles our government has failed to cognize and utilize in the crisis which now confronts our nation.

GEO. W. JOHNSON.

DEFENDS MISS LOMBARD'S PILOT.

Chicago, July 4.—It appears that we've still got a heap of second guessers in this country. A pilot is accused of negligence after nine years of flying, during which no evidence is available to show any demerits on his part. Previous to this period his record was stained lightly—so lightly the government could and did ignore his first misdemeanor by allowing him to continue flying passengers. If this man was so erratic, he should never have been able to reëstablish himself in aviation, much less fly passengers for nine years afterward.

Were there not enough men in the aviation industry during this time big enough to stamp out this so-called misfit, or does that little mark come in handy now that the blame has to fall on somebody? Don't forget this pilot also lost his life, so he cannot defend himself. Maybe somebody is guilty elsewhere.

GEORGE JENNER.

EMPHASIS ON HYPHENATION.

Chicago, July 6.—L. M. Peyovich's letter only emphasizes THE TRIBUNE editorial. It is about time all of these hyphenated organizations were relegated to the ash can. There never can be unity or peace in this country as long as we have foreign-minded groups pulling for this or that country. Whatever they may call themselves they never can be wholehearted Americans. There is an old saying that "a man cannot serve two masters." In pledging allegiance to our flag, it is "one flag, one country." Therefore, these hyphenated organizations are all wrong.

LET HIM WORK.

Chicago, July 3.—To "Foster Parent," who complains that the state is a month in arrears in paying her for boarding a ward of the state: Why can't the 17 year old boy go to work? My son sold papers at the age of 12 and at 17 he was working full time. Now, at 20, he is fighting for Uncle Sam. My boy did not need to work at the time but he had it in him. What kind of a home is it that thinks the world owes a 17 year old boy a living?

MRS. LAURA MCCARTER.

THE LA GRANGE LINE.

Brookfield, Ill., July 2.—I have just read Edwin C. Reynolds' letter on the La Grange street car line. This line serves thousands of people in the west suburbs daily and is doing much for this country by taking the defense workers to and from their jobs. Without this carline many people would not have any way of getting to work. Dr. Reynolds forgets that we all aren't as fortunate as he—we can't all get new tires and cars.

ETHEL KUMLACKY.

THE LANTZ CASE.

Chicago, July 5.—One good thing might be said of the British people: They bring to justice not only criminals who violate the law, but police officers who fail in that class as well. Neighbors and citizens should demand a thoro investigation of the "Citizen Lantz" case, and if police are guilty of mistreatment and abuse they should be put in prison where they belong as an example to others of their kind.

BOND CONCERT.

Chicago, July 6.—Some one made a good suggestion that every one who attends the Grant park concerts should buy a war stamp. Why not stage a huge concert at Soldiers' field with all leading bands and band leaders taking part? Call it a bond concert. Every one who attends must subscribe for a war bond.

JONAS PERLBERG.

GLORIOUS RETREAT.

Chicago, July 7.—How dare Irene Hooper scoff at the leadership of American generals as she did in her disgraceful letter of July 2? "Big talk of American leadership," indeed! At least the world has been spared the ordeal of reading about a glorious retreat from Bataan.

Chicago, July 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I misplaced or lost a mortgage note for payment of principal, excepting interest notes which I have. The mortgage was originated in 1919 and has been renewed every five years. I have all previous papers—trust deed and insurance policy.

2. This mortgage and its extension have been recorded.

3. If this mortgage is called for final payment in full and cancellation at maturity of note, what recourse have I without this principal note? J. F.

1. We assume that you mean that you are the mortgage creditor.

2. We assume that you mean that it has been recorded in the recorder's office in the county building.

3. The word "call" is ordinarily used in connection with advancement of the maturity date of a bond issue. We assume that what you mean to ask is how you can collect the note. If the debtor refuses to pay without production of the canceled note you may be forced to sue and the court will probably require you to put up a surety bond to protect the debtor against the possibility of having to pay a second time to a holder in due course.

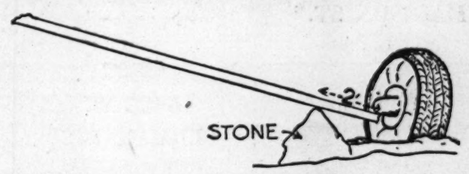
Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. Which one of the following would probably cause consternation among the other three? Maltese Beagle Angora Persian.
2. Tetanus antitoxin is administered to prevent the development of Diphtheria Malaria Smallpox Lockjaw.
3. Which one of these is generally employed for sealing joints in sewer pipes? Oakum Asbestos Rock wool Steel wool.
4. Astigmatism refers to ailment of the Ear drum Gall bladder Nasal septum Lens.
5. A skewer is an implement usually associated with the work of a Housewife Plumber Dentist Commercial artist.
6. A motorist started to drive thru a mud hole when his right rear wheel got stuck. Lacking an auto jack, the man looked around for a pole or heavy plank by which he might pry the wheel up. A large stone lay 2 feet from the wheel, so he employed it as a fulcrum. If it would require a lift of 800 pounds to extricate the wheel, and the salesman weighed 200 pounds, how long a pole would be required to accomplish the job? Use the sketch below for reference.



Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

RETAIN 8 CENT FARE DESPITE OPA OBJECTION

ICC to Write Permanent Order After Hearing.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday authorized the Chicago Surface Lines to continue to charge 8 cents for street car rides at least until the commission has heard of evidence in the fare case and enters a permanent rate order.

John D. Biggs.

This action was taken in the face of a demand Tuesday by the federal Office of Price Administration that the Chicago carfare be restored to 7 cents, the level prior to April 20 when the commerce commission authorized a temporary boost of 1 cent. The OPA, in an intervening petition filed with the commission, said the increase in rates above the March level was contrary to the government's attempt to prevent price inflation.

Petition Is Suspended.

While continuing the 8 cent rate temporarily, the commission yesterday suspended for 120 days the surface lines' petition for a permanent 8 cent charge. Commission Chairman John D. Biggs explained that the commission may set the permanent rate in a shorter time if the hearings in the case are completed, but declined to predict whether the final rate would be fixed at 7 or 8 cents.

Biggs also announced that the OPA's request to intervene will be heard by the commission next Thursday in Chicago.

The commission originally had set today for a permanent ruling on the carfare, but postponed its action because taking of evidence had not been completed. Altho the surface lines declined to make any official statement, it was learned the company will continue its attempt to keep the 8 cent fare in force despite opposition by the OPA.

Strike Threat Fades.

Meanwhile, the threat of a strike by the 15,000 members of the street car men's union to enforce demands for wage increases faded when Walter A. Shaw, chairman of the surface lines management board, announced yesterday that the company will name an arbitrator in the wage dispute by Monday.

On Monday night members of the union set July 10 for a referendum on whether to stop work July 15, after union officials reported that the company had not met their wage demans, and had failed to name an arbitrator. Joseph J. Kehoe, president of the union canceled the strike vote yesterday after the company agreed to name an arbitrator.

The former wage contract expired May 31. The union is seeking a wage boost of 10 to 12 cents an hour, five additional days of vacation and a hospitalization plan. The new contract will be made retroactive to May 31.

The union has named Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] as its arbiter. McDermott and the representative chosen by the company will select a third member.

Mayor Kelly informed the city council yesterday that the federal Public Works administration has extended the date for completion of Chicago's 60 million dollar subway from June 30, 1942, to June 30, 1943.

The council passed an ordinance directing the surface lines to take up abandoned street car tracks totaling five miles in 15 locations to release 800 tons of steel for the war effort.

CITY WILL HONOR HEROES AT WAR BOND BREAKFAST

Chicago will pay tribute to 40 of its heroes on the fighting and war production fronts at a war bond breakfast July 17 in the Stevens hotel. Approximately 1,500 business leaders will attend the breakfast, G. Ray Schaeffer, chairman of the retail outlets committee of the Illinois war savings staff, said yesterday.

The breakfast will be the keystone of a nation-wide series held at the same time which will be linked by a one hour radio broadcast. Designated as "American Heroes' day," the celebration will be a feature of the retail merchants' July drive to sell 1 million dollars of war bonds and stamps.

The Chicago breakfast will honor such combat heroes as Lieut. Thomas C. Griffin and Second Lieut. Charles J. Ozuk, who accompanied Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle in the bombing of Tokio. Other heroes will be selected from war factories and other fighting fronts. The celebration in Chicago is sponsored by the Chicago Retailers association.

PLAN PERSONAL PLEA TO MAYOR: FIRE TRIAL BOARD

Crime Fighters Persevere in Police Vice Case.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Crime commission officials yesterday were reported to be planning to follow their demand for the ouster of the three members of the Chicago Civil Service commission with a personal call on Mayor Kelly.

The anti-crime body, headed by Bertram J. Cahn, has protested against reinstatement of four policemen of the gambling detail, accused by Commissioner Allman of inefficiency, neglect of duty and having made false reports. The commission termed the reinstatement outrageous.

Mayor Kelly would not comment on the request made to him for the removal of the commissioners—Joseph B. Geary, a Democratic ward committeeman; Wendell Green, Negro attorney, and William P. Ronan, flour dealer recently appointed to the office. Nor would he comment on the so-called whitewashing of the policemen involved—Capt. Martin E. McCormick, Sergt Tom Lee, and Patrolmen Fred L. Trauth and James E. Kehoe.

May See Courtney.

"We expect to wait a few days and then the executive committee will decide whether to call on Mayor Kelly," said Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the crime commission. "Mr. Cahn also expects to discuss our procedure with State's Attorney Courtney."

The crime commission and the state's attorney's office have been cooperating in the campaign to eliminate syndicated and protected gambling in Chicago and Cook county, and both agencies said yesterday they are a long way from the end of their campaign against bookie joints, policy wheels, and slot machines.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro of the Criminal court informed the crime commission it was mistakenly informed as to his ruling in a recent case involving Bud Lieberman, slot machine dealer at 880 Washington boulevard. Lieberman and four others were found not guilty by Judge Sbarbaro on June 24.

Slot Machine Law.

Judge Sbarbaro, who has led all other judges in the Criminal court in the number of cases heard in the last year and who was the only judge against whose decisions as to parole recommendations there was no protest, is to be chief justice of the Criminal court during the next year.

State's Attorney Courtney and Director Peterson of the crime commission said that if Judge Sbarbaro's ruling in the Lieberman case were correctly understood, a different plan of procedure would have to be adopted in slot machine cases.

Judge Sbarbaro said he had not ruled that Lieberman could not be guilty of conspiracy because the men indicted as his co-conspirators were his employés. He said he found the defendants not guilty because the state did not present a strong case and the witnesses were reluctant to testify and couldn't say whether the money they received came from slot machines or pinball games.

The transcript of the record showed that Bud Lieberman, William Nichols, Arthur Coughlin, and George De Lucas were indicted on a charge of conspiracy to commit an illegal act. Three storekeepers testified that they had permitted slot machines to be installed in their places of business.

Collectors Admit Part.

The shopkeepers testified that Coughlin and Nichols placed the machines with them, collected the nickels from them, and split the profits 50-50. Coughlin and Nichols, altho they were defendants, testified that they were employed by Leiberman and that they had placed and serviced and collected from the machines in the three stores. They said they took the money back to Leiberman who gave them a commission.

The transcript shows that the conclusion of the trial was as follows:

The court—You don't mean to tell me that you have made out a case of conspiracy here?

Prosecutor Richard Devine—As far as Nichols and these fellows that actually admit they went out together for the purpose of servicing these machines.

The Court—He doesn't say he had an understanding with the others.

Mr. Devine—But the facts and circumstances show that they were there for a common purpose.

Defense Attorney Mayer Goldberg—There may be a substantive offense here on the part of the men to operate the machines but I don't think there is a conspiracy.

The court. Finding of not guilty.

TWO SEIZED IN BOOKIE RAID.

Detective James Le Fevour of the central station yesterday raided an alleged handbook in the basement at 208 North Wells street, chased out 15 patrons, and arrested Edward Levinson, 39 years old, 4823 West End avenue, and Louise Lande, 26, of 1251 South Springfield avenue, as keepers.

GIRL, 17, SEIZED AFTER SHOPPING SPREE ON $1,000

Admits Taking Money from Friend.

Helen White was going down to visit her soldier boy friend in Fort Knox, Ky., where 12½ billion dollars in gold is buried. She was afraid her old clothes wouldn't do in such an atmosphere. And so Helen, who is 17 years old, went shopping.

She bought:

One $275 diamond ring, eight sets of lingerie, ten dresses, five pairs of shoes, four pairs of stockings, two pairs of slacks, two expensive hats, two traveling bags, a watch, and a locket.

Still Has $800 Left.

The worrying was done by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Scafa of 6956 Normal avenue. The $1,800 they kept in a tin box in their bedroom closet had disappeared on Monday, the day that Helen started shopping.

They didn't know about Helen's shopping. But Mrs. Scafa did recall that Helen, who used to work with her in a loop stationery shop, had visited her in the shop on Monday.

It was some time later that Mrs. Scafa noticed that her apartment key was missing from her purse, and some time later still that Mrs. Scafa's husband, a beverage salesman, discovered the cash box was empty.

Recalls Visit to Home.

Mrs. Scafa then recalled something else, according to Detectives James Pigot and John Watson: Helen, who lives at 1655 Gregory street, had been visiting the Scafa home last week when Mrs. Scafa put some money into the box. Mrs. Scafa obtained a warrant charging Helen with grand larceny yesterday.

Learning of this, Helen hunted the Scafas up and went to the Englewood police station with them. There she confessed that she had taken the money and gone shopping, the detectives said. They sent her to the Juvenile Detention home and prepared to send her purchases back.

FIRE POLICEMAN WHO ASSISTED IN FAKED ROBBERY

Policeman A. R. Martin, accused of aiding the staging of a fake holdup, was discharged from the Oak Park police force last night after the village fire and police board found him guilty of conduct unbecoming to an officer.

Martin, who had been on the Oak Park force for seven years, was accused of faking a robbery story with Kenneth Bushee, 29 years old, gas station owner, so that the pair could collect holdup insurance. Bushee reported to the Oak Park police on May 23 that he had been held up for $350. Chief Ben Barsema doubted the story because Bushee regularly deposited his receipts the police station safe. On the night of the reported robbery he had failed to bring in the money.

ADMIT SALOON HOLDUP KILLING OF POLICEMAN

Ex-Convict, Tubby Blonde 'Lookout' Seized.

A few hours after the funeral of Detective Walter Storm yesterday, police seized another member of the Polka Dot Handkerchief gang, whose leader killed Storm, and died himself, in a revolver duel in a tavern holdup Monday night.

Nicholas [Nick the Greek] Gianos, with a record as a petty thief before joining the gang now accused of half a hundred robberies, was seized early this morning. Teamwork between four detective bureau squads resulted in his capture, in the Pasadena hotel, 600 North Dearborn street. Police trailed a girl friend, Theda Morgan, 22, of 3233 West Division street, who brought him a change of clothing. He confessed his part in the murder, police said.

In custody earlier were Leo Piscopo, 21 years old, ex-convict, and his girl friend, Charlene O'Neil, 4 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, who admitted being the lookout for the gang in five robberies. The woman, who wore orange-tan slacks, said she was 23 years old, but police put her age at nearer 40.

Admits Fatal Holdup.

Piscopo and Gianos admitted they, the woman lookout, and two other hoodlums took part in the holdup of the tavern at 5143 North avenue in which Storm was killed after fatally wounding Eugene Guzy, the gang's leader.

The hunted gangsters and their records:

Anthony "Musty" Muskal, 25 years old. Sentenced Oct. 15, 1934, to the state penitentiary for attempted larceny and released July 4, 1938. Twice sentenced to the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, escaped once.

George De Pasquale, alias Chow Chow, alias Shots, 18 years old. Given probation October, 1941, for petty larceny. Shot and wounded last December. At that time he told police he had been the victim of a stickup man. [Piscopo declared that Chow Chow, who was a member of the gang, had not taken part in the slaying of Detective Storm.]

Saloons Easy Victims.

Piscopo, who has served two and a half years in the county jail on two robbery charges, told police that the gang had been preying on taverns because "there was always lot of play [customers] in a saloon, and besides they were easy." He and Charlene, who is also known as Barbara Reynolds, lived together in a small flat at 4735 Malden street.

Piscopo said, and the O'Neil woman supported him, that the gang was holding up the tavern Monday night when Storm shot the gang leader, Guzy, five times. As the dying gangster went down, he wounded Storm fatally.

Police arrested Charlene and Piscopo at the Malden street address Tuesday when they appeared to pick up their clothes. They had been hiding at a farm near New Buffalo, Mich., with the three gangsters who are still fugitives. Three squads of detectives were dispatched to the farm hideout, but arrived too late—the hoodlums had fled. Police found six pistols, one shotgun, and 400 rounds of ammunition at the Malden street apartment.

Always Wore Gloves.

The gang members, Piscopo said, always wore thin gray gloves whenever they were "doing a job." The gloves kept them from leaving finger prints, but were soft enough for quick trigger work. "And we always wore polka dot handkerchiefs," he added.

The O'Neil woman, naturally red haired, turned blonde when she met Piscopo in a hamburger stand, where she was the cook, was given "an even split, not just a woman's cut," Piscopo said.

Paul Scarfina, 37 years old, 510 North Carpenter street, said to be an uncle of De Pasquale, was arrested during progress of the investigation yesterday. In Scarfina's possession police found a satchel containing several guns and 10 wrist watches. Scarfina said that when he was given the suitcase by the gangsters he had no knowledge of what it contained.

LAWYER FREED OF PLENOCRAT FRAUD CHARGE

Acted Only as Counsel, Judge Holly Rules.

Justus Chancellor Sr., a Chicago attorney, 79 years old, yesterday was found not guilty of having used the mails to defraud and violation of the Securities and Exchange act in connection with operation of the Plenocrats' utopian farm scheme. Chancellor, one time counsel for the organization, resigned in 1937.

C. Franklin Davis, founder and secretary treasurer of the scheme, was found guilty of the mail fraud and SEC charge a month ago and sentenced to serve a year and a day in a federal penitentiary. Davis is 76. He served a six month jail sentence in 1939 for violating an injunction against selling Plenocrat stock.

"Acted Only as Attorney."

"I cannot understand how he could have gone along with Davis and those others," said Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday in exonerating Attorney Chancellor. "The scheme was completely fantastic. However, Chancellor stayed within the law because he acted only as the organization's attorney."

The others referred to by Judge Holly in freeing Chancellor are the Rev. Fred E. Bennett, 60, Seattle, Wash., whom Judge Holly described as the most dangerous in the organization and sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary; Charles E. Oldenberg, 62, Milwaukee, sentenced to a year and a day, and C. H. Carter, 65, Chicago, who was placed on probation for three years.

President Sentenced.

Oldenberg, a former Milwaukee real estate dealer, admitted at the trial that he gave up his business to devote his time to soliciting investors in the farm scheme with promises of a 30 per cent profit. He became president upon the resignation of Carter.

Davis admitted on the witness stand that $500,000 had been collected by the organization from 1936 until indictment put a stop to the activity. He also admitted having collected money from investors on promises of big returns when farms owned by the Plenocrats were losing money.

TELLS OF APPEAL TO PROXY BABY'S FATHER: CHOOSE!

Wife Says She and Sister Sought His Favor.

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 8 [Special].—Two sisters, one the wife of Carmel Hoge, 35 year old Detroit machinist, and the other the wife of another man but the mother of Hoge's child, woke up Hoge one night last fall to urge him to choose between them, according to testimony today at the continuance of the proxy baby habeas corpus suit here.

Circuit Judge James E. Spier must decide whether the proxy baby, now 3 years old and reared by the Hoges as Patricia Hoge, should remain with them or be turned over to the mother, now Mrs. Alice Horvath, 20, and her husband, Louis, 29. Mrs. Horvath was married in December, 1940.

Hoge has admitted paternity, and Mrs. Horvath has admitted that when the baby was born she went to the hospital under her sister's name.

Denies Offer of $100.

On the stand for a long and frequently tearful session today, Mrs. Catherine Hoge, 30 and childless, told of a continuing struggle for nearly four years between her younger sister and herself for Hoge's affections. She denied that the proxy baby was originally her own idea, contradicting Alice's testimony that she offered the girl $100 to have a baby for her by her husband.

Mrs. Hoge said she concluded after the baby's birth that her husband and Alice were so attached to each other that she should give Hoge a divorce and let the pair be married. She said that she asked her sister, "Do you want to marry Carmel?" Alice replied she did not want to break up the Hoge home, Mrs. Hoge testified.

Mrs. Hoge agreed in the fall of 1940 to divorce Hoge and offered to work and contribute to the support of the household if they would let her remain with the baby, she said. However, in December Alice married Horvath and moved to Cleveland, O.

Tells of More Trouble.

Visits by Mrs. Horvath to the Hoge home brought recurring trouble, however, Mrs. Hoge said. She described Alice following Carmel around the house and going upstairs with him, testifying, "Every time that happened, I got sick."

Alice told her she wanted Carmel near Thanksgiving of 1941, Mrs. Hoge said, and it was then the women woke him up and pleaded with him to make up his mind.

Hoge was recalled to the stand this morning and said that only three months ago his wife had to chase Alice out of his bedroom.

SEIZE WILMETTE PHARMACIST ON MEDICAL CHARGE

Louis A. Ellisburg, 55 years old, a registered pharmacist, has a private booth for examination of women "patients" in his drug store at 1101 Central avenue, Wilmette, Miss Loraine Johnson said yesterday in a complaint she signed for his arrest on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

L. A. Ellisburg.

Miss Johnson, comely investigator for the state department of registration and education, told her story to Acting County Judge Russell W. Keeney, who issued a warrant for Ellisburg. She said she visited the Wilmette drug store three times.

"First time," she reported, "he felt my pulse, told me to look intently into his eyes, then said I was nervous and prescribed 60 cents worth of pills. Next time he took my blood pressure, felt of my left side and told me I had 'indigestion of the gallbladder.'

"On my third visit he took me into his special private booth."

Ellisburg, arrested on orders of Assistant State's Attorney Roman R. Stashnick, was released on $1,000 bail. He will be arraigned Monday in County court.

ATTY. BURNHAM A HEART VICTIM ON GOLF COURSE

Leading Trial Lawyer in Chicago 28 Years.

Frederic Burnham, one of the leading trial lawyers in Chicago, died yesterday while playing golf at the Lake Shore Country club in Glencoe. Mr. Burnham, who was 61 years old, was a member of the firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt, with whom he had been associated since 1917.

Frederic Burnham.

On the 11th hole green, Mr. Burnham bent over to sight a putt. He spun and fell, and his companions said that apparently he died instantly of coronary thrombosis. With him were Paul M. Godehn, a member of the firm, Mrs. Frank D. Mayer, wife of another member, and C. H. Crennan, an economist for the Continental-Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Engaged on Meat Case.

Carl Meyer, also a member of the firm, had dropped out of the game after the 10th hole and his place was taken by Mrs. Mayer.

Among the important cases on which Mr. Burnham still was engaged were those involving nearly all meat packers on charges of having fixed prices of Easter hams, and the anti-trust indictment of cheese manufacturers.

As counsel for Stanley Field, Attorney Burnham was prominent in the trials of Samuel Insull. Field was one of the directors of Insull enterprises. He also was a leading figure in the National Labor Relations board case in 1937 against the Inland Steel company.

Graduated from Yale.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Burnham was graduated from Yale university in 1902, winning membership in the Phi Beta Kappa scholastic fraternity, and receive his law degree from Northwestern university in 1905. After four years in the legal department of the Chicago and North Western railroad, he was an assistant state's attorney under State's Attorney John E. W. Wayman.

Mr. Burnham was a member of the Chicago, University, Law, and Indian Hill Country clubs.

NINE LOSE LIVES AS INTERURBANS COLLIDE HEAD-ON

Norristown, Pa., July 8 (AP).—Nine persons were killed today and more than a score were injured, many critically, in the collision of an interurban passenger trolley car and an express freight car.

The crowded Philadelphia to Allentown Limited of the Lehigh Valley Transit company and the southbound freight crashed head on about 5:30 p. m. at Penn Square, three and a half miles from here.

Grover Meckley, 54 years old, Allentown, motorman on the freight car, who was slightly injured, said he was "running under orders" and had expected to pass the passenger car on a siding near the crash scene. Instead, he saw the speeding limited rounding a curve about 50 yards ahead, he said. He threw the controls into reverse and ran back into the car. The two trolleys telescoped.

FRACTURED ARM HELD NO EXCUSE; SPEEDER IS FINED

A fractured arm is no excuse for speeding, in the eyes of Judge John Gutknecht of the Traffic court. He fined Walter Gordon of 1855 Monroe street $10 last night for driving 65 miles an hour on the Outer drive en route to the Jackson Park hospital to have a fractured arm attended. Gordon, 17 years old, was fined $5 in addition for driving without a driver's license. Gordon was arrested last Thursday. He told Judge Gutknecht at the night session of the court that he was hurrying to the hospital immediately after fracturing the arm. The arresting policeman confirmed the story.

ACT TO CLASSIFY JACK KNIVES AS DEADLY WEAPONS

The city council yesterday directed Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes to draft an ordinance to regulate the sale of pocket or jack knives in the same manner as that of such weapons as pistols, revolvers, and daggers.

The action was taken on the recommendation of Ald. Abraham H. Cohen [4th], who said many young men buy folding spring knives and use them as weapons in robberies.

The proposed ordinance would include knives in the section of the code which specifies the seller must be properly licensed and report each sale to the police.

DEATH CLAIMS FRENCH MARSHAL D'ESPEREY AT 86

Swept Thru Balkans in World War.

VICHY, July 8 (AP).—The death of Louis Franchet d'Esperey, last living marshal of France with the exception of Chief of State Marshal Petain, was announced today. D'Esperey was 86, a month younger than Petain.

Marshal d'Esperey.

Marshal d'Esperey, one of the brilliant galaxy of superior officers who led France to victory in the last war, was living proof of Napoleon's dictum that "every soldier in the ranks carries a marshal's baton in his haversack."

Born in Mostaganem in Algeria May 25, 1856, d'Esperey volunteered for the army at 18 and in his rise thru the ranks did not miss a single grade from corporal to marshal.

As a young lieutenant in 1882 he led an expedition against the dissident Moors and displayed such bravery and ability that he was promoted to captain. In 1886 he received a further opportunity for advancement when he was sent to Tonkin after having seen active service in Algeria and Tunisia.

In China and Morocco.

He was a lieutenant colonel when he served in the Boxer uprisings and he returned to Paris from China as a full colonel. A brigadier general in 1908, he was made a general of division in 1912 and sent to Morocco to command the troops of occupation.

Thus when the World war broke out Gen. d'Esperey was prepared for his next assignment—command of the 5th army. He was placed in command of the group of armies of the east March 31, 1916, and on Dec. 27, 1916, was sent to head the group of armies of the north facing the Germans under command of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria until sent to Salonica as commander in chief of the allied armies of the orient.

His dash from Salonica and the sea to the heart of the Balkan countries and the relief and restoration of Serbia and Rumania, were the crowning efforts of his extremely active 52 months of war.

Wanted to Take Vienna.

He never forgave Premier Clemenceau of France for preventing him from pushing on to Vienna in October, 1918. The orders to halt came from Paris when d'Esperey's armies held all the passes in the mountains, all the main roads and railways, and the crossings of the Danube.

METHODISTS CONSIDER LAY READERS TO MEET SHORTAGE OF PASTORS

To offset a shortage of at least 25 per cent in new ministers, the Methodist board of lay activities, in session in the Stevens hotel yesterday, considered commissioning of lay readers. These lay readers would be authorized to read sermons of ordained ministers and conduct services in churches where no pastors are available.

The lay reader suggestion was made by Bishop J. Ralph Magee of Des Moines, Ia., after a report by Dr. Horace G. Smith, president of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, who represented the nine Methodist Theological seminaries of the country. The report stated that the 300 being graduated from those seminaries this year is short of the demand by at least 25 per cent. Heads of the seminaries are asking the council of bishops, also in session in the Stevens, to appeal to the 109 conferences for action which will recruit more candidate ministers. There are 21,000 Methodist pastors in the 109 conferences.

The lay activities board also considered the necessity of expanding the church's work among service men in the country's armed forces.

He told police that he stopped his car some distance beyond the scene with the intention of returning. After seeing a woman pick the child up, he drove away in the belief that he could not be of help, Rotay said.

Joseph Cihler, 65, of 2542 South Avers avenue, died in County hospital shortly after he was thrown to the pavement by a truck at 25th street and Pulaski road. William McNally, 45, of 616 South Kilpatrick avenue, the driver, said Cihler walked against the side of the truck.

Miss Margaret Prince to Be Bride in East

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE REV. HERBERT W. PRINCE, rector of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, probably couldn't count the north shore weddings at which he has officiated, but next month he'll perform a ceremony which means more than usual to him. Dr. and Mrs. Prince today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Donald Grant Morgan of Hartford, Conn., and at the same time are telling plans for the wedding. This week Miss Prince and her parents will go to their farm in Tamworth, N. H., and the ceremony is to take place on Aug. 29 in the little country church of St. Andrew's-in-the-Fields, Mount Whittier, N. H.

Miss Prince was graduated from Ferry hall and Radcliffe college and took postgraduate work in social service administration at the University of Chicago. She has held social service positions in the Hartford General and Municipal hospitals and in St. Luke's hospital here. Her fiancé, a professor of history and government at Trinity college in Hartford, is a graduate of Cornell university. He took his master's degree at Harvard university, where he will complete work for his doctor of philosophy degree this summer. He and his bride will live in Hartford.

William Tittle to Wed Mary Rosetta Stewart.

Romantic news concerning the family of a second well known north shore minister is contained in the announcement Donald Ross Stewart is making of the engagement of his sister, Miss Mary Rosetta Stewart, to William Meyer Tittle, son of the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church of Evanston, and Mrs. Tittle.

Miss Stewart and her brother, who now make their home in Woodstock, are the daughter and son of the late William A. Stewart of Evanston. Miss Stewart attended the New Trier High school and Briarcliff Junior college. Mr. Tittle attended the North Shore Country Day school, Northwestern university, and the University of Chicago. He is with an air line company in Chicago. The wedding will take place soon.

Mrs. Louis Jaques Tells of Daughter's Marriage.

At Mackinac Island, where Mrs. Louis Tallmadge Jaques is spending the summer as usual, she is telling friends and neighbors of the marriage on July 3 of her daughter, Abbie Jane Jaques Chipperfield, and Basil Eric Holmes of London. The wedding took place in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and none of the bride's family was present.

Mr. Holmes formerly headed an art gallery and school in Fort Lauderdale but now is engaged in defense work. His parents are in Canada, where his father is on a mission for the British government. The former Miss Jaques' first marriage, to Claude B. Chipperfield, did not take place in Chicago, either, for she and the young diplomat were married in romantic Aden, Egypt, where he was stationed. The Chipperfields were divorced last year.

Mrs. Holmes' sister, Mrs. Paul John Chittenden, and Lieut. Chittenden are expected at the Jaques summer home this week-end. Immediately after this short holiday Lieut. Chittenden will report for duty with the navy. Mrs. Chittenden will spend the summer working for Bundles for America instead of at Mackinac Island.

Anne Tippens' Marriage to Charles Buck Is Told.

A wedding that took place last Dec. 30 is revealed in the announcement from Mrs. Albert H. Tippens of the marriage of her daughter, Anne, and Charles Buck, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Buck of Lake Forest. Youthful Miss Tippens, one of six children of Mrs. Tippens and the late Mr. Tippens, attended Ferry hall when her family lived in Lake Forest and then went to the Roycemore school and to New Trier High school when the family moved to Winnetka. Mr. Buck, whose sister, Miss Betty Buck, was a debutante last year, was just graduated from the Lake Forest High school.

Further news of romantic interest comes from Mr. and Mrs. George Engelsmann Jr. of Webster Groves, Mo., who are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Lulie, to C. Durand Allen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Winnetka. Miss Engelsmann, a junior at Smith college, attended Mary institute and made her debut last Christmas. She has visited the Allens. Mr. Allen was graduated from the Hill school and left Dartmouth to train for the army air corps. He is stationed on the west coast.

Leonore Smith Jerrems' Marriage Is Disclosed.

The invitations Mrs. Edward P. Molloy mailed to a sale of Vocational Society for Shut-Ins goods tomorrow were the first public news of her quiet marriage last October. The former Mrs. Leonore Smith Jerrems and Mr. Molloy dashed off on a South American trip following their wedding and since have been at home at her Brinker road home in Barrington. Mr. Molloy's mother is Mrs. James Molloy of Chicago and Minocqua, Wis., where the family gathers frequently during the summer. The younger Mrs. Molloy's mother is Mrs. Merrill Follansbee of Los Angeles.

Visiting country homes will not be so easily done as the public uses its tires less and less. As a reward to those who make the trip tomorrow, in addition to the lovely things offered at the Society for Shut-Ins sale, will be tea and punch. Mrs. John Farrar and Mrs. James Cunningham are some of those helping with the sale.

Mrs. Philip R. Shumway to Have Family Reunion.

For the first time in three years Mrs. Philip R. Shumway will have a complete family reunion this week in her home in Evanston. Lieut. Peter Shumway arrived last night from Honolulu on his first visit home in three years, bringing his wife, the former Adele Wysard, and her mother, Mrs. Paul Wysard of Honolulu. The trio landed in California about a week ago and completed the trip to Evanston by automobile. To celebrate his twin brother's homecoming Lieut. John Shumway expects to fly home this week-end. He also is in the navy and was instructing at Abbott hall when he was sent out recently on an official mission.

Philip B. Shumway, the eldest son, is connected with a vital industry, so he and his wife, the former Betty Longstaff, expect to continue living in Evanston. The boys' sister is Mrs. Robert L. Elliott Jr. [Thyrza Shumway] of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are arriving today from Washington, D. C., to be at the Drake hotel for at least a week.

Summer Travel Costume of Knitted Wool

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

This summer travel costume is of hand knitted lime green wool. The tiny hat is of the same green wool, trimmed with butterflies in brown and green. The slender skirt flares slightly along the lower edge and hugs the figure smoothly around the waist and hipline. The large leather bag is copper colored to match the slipon gloves. The complete outfit is available in a Chicago shop.

Women in War Work

Three young office women evidently coöperated in a quadruple threat letter which one of them, Miss L. M. B., compiled into the following clerical quiz program:

"There are so many things I wish to ask you that I don't know how or where to begin.

"First: I am interested in knowing more about an organization known as the 'American Women's Voluntary association.' Can you tell me if they have any headquarters here in Chicago? Do you know what types of work the organization does and how one can become a member?

"Second: The bill creating a woman's naval auxiliary has recently been passed in congress. Will the navy set up officers' training school as did the army? Where can information be secured as to when applications will be accepted for the officers' examinations?

"Third: Are the women at the recreation center for service men in Lincoln park all registered hostesses of the Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street, or does each service man bring his own partner?

"Fourth: Does the Catholic Service Men's club at 1122 South Wabash avenue hold dances which 'individual' girls attend? I understand that the entire club is taken over by various organizations each evening for the full week and that girls who attend the dances are all members of the organization sponsoring the dance. Is this correct?"

We may as well be as methodical as Miss L. M. B. in our replies, as follows:

First: Quite likely Miss L. M. B. refers to the American Women's Voluntary services instead of association. This organization was set up in January, 1940, to prepare women for any crisis that modern warfare might bring. Headquarters was established at 11 East 58th street, New York. The Central Information bureau, 219 South La Salle, the training center for OCD information desk workers, has no record of the establishment of a branch of the organization in Chicago. As of last December, the services had 200 local units in 28 states.

Second: The bill to create a women's naval reserve is before congress, but it has not been passed. Until it is passed, along with whatever amendments might be made, the women's naval regulations will not be known.

Third: Women who attend the Service Men's Summer Recreation center in Lincoln park are registered at the Chicago Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street, just as are the hostesses at that address. Miss Kay Nelson is in charge of girl members of the center, and Mrs. Sartelle Brooks is in charge of hostesses.

Fourth: The service men's center at 1122 South Wabash avenue is a USO club operated by the National Catholic Community services—just as some USO clubs are operated by the YMCA, others by the Salvation Army, etc. Girls from 18 to 30 may register at the club with Miss Margaret Mary Heing to serve as hostesses or clerical or canteen workers. Miss Heing emphasizes that the minimum age is 18.

This is a small club and therefore probably not so well known. It is particularly useful, because it is close to the Illinois Central station and the 12th street bus terminal, and men going thru Chicago have time to drop in for coffee and cake between schedules.

The center keeps the names of girls on file—there are 1,000 of them registered now—and invitations are issued for specific events. A girl must have her invitation as her admission ticket.

Four nights a week—Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays, and Sundays—different organizations sponsor parties at the club. In order to do this the organizations must obtain their bookings thru the Rev. James Curry at the Council of Catholic Women, 31 East Congress street.

On these occasions—the club parties—the clubs bring both the refreshments and the girls. Club members must be chaperones, and they must be able to indentify every girl who holds a ticket for the event.

The center, which, of course, is open to all service men, as is any USO club, was established last September. It boasts showers [with free towels!] and a poolroom in the basement and writing facilities, daily newspapers and 30 different magazines, and a dance hall on the first floor. The top floor has the canteen and the library stocked from the Victory Book campaign. The club is open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock every night, except Saturday, when closing is at midnight. Donations of food come to the club from regular organizations. Jack Martin is club director, and Father Harold K. Kenney is moderator.

And this, for Miss L. M. B and other young women, is a full budget of information about one of the city's busy service centers.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Hand-Knitted Clothes Last Word in Swank

BY REA SEEGER.

Hand-knitted clothes designed for travel and casual wear are worth every penny marked on the price tags. These models are smooth and supersophisticated in one piece dresses, two piece suits, and the three piece ensembles and are as smart and distinctive as the finest creations made in imported woolens. The details are especially noteworthy, effective ideas like appliqued bands, deftly tied bows of the knitted material, shirred sections and ribbed panels, all combined to make costumes instead of the ordinary looking knitted outfits.

A color range that rates plenty of enthusiastic approval includes such fascinating shades as lime, almond, and chartreuse green, copper and tobacco brown, cherry red, cinnamon pink, star sapphire blue, natural tones and off whites, plus the stunning black, navy, and dark brown shades for street and travel.

Two piece jacket costumes are the best looking finds in the collections. The jackets are cut and fashioned like dressmaker suit jackets, fitted with slim distinction and swank. The skirts are made in the same careful manner with the same unusual lines and interesting patterns.

Because of this nonbulging and no sagging qualities hand-knits such as these are extremely popular with travelers and the career girls, for all models are surprisingly cool and comfortable. Hats to match, usually the small, easily packed models, are featured right in the same collection of dresses, ensembles, and costumes.

Educator Urges More Financial Aid to Students

More and larger state scholarships were urged by Dean T. R. McConnell of the University of Minnesota yesterday in order that a larger number of young persons be given educational opportunities. Dean of Minnesota's college of science, literature, and the arts, he spoke before the 20th annual Institute for Administrative Officers of Higher Institutions at the University of Chicago. The conference opened Tuesday and closes today.

Dean McConnell said he was urging that scholarships be increased in Minnesota from 3,000 to 6,000 yearly and that their maximum amounts be raised from $100 to $300. He said this would keep in college a large number of the students who have to quit because of lack of finances.

The dean criticized the two year educational plan advocated by President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, speaking strongly for a full four year term of higher education. President Hutchins has caused much discussion in educational circles by his plan, in which students are awarded bachelor's degrees after two years of college study.

Lester Schloerb, director of occupational research for the Chicago board of education, told the educators that vocational training in the city's junior colleges has been limited to fields in which theory and practice are combined and a broad educational background is necessary.

He said the local junior college training is based on surveys and thru employer conferences and close relations with such groups as the American Chemical society, Western Society of Engineers, American Institute of Banking, the Cook County Retail council, the United States employment service, and the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

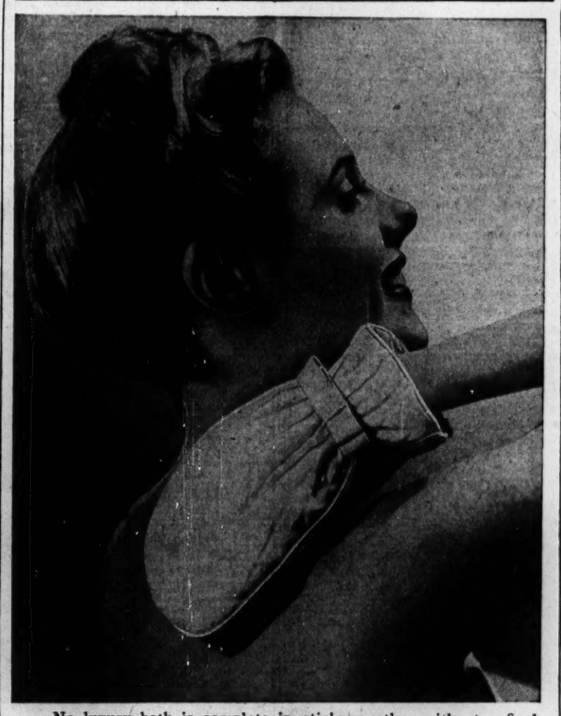
Thru the Looking Glass



No luxury bath is complete in sticky weather without a final dusting with fine, fragrant powder. Thru this satin backed mitten an exquisitely soft powder filters out evenly, cooling the skin and scenting it.

[Charmante Photo.]

One good way to be able to work like an Amazon but keep your feminine point of view—and your femininity—is to make your bath a ritual of luxury. The psychology of the glamor bath is something every woman can understand. She washes away the dreary sense of being a drudge when her bath is fluffed up with sweet scented frou-frou.

Our current love in bath trimmings are some exquisite preparations in which milk, pure dehydrated milk, is an important ingredient. They satisfy, and their scent is heavenly.

First, there is a milk foam powder; a few spoonfuls ladled into the water makes zillions of snowy soft bubbles. What's more, they soften the water, give it a hyacinth-like scent, somehow help make your skin feel smoother. Milky things, as you probably know, are balm to the taut skin.

There is heavenly soap in this same milky family. It's made with a cleansing milk, it lathers extravagantly, and it, too, has that bland quality that makes it particularly acceptable to dry skin.

Cologne is a third bath trimming in the assortment; a different kind, that you have to shake before using, because it, too, contains a bit of that softening milk! It has the lovely fragrance of the others, too.

Final charmer in the milky bath glorifiers is a powder, downy as fluff. It comes in beautiful, dainty satin backed mittens, blue or yellow, thru which the fine powder filters evenly as you pat. It gives the skin a lovely, fragrant finish and helps protect it—a good point in hot water—against chapping or chafing. Makes the skin feel lots cooler, too.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Summer Dieting.

"Have you ever noticed," said the voice on the wire, "how people gorge themselves all summer? Yes, sir! They munch; they chew; they sip, and in the fall wonder what's become of their figures!"

Apparently a group of South Bend office girls have solved the problem thru the "diet club." The plan, outlined in a letter signed "We Three," is: "Each time one of us mentions food during the hours of 8:30 to 11:30 and 1 to 5 we have to put a penny in the kitty. If we get so hungry we have to eat during those hours, we pay a 2 cent fine. The result—$1 in the kitty [after the first month] and no extra pounds."

A Letter for the Boss.

"Dear Boss:

"You probably didn't expect to hear from me again, but my last letter which brought no more serious consequences than a few chortles in the office [in which, thank heaven, you joined] emboldens me to write another.

"I've got something on my mind . . . and don't look now . . . but I think it's Mr. W.

"He's a nice chap and pretty nearly everybody likes him. On the whole he does a good job of hiring girls for our department. But—in the spring his fancy lightly turns to thoughts of blondes. As a result, we have foisted on us [since the first balmy days — and I mean 'balmy'] the dumbest bunch of flaxen haired dolls which ever got together. Worse luck, they got together in our department!

"Honestly, Boss, we can't take time to teach the rudiments of filing to some cuties who caught Mr. W.'s glance. And we can't overlook a letter which begins, 'Dear Mr. Clown' merely because of blue, blue eyes.

"Couldn't we have both a man and woman interviewer for these jobs? You know . . . sorta balance each other. A bit of shrewd feminine appraisal wouldn't hurt Department D, when it comes to hiring new help. As it is, we're not 'appy about it. Hoping you are the same. . . ."

Dis and Data.

Horsehair is now in demand and that old horsehair sofa in your grandmother's parlor would bring a pretty sum. . . upholstery manufacturers are offering $400 a ton for it . . . Any one interested in the job-training courses offered during the summer in the public schools of Chicago should call State 4782 or Randolph 0624. . . . So timely is the emphasis on nutrition, a popular cooking school for business girls, with a course of six lessons for $4, is teaching not only how to cook but how to eat—cafeteria or home style. . . . At the end of the first World war, one out of four workers were women. . . . so far only 10 per cent in this war are women.

Business Slang.

Slang used in business:
Bizad — An office administrative building.
Showcase—Outer office.
Clip Joint—Unethical business.
Mill—A typewriter.
Taproom—A typewriting room.
Tomb—A bank.

This Is Sally's Party Day at Cub Ball Park

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Hi, party winners!

The long-awaited day is here at last, and we're off to Wrigley field to see the Chicago Cubs play the Boston Braves. I don't really suppose I need to remind you that today's party day, —but I do want you to remember to be at our meeting place promptly, and whatever you do, don't forget those invitations which were mailed to you.

Each of the 50 boys and 50 girls selected to attend the baseball game this afternoon has received a personal invitation by mail, but it won't do you a bit of good if you leave it at home on the piano! Tuck it carefully in your pocket so it's sure to be there when I see you this afternoon.

Before I meet my guests at Wrigley field, I'm going to choose 100 boys and girls who'll be attending another exciting party, just one week from today. On July 16 R. K. O. is giving a special showing of Walt Disney's beautful new color picture, "Bambi," just for our party. Your letters have been extra good this week, and I'll probably have a time selecting the winners, but the list of names will be in my column in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, so if you wrote for an invitation you haven't much longer to wait to know your fate.

If you remembered our simple little rules, and are really longing to see "Bambi" you may be an excited party-goer just one week from today!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 8.—Had a long talk with Mike Curtiz, whose "Casablanca" cast tossed him a party on the set, honoring his 15th year here. Asked Mike how it was that he could make such pictures redolent of America ["Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Santa Fe Trail," etc.] when he wasn't a native. "Maybe it's because I've been thru such hell over there, and seen so many people without liberties," he said, "that I love to do the American story." Mike said he'd talked with many refugees on his set and worked their actual experiences, escaping from Nazi countries, into his picture. . . . And Ingrid Bergman, who never tasted ice cream before she was brought to this country, now eats a pint every day. She calls us "the land of the brave and the home of the freeze!"

Mike Curtiz.

RKO will do "Hitler's Children," which shows the training of youth in that country for war. If it's anything like the story, it will be the most horrible and unbelievable thing ever put on the screen.

Gregory Ratoff, who's in New York signing up acts for his musical "Something to Shout About," is having himself a time making guest appearances on the radio, and does he love it! He writes: "This radio business is wonderful—it is terrific! In fact, my next picture will be a radio program." Columbia has borrowed Cobina Wright from Twentieth Century for this one.

Whitewashing George.

George Sanders, tho he plays a half mad artist in "Moon and Sixpence" is no hand with a paint brush. He couldn't even whitewash a fence. So when it came to those masterpieces in oil with which he's supposed to plaster the walls of his Tahitian hut, they were in a spot. But they found Dolya Goutman, young Dutch painter from Chicago's Art institute. Goutman, who already has painted Michele Morgan and Akim Tamiroff, turned in a fine job for Saunders and is now commissioned to make portrait studies of leading characters in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." . . . You'd never believe it, but the fellow who's most in demand over on the "You Were Never Lovelier" set, where Rita Hayworth, Fred Astaire, and Adolphe Menjou are working, isn't an actor—or even a director—but just a lowly stand-by. And why? 'Cause his hobby's palmistry. Some one found it out, and now the poor guy can't get his work done. Director, actors, grips, electricians, wardrobe women—all insist on having their hands read. . . . On the same set yesterday Adolphe and Fred Astaire were showing each other golf strokes with a cane. Along came a sound man and started balancing the cane on his chin. The boys were so envious they spent the rest of the afternoon trying to learn the trick. Adolphe finally succeeded. . . . Eddie Horton's planning a dinner party and vaudeville show out at Belly Acres Sunday, and Carmen Miranda promises to sing me "Chattanooga Choo Choo" in Portuguese. Her tan is the envy of every one, and she won't tell what kind of oil she brought with her from South America.

Travel Notes.

Joe E. Brown, who went alone, unheralded, unpublicized on the first Alaskan entertainment tour, is off again as soon as he finishes "The Daring Young Man," his current picture. This time he'll probably visit troop concentrations in the Caribbean area. . . . When Gary Cooper left for location on "For Whom the Bell Tolls," he didn't drive his own car. He took the 90 mile truck ride with the rest of the gang. . . . Bus riders on Sunset boulevard were startled when they recognized Mary Martin as one of their fellow passengers. Mary, who goes by bus to her radio broadcasts, told me it was good enough for her a few years back, and it's good enough for her now.

Gals and Gab.

Rosalind Russell was disgusted with "My Sister Eileen" yesterday. Said they'd spend 36 days filming her and Janet Blair in a basement apartment. "But I get a change tomorrow," she brightened, "Brian Aherne makes love to me—in the alley!" . . . Incidentally, my home town, Altoona, Pa., is so proud of Janet Blair that they've named the high school little theater "the Janet Blair Playhouse." The only souvenir they have of me in that town is the pointer the principal broke over my back. It's still hanging in the school basement. . . . Virginia Grey plays opposite Gene Autry in "Bells of Capistrano." Virginia was Gene's leading lady five years ago when he was an unknown. Since then, she's made strides at Metro, and Gene hasn't done badly—so they should have a great deal to talk about.

Virginia Grey.

Turning the Tables.

Few years ago, Abbott and Costello tell me [but I didn't believe them] they had an inferiority complex because they played second fiddle to Ann Corio's strip tease in burlesque. They only got on after customers were worn out applauding Ann. Other night at the Masquers [which is Hollywood's equivalent of the Lambs], the boys took over their duties as president and vice president, and one of their guest stars was Ann Corio! . . . The Hollywood Guild theater's been turned into a canteen where service men on leave can sleep, get refreshments. This is largely the work of Bette Davis, who's not only been working in two pictures, "Now, Voyager," and "Watch on the Rhine," but also writing hundreds of letters and phoning all her friends, digging up funds and equipment. Says she can still use plenty of both.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

"When, O, when will I get a finesse to work?" wailed South.

"Probably when you learn not to take so many!" his partner answered tartly.

There was good reason for North's sarcasm. An ironclad game contract had been thrown away on this hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

	NORTH
	♠ Q J 6 3 ♥ Q J ♦ A 6 4 3 ♣ A Q 4
WEST		EAST
♠ 7 2 ♥ 10 9 8 5 2 ♦ 7 2 ♣ J 9 8 6		♠ 8 5 ♥ A K 6 4 ♦ Q 10 9 8 ♣ K 10 7
	SOUTH ♠ A K 10 9 4 ♥ 7 3 ♦ K J 5 ♣ 5 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the top of his heart sequence. East cashed his heart tricks, then shifted to the ten of diamonds. Declarer made the correct play of covering with the jack and was very pleased when it held the trick. [Later he forgot all about the success of this finesse!] Trumps then were drawn in two rounds, after which declarer cashed the diamond king, then led to the diamond ace. The failure of the diamond suit to break 3-3 caused a frown of annoyance to flit over South's comely features, but he did not mind this so much until after he had ruffed dummy's last diamond and led a club to the queen. When East smothered that card, however, and on a club return declarer still had to concede another trick [and the defeat of his contract], he gave utterance to the heartrending wail recorded above.

South had had no ground for complaint in this deal. When the diamond finesse worked, the simplest sort of routine play would have insured the contract. After drawing trumps, cashing the diamond king, and leading to dummy's diamond ace, what could have been simpler than to lead dummy's last diamond and make East a gracious present of the trick, discarding a club from the closed hand? That would be East's third trick, and also his last. Now, if he returned a club, it would go up to dummy's A-Q; if he returned a heart, declarer could throw off his next to last club while dummy ruffed.

Good Morning!

This fast moving little war training camp movie has two prongs to its horn. . . .

It's interesting from the maneuver angle and spins excitement with its fictional adventures of a bank robber who kill a sergeant's brother and escapes in his victim's uniform. . . . Later the fiend peels off the uniform—and enlists—feeling that in the army his identity will be swallowed up. . . . It's his bad luck to find that the aforementioned sergeant is his superior officer.

Sergt. Manson has never seen the murderer, but he's sworn not to rest until he catches up with him. . . . One thing leads to another—and so—go on from here with the picture, which is capably produced and acted.

Let me call your attention to Don Porter, who plays the villain. Don't you see great possibilities in this young newcomer? Handsome—and smart!

The picture has a wee bit of romance and some moderately funny comedy provided by Messrs. Devine and Carrillo as ba-ad boy pals of the sergeant.

See you tomorrow.

The cooks of the world ought to get together some time and award a special honor to the man [or woman] who invented ring molds. They offer such an attractive means of serving so many foods from meat to dessert.

A vegetable ring mold filled with a second vegetable, a creamed meat, or even a thick sauce is a most tempting beginning for a summer luncheon or supper menu. For the mold, select a vegetable that takes kindly to baking and to seasonings, and use your ingenuity in filling the center of the mold. You can even horn in with a third vegetable as garnish around the outer edge of the ring, thus making a complete vegetable meal.

Carrot Ring Mold.
[Serves six.]
2 cups cooked, sieved carrots
1 cup grated American cheese
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup milk

Combine carrots and cheese, and stir in well beaten eggs, then add bread crumbs and milk. Turn into well buttered ring mold and set in pan of hot water, bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1 hour, or until firm.

SUGGESTED FILLINGS FOR CENTER OF RINGS: Slivered green beans with lemon flavored butter [garnish outer edge with sautéed slices of Zucchini squash]; creamed spinach, flavored with onion; green peas with pimiento around outer edge.

Many persons like spinach in a ring mold who don't care for it served any other way. Perhaps it's the attractive appearance or the texture that pleases them. Here's an excellent recipe.

Spinach Ring Mold.
[Serves five or six.]
1½ pounds fresh spinach
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup crushed soda crackers
1 teaspoon onion juice
Dash of garlic salt or juice
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
3 eggs, separated

Wash spinach carefully and cook until just tender. Drain and chop. Make a thick white sauce of the butter, flour, and milk, and add to spinach along with crushed crackers, onion juice, garlic, salt, and pepper. Stir in beaten egg yolks, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into well greased ring mold and set in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 45 to 50 minutes, or until firm.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Lime Catsup.
Grated rind and juice of 8 large limes
2 tablespoons grated horseradish
2 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons white mustard seed
4 teaspoons celery seed
8 whole cloves
3 or 4 blades mace
Dash of red pepper

Mix ingredients and bring to boil. Lower heat, cover, and simmer for 35 minutes. Stir frequently. Turn into sterilized bottle and seal while hot. Let stand 5 or 6 weeks before using.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY KATE MASSEE

In Real Danger.

An Evanston girl received a letter recently from Edward T. Sickles, lieutenant, j. g., who recently was assigned to a marine base on the Atlantic coast. He wrote that he'd pulled the usual number of boners, one that almost put him on the spot with the traditionally tough marines. His orders for the day included mustering a detachment of men at 6 a. m. He somehow got into the wrong area and ordered out a detachment that had been given liberty for the morning and had planned to sleep until noon. "I'm grateful," Lieut. Sickles concluded, "that I'm still sound in body and limb."

Chauvinistic Note.

Returning one afternoon to his home in the officers' quarters at the Great Lakes naval training station, Comm. Samuel B. Deal was amazed at the unusual spectacle that greeted him—victory "V's" arranged thruout the rooms. The fountain pens in a twin set were inclined toward each other, two decks of playing cards were riffled in a V on the table, and even the knives and forks were placed in interlocking formation. The mystery of these ingenious arrangements was solved when the station janitor admitted having spent quite a lot of time in effecting them.

War Conscious Ducks.

The foregoing recalls an amusing experience that befell Lenore Healy on a recent visit to the Great Lakes station. As she drove away she was forced to bring her car to a sharp halt, because 10 ducks were walking across the road. Suddenly a car coming from the opposite direction sounded its horn, whereupon the leader of the duck brigade, giving a clear call, soared into the air, followed by nine little ducks in perfect formation.

Fair Enough.

Ann Ward tells of a Radcliffe classmate who, weighing far too much for her age and height, was dispatched by her mother to consult a specialist. Outwardly agreeable but inwardly rebellious, the girl sat thru a series of questions and went thru the usual checkup in the doctor's office. Finally the medico, a bit on the plump side himself, handed her a list of diet instructions and commented, with a bland smile, "And now we're going to lose 40 pounds, aren't we?"

"Yes," exploded the girl, "you lose 20 and I'll lose 20."

Linden Trees in Illinois.

A subtle fragrance fills the air
After a week of rain;
The fragrances of old Cadiz
Are heavy over Wayne.

Successive floods of sweet perfume
Are pouring down on me,
As tho from gardens at Dal Lake
Or night flowers of Bali.

It might be jasmine from Cathay,
Unguents from desert lands,
Magnolia from the deep, deep south
Or . . . suddenly my hands

Are reaching high for star shaped flowers
Upon our linden tree
That lifts above the chimney roof
Yet droops low, gracefully.

And tho their heady scent recalls
Cashmere, Cathay, Cadiz—
The clustered fragrance they exhale
Is the loveliest there is.

Jews Answer Their Critics in New Book

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A book, "Questions and Answers Concerning the Jew," which was prepared and published by the Anti-defamation league of B'nai B'rith, has just come from the press. It raises and answers with full documentation many of the queries which rise in sincerely interested minds as well as defamatory tales invented by anti-Semitic groups.

In the preface, the Rev. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy of New York, Presbyterian minister who directs the National Conference of Christians and Jews, said the book evolved from an experience in a friendly living room where a group of Christians discussed many questions concerning anti-Semitism. Sigmund Livingston of the league, was present and was asked to put into writing answers to the main queries which arose.

Following are some of the questions discussed:

"What is the historicity concerning the crucifixion of Jesus? What is the Talmud? What is the Talmud's teaching in regard to the relations between Christians and Jews? How did the ridiculous fable that Jews practice ritual murder originate?

"Who concocted the protocols of the elders of Zion, and why? Does there exist a 'Benjamin Franklin prophecy,' and a 'Charles Pinckney diary'? What rôle did Jews play in Russian communism? How many officials of the Soviet government are of Jewish descent? Who are the leaders of communism in America? How many Jews in the United States belong to the Communist party? What was the total Communist vote in Germany before the advent of Hitler? What portion of that vote was Jewish?

"What rôle do Jews play in American industry? Do Jews control banking in the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France? Do Jews control the American press? Do Jews control the radio? To what extent do Jews participate in the whole area of the motion picture industry? What percentage of Jews are in government employ? Jews in literature and music? Has Jewish philanthropy been confined to Jews?"

In the chapter devoted to the crucifixion of Christ, the book raises the question whether "The Jews" as an entire people, were responsible for Christ's death. Such a view, it added, "would be a monstrous injustice."

"It must not be forgotten," the book continues, "that the faithful followers of Jesus, his disciples . . . were Jews; the crowds which thronged to him and hailed him as teacher and friend . . . the women who were devoted to him and who brought their children to him to be blessed by him, they all were Jews.

"What could have happened, at most, was that Jesus was confronted with certain communal officers, probably a few despised Quislings who held with Rome, concerning Jesus' seemingly unorthodox utterances."

The question of the trial before the Sanhedrin and the historical soundness of some of the Biblical accounts of judicial procedure which the book says are "completely at variance with Jewish court procedure," has been given recent support by eminent historical scholars. This variance was pointed out by Prof. Albert T. Olmstead of Oriental institute, University of Chicago. He explained that the synoptic [Matthew, Mark, and Luke] gospels betray lack of historical knowledge of ancient judicial procedure.

On the other hand, the gospel of St. John, he said showed correct knowledge of such procedure. He added that this gospel takes the blame for the crucifixion of Christ off the shoulders of the Jewish people and puts it on the high priests alone.

"While the synoptics blame the [whole] Jewish people for the death of Jesus, and Matthew tells of the whole people invoking blood guilt upon themselves and their children, John places the blood guilt on the high priests alone," Dr. Olmstead declared.

Dr. Olmstead also confirmed the view that the high priests "were not representative of the people of Palestine" but held their positions only under conditions imposed by Roman overlords.

It's Possible to Reclaim a Drifting Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"He's losing interest. I'm so afraid I'll lose him. Please tell me how I may keep him!" That's the plea with which we are confronted daily.

If the situation hasn't progressed to the point where, in order to see him, the woman has to get in touch with the man, there is some hope for reclaiming his interest. But, if he obviously does not wish to see her any more, the wise woman will not annoy her beloved with telephone calls, invitations and, worst of all, accusations. She will recognize that he does not love her and try to patch together the broken pieces of her heart in preparation for a good workout on a new love interest.

To quote from Mary's letter: "Never before have I met a man like him. He seemed to think the world of me. I felt so happy and contented when with him, and when away from him I glowed all thru with the comfort of his love, even tho he had never told me he loved me. He was patient, tolerant, and everything I said or did seemed to be all right with him. Perhaps that's why he suddenly began to lose interest. Perhaps I stretched his understanding too far. I was so happy in his loving me that I failed to be as understanding of him as I now know I should have been!

"I first noticed his waning interest when he didn't call me every day. He said he was busy, but he thought of me just the same, and that he always remembered his friends. Then I noticed that he didn't make as many dates with me. Again he said he was very much worried about business, and was working late. I believed him. Now, however, he calls only once in every two weeks. I'm heartbroken!"

Start all over again. Pretend you are just getting acquainted. He may still be fond of you and miss you.

Reform

has swept over Junior. He eats his breakfast now. All because his mother changed to Wheaties, toasted whole wheat flakes with a come-'n-get-it flavor. Now he eats his whole wheat — and loves it!

The Housewife

An easy way to remove tarnish from your fine etched or embossed silverware is to use a new product made especially for the purpose. Because it is not a paste it leaves no caked residue. It is a soft cotton which has been saturated with a silversmith's preparation and you simply pull a little of it from the glass jar in which it is packed, rub it on the silver, dry for a moment, and then polish with a soft cloth. Its makers claim silver remains bright longer after this treatment. It is not inexpensive, but it does save a lot of fuss and muss.

Threats Are Poor Slogans for Mothers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Just wait until your father comes home!" is a sinister slogan that too many mothers use, and which we have warned you against in this column.

"Just wait until I get you home!" is another of the unpleasant threats usually issued from most disagreeable looking maternal lips, that I try to think are extinct, but aren't.

Not long ago I heard it three times in one day.

One occasion was on the train. The very little girl onl wanted her window open like her brother's, and when she found out her mother wouldn't allow it she burst into tears. Ordered to stop, she would only cry harder. For some reason this seemed to infuriate her mother.

"Wait until I get you home," she said, and gave the child a shake. The poor baby sobbed herself to sleep.

The next time was on a bus. This mother was what we can only call "gotten up," the finishing touch being extra sheer stockings and open-toed, spike-heeled, red shoes. Her little daughter was dressed within an inch of her life, too, but was not restrained by her grandeur. She was as active as a little pollywog. Finally, she slipped off the seat in her wriggling and one foot scraped her mother's red pump.

Bang! on the seat she was settled, and a little cowed look came in her eyes as her mother practically hissed in her ear: "Sit still, do you hear me? Just wait until I get you home. Just you see what I'll do to you."

The third time was in front of a big department store. The little boy was playing hide and seek with his mother in the crowd, a perilous pastime, of course, altho he didn't realize it. Finally she caught him, took hold of his hair, pulled it, and almost shouted: "Just wait until I get you home. You'll see what you'll get."

If those mothers could have seen their faces and heard themselves as the people in the cars and street did, I feel sure they would never again say those hateful, threatening words for some small childish offense:

Certainly, on the ground of vanity alone, there's not anything more unbecoming to a mother than unbridled anger against her child.

Weddings

Miss Barbara Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Anderson of Euclid avenue, and George Raymond Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Hudson of Rochester, N. Y., will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Bryn Mawr Community church. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents. Immediately after the reception Mr. Hudson and his bride will leave for a western post, where he is stationed in the psychological research unit of an army air corps field.

Judge and Mrs. Leon Edelman of Marine drive announce the marriage on Tuesday of their daughter, Harriet Lila, to Pvt. Bernard David Morrowitz of St. Louis, Mo. The ceremony took place at the Congress hotel, Rabbi A. L. Lassen officiating. Also on Tuesday Judge Edelman was re-elected for the seventh time as chief justice of the district court, No. 6, of the B'nai B'rith, which covers the midwestern states and Canada. The bride, a graduate of Stephens college, will reside with her parents while Mr. Morrowitz, a graduate of the University of Missouri law school, is with the army.

John Allen Re-Elected Chairman of Board of Episcopal Church Club

John D. Allen, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club and general manager of Brinks' Express company, was reëlected chairman of the board of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago at the club's annual meeting yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. Irwin N. Walker of Crystal Lake, a Chicago attorney, was elected president of the club.

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago addressed the annual meeting. He declared that the church will emerge the stronger because of the present world crisis if leadership of the church abandons functions unnecessary to religion and concentrates on the things that remain.

I haven't noticed a ban on appetites, have you? The bigger the better, especially when pot-luck dishes are the order.

POT-LUCK IDEA, ONE: Meat Rolls: Peel 6 hard-cooked Clear Brook Eggs, chop, and add 3 T. finely chopped green pepper, 1 T. grated onion, 3 T. finely chopped sweet pickle, and 1 T. pickle juice. Moisten with Wilson's Mayonnaise. Place small spoonfuls of this mixture on each of 12 slices of Wilson's Certified Lasting Flavour Luncheon Meat. Roll and fasten with a toothpick. Serve cold.

POT-LUCK IDEA, TWO: Arrange slices of chilled Wilson's Certified Tender Made Ham in overlapping rows. Garnish with slices of French tomatoes. Made by peeling and slicing tomatoes, then sprinkling with salt, pepper, pinch of sugar. Alternate layers of tomatoes and onion slices, cover and let stand in refrigerator 4 hours. Then remove the onion slices and save for cooking. Add parsley garnish to platter. Serve with relishes, assorted breads and potato salad. Oo-lah-lah!

POT-LUCK IDEA, THREE: Wilson's Certified Chili Con Carne Plain (without beans). That's the only way it's made now. Served in a nest of plain cooked spaghetti, with celery hearts, and radishes added for garnish. Hasty, Tasty, or Chili Con Carne served between layers of crusty corn bread. Nice going, this.

GASOLINE ALLEY—SLIM PICKIN'S

UNCLE IKE, I'VE GOT TO HAVE HELP WITH THE HAYING. I WONDERED IF YOU KNEW ANYBODY I COULD GET.
NINA, THE OLD ONES THAT ARE ANY GOOD ARE WORKING. THEN THERE ARE THE YOUNG SQUIRTS. OF COURSE, THERE'S NOTHING IN BETWEEN.
WELL, IF YOU KNOW A YOUNG SPROUT WHO'D BE MORE OF A HELP THAN A HINDRANCE, SEND HIM OUT TO SEE ME.
I'LL DO WHAT I CAN, NINA. BUT THE CROP HAS BEEN KIND OF PICKED OVER.

CHICAGO'S FIRST RENT CURB SUIT WON BY TENANT

Girl Praised in Pleading Case; Loses Decision.

The first dispute under the federal rent regulation was won by the tenant concerned yesterday, but not until after the landlord's daughter captured the admiration of the court for her able presentation of the case for the defense.

Miss Stephanie Solowski, 22 year old brunette stenographer, appeared before Federal Judge William H. Holly as her attorney. She had never been in a courtroom before, but she recited her version of the controversy with such calm cogency that Judge Holly was stirred to remark:

Orders Equipment Restored.

"That was an able presentation, a wonderful accomplishment for a girl who has never studied law or been in a courtroom."

Judge Holly issued a mandatory order against Miss Solowski, her sister Genevieve, and her mother, Mrs. John Solowski, directing them to restore within three days a gas range and electric refrigerator to the apartment of Floyd Davison, 5156 Newport avenue, where they own an eight flat building.

The action was instituted by Earl Dean Howard, Chicago area rent director, when Davison, a barber, had complained that the Solowskis had removed the equipment after he paid $43 for July rent which was the rent rate for the apartment on March 1, the rent ceiling date.

Must Petition for Reduction.

Miss Solowski argued that the $43 rental paid by a previous tenant did not include the furnishing of the range and refrigerator and that the lease called for $45 a month. Judge Holly commented that she was possibly justified but that the law provides that the landlord must petition the rent director before reducing services.

Upon hearing the court order, Mrs. Solowski muttered angrily, "I won't do it." After a whispered conference with her daughter, she said she would comply.

Attorney Warns Landlords.

Landlords who are deliberately evading the rent control regulation by cutting services will feel the weight of the law's penalties, John E. McCarthy, chief rent attorney, warned. He said he has sent Charles D. Stearns, investigator, to inquire into several emergency cases in which water and electricity had been shut off.

"Unless these violations stop, we will recommend criminal prosecution of the violators to the department of justice," he said.

ARMY DESERTERS, GIRL KIDNAPED IN IOWA SEIZED

Denver, Colo., July 8 (AP).—Two men, arrested with a 16 year old girl who told authorities the pair had abducted her at Decorah, Ia., were taken to Fort Collins, Colo., tonight to await filing of charges growing out of the slugging of a motorist who had offered them aid.

Detective Sergt. Leslie C. Sawyer said the two were army deserters from Fort Sill, Okla. He quoted the girl as saying the men robbed her escort of $40, took his car and drove west with her. The name of the girl, who said she lived in Hesper, Ia., was not disclosed.

[Margaret Rollie, 16 years old, of Hesper, Ia., has been missing since the night of June 30, when she started for a dance with Orville Salveson, 30, a neighbor. Salveson said he picked up two men in uniform who were hitch-hiking, and that these men overpowered him, robbed him, put him out of the car, and drove away with the girl.]

Sawyer said John McNey of Livermore, Colo., stopped when he came upon the men's stalled automobile and offered to take them to the nearest town in his car. Instead, the officer related, the men slugged McNey and fled in his car.

KATHRYN GRAYSON.

Hollywood, Cal., July 8 (AP).—Actor John Shelton emerged from the hospital room where his actress wife, Kathryn Grayson, is recuperating from an appendectomy and told reporters their recent separation was a one day breach even tho it was accompanied by a divorce suit. The suit was filed June 4.

"The divorce action has been dismissed, and we have been very happy together again the past five weeks," Shelton said.

OPA RELEASES 1,172 BICYCLES TO CHICAGOANS

Chicagoans who need bicycles in their work or to travel to and from their jobs were alloted 1,172 new bicycles for July under the rationing program which becomes effective today, Michael F. Mulcahy, OPA administrator for the Chicago metropolitan area, said yesterday. The quota allocated for the entire area, including Cook county and parts of Lake and DuPage counties, is 1,491.

After the bicycle supply was frozen April 2, the stock of adult sizes was estimated at 240,000 for the nation. To obtain permits to purchase bicycles, applicants must prove they are employed or are contributing to the war effort or public welfare; need bicycles to travel quickly or deliver messages; need bicycles at least three days a week, and certify they have not disposed of bicycles since April 2.

Drop Plan for Special Aldermanic Elections

A proposed ordinance which was to have called for special aldermanic elections in the 5th and 7th wards to fill vacancies failed to materialize at yesterday's city council meeting. It was reported that Mayor Kelly dropped the proposal when he learned the two ward elections would cost approximately $16,000. Ald. Paul Douglas [5th] resigned recently to become a private in the marine corps. Ald. Thomas Daley [7th] died last winter.

$1,000,000 Check 'Kiter' Found Guilty by Jury

New York, July 8 (AP). — Samuel Feldman, son of a former junk dealer of Petoskey, Mich., who "kited" checks totaling nearly a million dollars in four years and was known as one of Broadway's lavish spenders, was convicted tonight by a federal jury of using the mails to defraud. Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver remanded Feldman for sentence tomorrow. He faces a possible maximum prison term of 35 years and fines aggregating $70,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8 [Special].—Indiana's enrollment in the June 30 draft registration of youths 18, 19, and 20 years old totaled 75,042.

MIDWEST TOPS EAST 2 TO 1 IN RUBBER DRIVE

15 States Congratulated by President.

The midwest leads all other sections of the nation in scrap rubber collections and has contributed twice as much as the eastern seaboard, Wesley Nunn, executive secretary of the petroleum industries midwest district, said yesterday.

He disclosed that district 2, comprising 15 midwestern states, had been commended by President Roosevelt for its outstanding contribution to the national goal. A telegram from the White House said:

"Congratulations! Great work is being done by your organization. Keep at it until Friday night. There is more scrap and nonessential rubber in the country. The country needs more yet, needs all it can get. Go to it."

Figures Up to July 3.

Nunn said that of the 334,293 tons of rubber scrap collected thruout the country up to July 3, district 2 accounted for 146,448 tons. He made the following comparisons between tonnage collected and population in the five petroleum industries districts of the nation:

	Population.	Collections, tons.
Dist. 1 [eastern seab'rd]	53,800,000	72,699
Dist. 2 [midwestern]	48,131,000	146,448
Dist. 3 [southwestern]	16,277,000	43,661
Dist. 4 [Rocky Mtn.]	3,008,000	14,671
Dist. 5 [Pacific coast]	10,775,000	56,814
Total	131,991,000	334,293

Nunn said that central storage depots must be used to store scrap rubber which cannot be shipped to reclamation plants now overstocked.

Would Need 17,000 Cars.

Moving the huge pile of scrap would require about 17,000 freight cars, he said. By July 5, 765 freight cars had been loaded with rubber scrap for shipment to reclaiming plants.

Mayor Kelly designated tomorrow, the last day of the scrap rubber collection drive, as "rubber day" in Chicago in an effort to obtain a final spurt in donations before the midnight deadline.

One of five national rail conferences will be held in the Palmer House today in an effort to locate 40 million feet of rail available for use by the armed forces and to increase collection of metal scrap by railroads. Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad, will preside at the conference which will start at 10 a. m.

CHICAGO TO OPEN DRIVE NEXT WEEK TO SALVAGE TIN

Plans for the metropolitan district's tin salvage campaign were explained to more than 500 neighborhood salvage chairmen and workers last night by William L. McFetridge, the district salvage director and president of the Building Service Employés' International union. McFetridge addressed the workers in city council chamber. He said that Mayor Kelly plans to issue a proclamation opening the campaign next Thursday.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

The mail of this department is heavy with letters from men who are classified 1-B, who, under the recent modification of the physical standards for this group, are interested in knowing what men will be affected. Among the men now classified 1-B, because of minor physical defects, who will be eligible for duty under the "limited service status," are the following:

1. Men whose weight and chest measurements are under or over the standard set for 1-A registrants, but who are otherwise mentally and physically fit, and who do not fall within the 4-F classification.

2. Those who have a minimum vision of 20/400 in one or both eyes without glasses, if correctible with glasses to 20/40 in either eye. The loss of one eye, providing such loss was not caused by organic change, will not result in the rejection of an individual, provided the other eye has 20/200 vision correctible to 20/40 or better.

Hearing Rules Explained.

3. Men whose hearing in one or both ears is not less than 5/20. Complete deafness in one ear will not result in rejection, provided the hearing is 10/20 or better in the other ear; nor will the loss of both external ears, provided the individual has followed a useful vocation in civil life.

4. Those who had insufficient teeth to qualify for Class 1-A, provided the defect is correctible by artificial dentures and there is no evidence of extensive areas of infection or other disease of the jaws, the correction of which would require protracted treatment.

5. Individuals with a lateral deviation of the spine from the normal midline of less than three inches.

6. Men who have lost an entire thumb on either hand; or those who have lost three entire fingers, provided the thumb remains.

7. Those who have lost the great toe, lost the dorsal flexion of the great toe, have a hammer toe, or have webbed toes, provided these or other defects do not prevent them from wearing a military shoe, and have not prevented them from following a useful vocation in civil life.

Civil Vocation Is Factor.

8. Individuals who have been able to follow a useful vocation in civil life despite moderate deformities of one or both upper extremities, one or both lower extremities, or moderate deformities of the clavicle, ribs, or scapula.

If, in the course of examining those who are classified 1-B, it is revealed that an individual is qualified for "general" rather than "limited" military service, he will be inducted as a 1-A registrant.

The 1-B men to be inducted in August will be assigned to corps area service and to duty in the war department, releasing able bodied soldiers now on such assignments. Upon induction these men will follow the same general procedure as other men.

859 HARVESTER EMPLOYES JOIN ORDNANCE FORCE

Specialist Battalion Will Repair Tanks, Guns.

Employés of the International Harvester company gave their answer yesterday to a call from their country. More than 1,000 of them volunteered for a battalion that can use only 859 men.

The Harvester company workers will not fight with guns. They will fight with skill, and experience, maintaining the tanks and other equipment of the army's mechanized forces.

The unit, officially the 12th ordnance maintenance battalion, armored division, army of the United States, is the first of several such battalions to be formed from the employés of big industrial corporations.

Job Is Maintenance.

Upon these units will fall the responsibility for the mechanical maintenance of all the ordnance equipment used by the American armored divisions, including tanks and other combat vehicles, artillery and machine guns, small arms and fire control instruments. Army officers say dispatches from Libya indicate that victory often may go to the side which can repair its damaged equipment quicker and more efficiently.

The Harvester company workers who will make up the battalion therefore include machinists, mechanics, blacksmiths, welders, carpenters, painters chauffeurs, electricians, storekeepers, warehousemen, clerks, engineers, supervisors of repair parts, radio experts, tool makers, and leather and canvas workers.

Plans for the battalion were announced by Lieut. Col. D. L. Van Syckle, who will be the commander, and Fowler McCormick, president of the company. Except for Col. Van Syckle, the commissioned officers will be chosen from the workers.

Begin Duty Wednesday.

Members of the battalion will represent the company's general office, manufacturing plants, sales branches, dealers and dealer organizations. The battalion will begin active duty next Wednesday. After basic training in Camp Perry, O., it will be ready for field service.

The enlistment campaign was directed by M. F. Peckels of the company's sales department and Col. Van Syckle.

McCormick praised the employés for their response to the country's call. He said that more than 3,000 company employés already are in the armed service.

Warns Public Not to Pay Coal Prices Over Ceiling

Coal ceiling prices are fixed by the Office of Price administration at the highest level prevailing in the period Dec. 15 to 31, 1941, John C. Weigel, regional OPA administrator, said yesterday. Consumers are advised not to pay any more for the same grade of coal as paid during that period, he said.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline [non-acid] powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" [denture breath]. Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

LON WARNEKE'S A CUB AGAIN; REPORTS TODAY

ALL-STAR ARMY RELIEF DRIVE STILL NEEDS $24,800

FRED B. SNITE SR. DONATES $2,000 TOTAL $75,200

Judge J. A. Sbarbaro Joins List.

BY ARCH WARD.

Fred B. Snite Sr.

That's a tragic message in itself, but it becomes more pathetic when the one who receives the official slip of paper happens to be a young wife who suddenly is shorn of her children's breadwinner.

It's those wives, mothers, and children who in years ahead will reap the benefits of Chicago's all-out effort to raise $100,000 for Army Emergency Relief thru the All-Star football game.

This is not intended as a sob piece. It's a straight from the shoulder appeal for help for a cause that requires no salesmanship. Chicago's response is the answer to the sincerity of the effort.

He's an All-Star Fan.

The fund this morning totals $75,200. The biggest of the new donations was $2,000 from Fred B. Snite Sr., head of the Local Loan company. Mr. Snite, who owns the Elmhurst Country club, has attended every All-Star game.

Judge J. A. Sbarbaro contributed $400. R. C. Bennett of I. A. Bennett & Co., manufacturers, sent $300, and another check for $300 in the name of his daughter, Betty Jane Bennett. B. E. Henderson of the Household Finance corporation donated $200.

Chicago Tribune Charities, sponsor of the ninth annual All-Star game, will give a 50 yard line ticket for each $100 contribution to the fund, every cent of which will go to Army Emergency Relief. Profits resulting from the normal sale of tickets will be divided equally between Navy Relief and Army Relief.

Anticipate 100,000 Crowd.

The game, which will be played in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28 between the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football league, and the College All-Stars, chosen in a national poll that will begin Sunday, is expected to attract another capacity crowd of approximately 100,000.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

AN OLYMPICS in miniature is being considered for American and other allied forces in Australia next October. . . . This word comes to Fred H. Steers, secretary treasurer of the Central Amateur Athletic union, from Joseph Galli, an Australian sportsman. . . . Galli wrote the Chicagoan that the American soldiers now have their own army baseball leagues. . . . The Australian voices the hope that when the war is over a rivalry will be built up between sports teams in his country and those of the United States. . . . The army Olympics is tentatively planned for Melbourne. . . . Some smart baseball men say there is no such thing as an unlucky pitcher, that the fellow who's always losing usually has only himself to blame. . . . The late Jack La Grave, who was general manager of the Fort Worth Cats when they perennially had the best team in the south, used to say: "You can have all those 2 to 1 losers; just give me the fellows who win, 9 to 8!" Until the first game of Sunday's double header, Don Gutteridge, Browns' second baseman, had made only four errors in 78 games. . . . Then he made two in that 14 to 2 loss to the White Sox. . . . Jackie Davis, who was runner-up to Barney Ross in the 1929 Chicago Golden Gloves tournament, is driving a pop truck in Cleveland. . . . The hitherto inexplainable cause of Fiddler McGee's ineffectiveness has been discovered. . . . The Giants' pitcher has a spinal flaw which makes his left leg slightly shorter than the right, thus putting an added strain on his shoulder muscles in pitching. . . . Or so they say. . . . Air Castles.

I'm building castles in the air,
Imagination?
They seem so real over there,
A rare creation.
Their golden towers made of dreams,
And wishful thinking,
Enrich my life, and yet it seems
To cost me nothing.

Some day the structure may fall down
Upon the builder,
But this will not affect the town—
I, only, suffer.
And keep on building

Eggplants have lined up in a row.
I'm not a farmer but, by gosh,
This garden will help beat the Boche,
And it will make the pagan hordes

Lade Pitches No Hit Game for Shreveport

San Antonio, Tex., July 8 [Special].—Doyle Lade of Shreveport in the Texas league tonight pitched a no hit, no run game against San Antonio in the second game of a double header. The score of the seven inning game was 1 to 0. San Antonio won the first game, 5 to 4.

A $368 WINNER RUNS ARLINGTON DOUBLE TO $1,182

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Ever Flying, the longest shot on the board, and Sir L., the 3 to 2 favorite, won the first and second races yesterday at Arlington Park to put over the biggest daily double of the Chicago season—$1,182.60.

Ever Flying, a 2 year old gelding making the third start of his career, was quoted at odds of 183 to 1, his payoff being $368.60, $174.40 and $95.80 across the board. He was the second longest paid winner on a Chicago area track this year, the biggest having been Manymor, which paid $377.80 to win the eighth race at Lincoln Fields on May 28.

There was considerable tension as the field went to the post for the second race—for there were some tremendous daily doubles possible, ranging from the minimum of $1,182.60 on Sir L. to $28,386 on Sidetrack.

A $14,193 Double—Not Quite.

Those who held doubles tickets on Valdina Blue got quite a thrill for a minute or so. This horse, with a $14,193 double riding on his nose, rushed into the lead soon after the break in this six furlong dash. He drew out to an advantage of a length and a half and maintained his margin on the swing around the curve.

In the stretch, however, Valdina Blue gave way suddenly and soon quit completely. Sir L., which Ralph Neves had been rating along in second place, moved to the front soon after the stretch run began and withstood all challenges. He was leading by a length and a half in mid-stretch and protected this advantage all the rest of the way. Minotira took second place from All Steele by a neck.

Goes Down the Middle.

Jockey Don MacAndrew got him away well in this five and a half furlong dash, rating him along in fourth position while Aerial Image, Roy Jones, and Miss Advice were engaging in a battle for the lead. As they came into the stretch the three leaders were head and head with Ever Flying about a length and a half farther back. MacAndrew took his mount to the outside for racing room and sent him down the middle of the track.

Aerial Image quit, but Miss Advice and Roy Jones continued resolutely, and Alacyon and Balmand joined in the battle. At midstretch there were six horses with little more than a length between the first and last. It wasn't until the closing strides that Ever Flying forged ahead to get the decision over Alacyon by a nose. Miss Advice was third.

A total of $224 was bet across the board on Ever Flying in the pool of $49,035. Of this, $105 was wagered to win, $48 to place, and $71 to show.

Arlington's Best Price.

Tho longer priced horses have won at other Chicago tracks, Ever Flying's price was the biggest ever paid at Arlington. The largest previous return was on Sharp Shell June 24 of last year. He returned $313.

Tho yesterday's double was a good one, it was far short of the record of $10,700 which was paid at Washington Park several years ago when Joy Bet and Merry Caroline won.

Blue Delight, owned by Mrs. John Marsch of Chicago, beat a fashionable field of fillies in the $5,000 Cinderella purse, main event on the afternoon's program. Jockey Ralph Neves sent her over the finish line three lengths in advance of Joseph E. Widener's Waygal while Mrs. Victor Sovinski's Distant Isle was coming up along the rail to take third place away from Woolford farm's Pigtails.

The race, a preliminary to next Wednesday's $10,000 Matron stakes, was brilliantly contested from start to finish of the seven furlongs. Kesargo, Miss Dogwood and Pigtails went out on even terms soon after the break and Blue Delight, temporarily restrained, joined them as they went into the turn. Running head and

By the margin of a nose, Ever Flying crosses finish line in yesterday's first race at Arlington Park, rewarding his few backers with $368.60 for a $2 win ticket. 141 by Ward Wins Medal in Western Golf

Spokane, Wash., July 8 (AP).—Corp. Marvin [Bud] Ward today won medal honors in the Western Amateur Golf meet. The defending champion shot a 68, four under par, to post a 36 hole total of 141 and take medal laurels by two strokes in the tournament he has dominated the last two years.

Ward put together a pair of 34s and could just as well have lopped half a dozen strokes off those figures if his tee shots had behaved. Par for the Manito course is 36—36—72. The National as well as Western kingpin hit three drives into the woods, had two bogies on the first nine and a double bogey six on the par four, 428 yard 12th.

Hammond Finishes Second.

Two players were bracketed at 145—Bruce McCormick of Los Angeles and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis. The former is an ex-national public links champion and Wherle has held the western amateur title and last year won the Mexican championship from a field that included Ward.

Among the other big timers who qualified for tomorrow's match play rounds were Corp. Pat Abbott of Los Angeles and Bill Welch of Houston, Tex., past and present national public links champions, respectively. Each had 76—73—149.

Doering Picks Up.

All of the prominent entries got past the qualifying trials with the exception of Art Doering Jr. of Chicago, who picked up on the 12th green after a 41 for the first nine.

TWO FALKENBURG BROTHERS WIN IN PREP TENNIS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP).—The Falkenburg entry still remained unbroken today in the National Interscholastic tennis meet.

Tom Falkenburg, elder of the brothers from California, beat Fred Kovaleski of Hamtramck, Mich., High school, 9-11, 6-4, 6-4, in a two hour struggle to advance to the semi-finals. Tomorrow, he will play Frank Willett of Anniston, Ala., while his younger brother, Bob Falkenburg, takes on Holmes Cathrall of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who attends Blair academy. Tom's match was the only singles played today, and at the end of the long battle, only one point separated the two contestants.

Tom and Bob went into the semi-finals of the doubles with a 6-2, 12-10 victory over Howard Gallaway and John Bucknell of Alexandria, Va.

Pitcher Happy Over Return to Chicago.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lon Warneke, the ol' squirrel shootin', tobacco eatin' son-of-a-gun, is coming back to Wrigley field, the baseball home from which most folks allow he never should have been evicted.

Lou Warneke.

Jim Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, who used to take a chew now and then off Lon's plug when Lon was a Cub and Jim was a scribbler, yesterday announced the Cubs had got back the Arkansas lean man for the National league waiver price of $7,500. Jim never did feel right lookin' at Lon in a St. Louis Cardinal suit and often has said it was sinful the way the Cubs let him go to St. Louis for Ripper Collins and Leroy Parmelee on Oct. 8, 1936.

Jokes Over New Uniform.

Lon left St. Louis at midnight, will arrive in Chicago this morning, and go to Wrigley field to be fitted for a Cub uniform, which by the way, has been changed in design since the old Ozarkian was last around.

"I guess if the other boys can wear those new fangled uniforms I can," Lon chuckled over the long distance telephone last night.

"Sure, I'm glad to be coming back to my old stompin' grounds," he said with enthusiasm. "The fans can't hope to see as much from me as they did six or eight years ago, but I still think I'm a pretty fair chukker. That old fire ball is gone, but maybe I'll win a game now and then."

"I never felt better and had so little."

Warneke heard the news of his transfer to the Cubs at noon yesterday when the Cards were working out in Sportsman's Park. Then he went fishin' in a lake near St. Louis.

Treated Fine by Cards.

"Now that the Cards are thru with me," he said, "I'd rather come back to Chicago than any place I know. They were fine to me here. I'd heard a lot of criticism from other players about the way the Cards treated 'em, but I've had no complaints."

Lon's wife and children are at the family home in Hot Springs, Ark., but will join him soon in Chicago.

He will make his first Chicago radio appearance as a returning Cub on Bob Elson's Leadoff Man program over W-G-N at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon.

Lon isn't so old, considering the time you've all been reading about his stellar pitching attainments, which included a 2 to 0 no-hitter against the Cincinnati Reds no longer ago than last Aug. 30. He was 33 last March and, like most of those Ozark boys, never carried an ounce of excess weight in his life. He's won six for the Cards this year, two more than he's lost.

Won Two 1935 Series Games.

Not knocking Ripper Collins or even Leroy Parmelee, the departure of Warneke from the Cubs five and one-half years ago was one of the most shocking bits of sports news that ever came to Chicago National league fans. Lon had won 16 games in 1936, but there were rumors his arm was dead or ailing. Lon had won two world series games in 1935, allowing only one run in the two games.

The Cubs had expected to win the National league pennant in 1936, didn't, and in one of those flurries of Cub confusion and bewilderment not uncommon in those days one of the league's greatest pitchers was shipped to the Cardinals, who had finished in

RACE TIGHTENS UP IN NORTH SHORE INTER-CLUB GOLF

Four Teams Are Bunched for Final Drive.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The North Shore Golf league, grandfather of all interclub competition in the Chicago golf district, yesterday crowded itself into one of the snuggest races in its history during the course of its third series of matches at the Skokie Country club. Four teams are now bunched within a paltry span of two and one-half points as the league heads into its final two bouts, on Aug. 5 at Edgewater and on Sept. 9 at Westmoreland.

The foursome which would put you in mind of the days when the National Baseball league used to provide a tight battle from midseason includes Sunset Ridge, with 52½ points; Evanston, with 52; Westmoreland, with 51½, and Edgewater, with 50. They are followed by Skokie, with 36½; Park Ridge, with 32½; North Shore, with 29, and Ridgemoor, with 19½.

Evanston Sets Pace.

Evanston, led by Steve Williams and Don Cameron, made the greatest advance of the day, collecting 21 out of a possible 27 points. Sunset Ridge almost maintained that pace while moving into the lead, gaining 19, one-half point more than the Skokie squad, which included Hunter Hicks and President Tom McMahon of the Chicago District Golf association. Other point scores were Edgewater, 17½; Westmoreland, 15½; Park Ridge, 10½; North Shore, 4, and Ridgemoor, 2.

John Lehman of Edgewater, former Western Amateur and Big Ten champion, led the gross scorers with a 35—39—74, two over par, which included a six on the 215 yard 12th hole. Charles Morrow of Sunset Ridge took low net honors with a 77—7—70. Hicks' 78 captured second low gross, while the other net prize winners included Bob Lockridge of Sunset Ridge with an 80—8—72, and Ray Matson of Westmoreland, president of the league, who had 80—7—73.

Pater-Filius Tourney Today.

The 39th annual Pater-Filius tournament conducted by the Midlothian Country club will be held today. A special event of nine holes this morning will procede the afternoon 18 in which the low net scorers will be awarded the Pater-Filius trophy.

Tomorrow the Chicago District Golf association will hold its second one day handicap event at Lake Geneva's Big Foot club and the Chicago Women's District association will gather at Bryn Mawr for a one day tourney.

GARDEN STATE HORSES TO RUN 'WITHOUT FANS'

Camden, N. J., July 8 (AP).—The horses will run at the opening of the new $2,000,000 Garden State race track July 18 even if the only spectators are the judges.

"Regardless of how many people are in the stands," General Manager Walter H. Donovan promised tonight, "the horses will be on the track at 2:30 p. m., July 18, ready to start New Jersey's first racing meet in a half century.

Donovan's statement came after public transportation agencies had clamped a ban on special service to the park, six miles from Camden. Officials of the Pennsylvania-Reading Shore lines said yesterday there will be no special trains to the park, or stops on scheduled runs, and state and township officials previously had refused applications for bus permits. The railroad announcement said the refusal was based on a general policy that special service to amusement centers is out for the duration.

Trouble is no stranger to the park promoters. From the start citizens' and church groups tried to block the project in the courts. Then the War Production board held up materials priorities. Finally, construction was completed barely in time to escape a WPB ban on nonessential building.

And the end is not yet in sight. The Rev. Carl McIntyre, pastor of the Bible Presbyterian church in Collingswood and leader of the church antiracing faction, tonight said he will devote a one hour radio broadcast Sunday evening to "presentation of evidence of political corruption involving the race track."

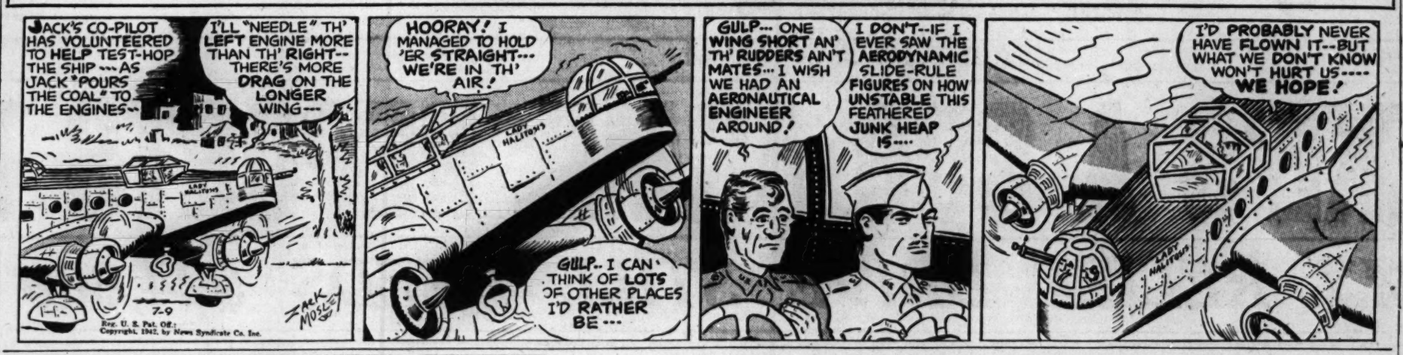
SMILIN' JACK—IGNORANCE IS BLISS



ELK GROVE WOODS IS LEFT JUST AS PIONEERS SAW IT

But It Has Its Tract for Picnics, Softball.

BY BOB BECKER.

When Vermont settlers rolled their covered wagons into Chicagoland around 1830, they found magnificent groves of timber on the northern Illinois prairies. One of the forested "islands," almost as natural and primitive as it was in the early days, now is set aside as the Elk Grove forest preserve for the pleasure of Chicagoland outdoor fans. Located on Higgins road just a few miles south of Arlington Heights, the preserve contains about 1,300 acres.

Fortunately a large part of this tract is unspoiled forest and marsh. It's a real sample of early Illinois with even a pioneer clearing—the site of a little farm literally cut from among the oaks, hickories, and other trees.

Part of It Improved.

Any one visiting this tract is bound to be impressed by the way forest preserve authorities have adapted their development policy to achieve two objectives in this 1,300 acres. Approximately 350 acres south of Higgins road has been improved as a delightful picnic area. A wooded, shady road leads to this open playground which once was a farm. Here an artistic shelter with a big fireplace, wooden picnic tables, pumps for drinking water, and other improvements have been installed for visitors.

On a recent Sunday morning we counted 53 automobiles loads of people enjoying themselves in this neat picnic area as they played softball, ate their lunches, or loafed in the shade.

North of Higgins road the preserve presents an entirely different appearance. Except for one gravel road and the old pioneer farm clearing where automobile parties may park and hold their picnics, this expanse of 850 acres is old Illinois with a forest containing giant burr oak trees that had looked down on the prairies at least 100 years before the first Vermont settlers cut their trails thru woods. No foresters have carved out broad trails thru this unusual grove.

Wild Life Is Abundant.

When we hiked thru this part of the preserve we accidentally discovered a couple of the old woods trails originally made by the early settlers but now so overgrown by shrubs and wildflowers that they are very faint. The number of wildflowers that grow in the timber can be counted by the dozens. Bird life is abundant.

Gordon Pearsall, preserve naturalist, says that he has found the nest of hermit thrush here. Two blue herons have built their nests near the north boundary of the preserve. Bitterns, rails, mallards, teal, and other birds that want to be near water are nesting in the untouched marsh on the west side of the preserve.

Elk Grove Preserve

Gills to Bowl in New Classic League Setup

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The Joseph L. Gill bowling team, which for the last three seasons has been one of the nation's best, last night became a member of the Classic league—thereby bringing Adolph Carlson back into the circuit.

Joe Wilman of the Budweisers, ABC champions, said his team had received no actual invitation and therefore was planning to be represented in only the two leagues in which it rolled last season, the Windy City and Randolph.

Indications at last night's meeting of the Classic league were that the circuit would continue with eight teams, inasmuch as National Bowling Equipment was withdrawing. George Weissensel, captain of the team and for the last four years president of the league, has been made Detroit branch manager of National Billiard Supply company. The team, led by Stanley Rudcki, last year sponsored by Blatz, will remain in the league, but is still lacking a sponsor.

May Change Sponsors.

Sponsors continuing their support are Schlitz, whose team won the 1941-'42 Wednesday division title and the playoff; Monarch Beer, Sunday division champion; Ambrosia Beer, and Koenig Brau. The Washington Shirt company probably will continue as a sponsor, but if it withdraws the team will remain in the league under a new sponsor. The Thompson Restaurants will replace the Pabst Blue Ribbons.

The league will operate as a traveling organization on Wednesdays, each team having a home alley. On Sundays its teams will roll in sweepstakes events, each week inviting outside teams—both local and from outside Chicago and Illinois—to compete against its members.

Team Personnel.

Team personnel in addition to that previously announced, follows:

SCHLITZ—Walter Freitag, Adam Plunge, Glen Gerach, Jim Keating, and Paul Krumske.

MONARCH—Dick Winsberg, George Eland, Harry Ledene Jr., Anthony Slanina, and Bill Flesch.

KOENIG BRAU—Walter Center, Peter Petersen, Art Butler, Jock Bishop, and Frank Jerzyk.

Approaching the stretch, Kesargo began to give way but the other three went on. Meanwhile Waygal was moving along in fourth position within reach of her rivals but Calumet farm's Proud One, the 9 to 2 third choice, was quite a way back, racing wide.

In the straightaway, Blue Delight gradually drew clear and Waygal came up in the final furlong to clinch the pace. Meanwhile Distant Isle, running next to the rail made a strong finish to outlast the others.

The winner was a 10 to 1 shot, returning $22.60, $8.80, and $6.20.

SWIMMERS FROM OUTSIDE CHICAGO SEND IN ENTRIES

Many Contestants in Event Unattached.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

More than one-third of the letters in yesterday's list of entries for the Chicagoland 100 yard swimming races are from suburban cities. Chicago will provide the bulk of the competitors for the sectional races a week from Saturday and Sunday, but many of the suburban cities as well as larger towns in the adjoining states will be represented.

The following names of swimmers were picked at random in yesterday's entries to indicate the scope of the suburban contestants:

Carl Read Jr., Algonquin, Ill.
Richard Lippincott, Winnetka, Ill.
Eric Foote, Winnetka, Ill.
Wayne Rutledge, Barrington, Ill.
J. W. Roach, Bloomington, Ill.
Bob Broeker, Elgin, Ill.
John C. Hickox, Kankakee, Ill.

It is noteworthy that only two of these boys represent clubs or other swimming organizations. John Hickox will swim for the Kankakee YMCA in the preliminaries in Cermak pool a week from Saturday. He is competing in class B. Roach will swim in class E and he represents the University of Illinois.

Chance for Beginners.

The swimming races which have been held annually since 1930 were planned to cater to the youngster who has not had a great deal of experience and who, generally speaking, has no club affiliation other than attendance at a park or pool in his neighborhood. Because of the difficulty in arranging races of varying lengths, the original distance was established at 100 yards. Any stroke was permitted.

These same rules have governed the swimming races since inception of the meet. In other words, the races actually are a swimming test for many boys and girls and in recognition of this fact, the souvenir bronze button is awarded each contestant who swims 100 yards. The sectional swimming races were devised several years ago to further the same purpose. One hundred and twenty gold medals are awarded to the sectional qualifiers so by this means the emphasis for novice swimmers remains in winning a trial event rather than in the final competition.

Jaretz Broke Record.

The qualifiers in the preliminaries July 18 and 19 will meet in the championships July 26 in California park pool. By this time the majority of contestants have had some experience in speed swimming so that the final races develop exceptional times. Otto Jaretz, for instance, broke the world record in 1940 for 100 yards over the course in the Lincoln park lagoon. Since then the championships have been held in California park because of the WPA work along the lake shore.

The races at Whealan pool and Sherman park pool are held over a 50 yard course which requires one turn for the complete 100 yard race. At Cermak pool and California pool, the races are held across the pool and there are two turns to complete the 100 yard race.

Entries for the 13th annual races will be accepted until midnight Monday. The blank printed in these columns may be used. Team entries may be submitted by coach or instructor if the age and home address of each contestant is given.

USE RECLAIMED RUBBER IN BIG LEAGUE BALLS

New York, July 8 (AP).—While denying that baseballs used by the two major leagues this season had lost any of their resiliency, the Spalding company admitted in a statement released here today that it had been necessary to use scrap rubber in the cores since last January instead of the pure crude rubber formerly employed.

Players of both leagues have been protesting vehemently ever since the season began that the official ball was much less lively than in other years. The manufacturers' statement was in reply to their complaints.

"The core still features the cushion center of cork and rubber," said Spalding. "The only difference here is that crude rubber is no longer used in the center, having been replaced by high grade reclaimed rubber. Driving machine tests conclusively show that no distance has been lost by this change."

Resume Midget Auto Races at Two Chicago Tracks

Midget automobile racing will be resumed at Raceway park Saturday night and at Riverview speedway Sunday night, since the ban on racing will not take effect until July 31.

Mrs. Shockley Advances in Open Tennis

Two Chicago district players, Mrs. Helen Fulton Shockley of Evanston and Nancy Corbett of River Forest, reached the semi-finals of the women's singles in the North Shore Open Tennis tournament in Evanston yesterday.

Mrs. Shockley, former Chicago city champion, advanced by defeating Margaret Welsh of Philadelphia, 7-5, 6-4. Miss Corbett, who just completed her freshman year at Rollins college, crossed up the officials by upsetting Baba Lewis of the Skokie Country club, fourth seeded player, 5-7, 6-2, 6-1. The semi-final bracket pits Miss Corbett against Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, while Mrs. Shockley meets Pauline Betz, another Rollins college girl who was runner-up for last year's women's national championship.

Defeated Joan Merrick.

In addition to her victory in the women's singles Miss Corbett advanced to the semi-final round of the girl's junior division by defeating Joan Merrick of Chicago, 6-0, 6-0.

Her triumph in the women's division was over a much harder route and she was forced to rally repeatedly before clinching victory in three hard fought sets against Mrs. Lewis, who piled up numerous points with her accurate net game. After dropping the first set, 5-7, Miss Corbett overcame her erratic tendencies and ran thru the last two sets, 6-2, 6-1.

In the only two quarter-final matches of the men's singles, Seymour Greenberg and Gardner Larned, ranked first and second, respectively, in the seedings, advanced to the semi-finals. Greenberg defeated James Gates, 6-0, 6-0, while Larned eliminated Richard Mason, 6-0, 6-1. Summaries:

CLEVELAND GAME YIELDS $70,000 FOR RELIEF WORK

Two Service Funds Will Divide That Sum.

Cleveland, O., July 8 (AP).—Success was stamped on baseball's All-Star service spectacle today as the major league representatives and army and navy players scattered.

Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Indians and host to 62,094 fans last night at Municipal stadium, said the Army Emergency Relief fund and the Navy Relief society would be able to divide approximately $70,000 from the game.

"It was great," he told Lieut. Gordon [Mickey] Cochrane, pilot of the service stars, and others today. "It was a tremendous task to put over, but we did, and we'd gladly try it again next year if we thought we could raise $70,000 for the army and navy."

Achieved Its Goal.

The game's goal was not to settle the supremacy of baseball players in or out of the service but to raise a big amount of money for war purposes and it did.

Bradley said the gross receipts were $143,571 of which $62,094 was for the purchase of war savings stamps. Attached to each ticket was a stub entitling the purchaser to exchange it for a $1 stamp at a Cleveland bank before Aug. 1. The Indians' executive said he knew of many persons who would not make the exchange and thus allow a part of this money also to revert to Army-Navy relief.

Federal taxes, to be deducted from the gross, amount to $7,797 and the printing of tickets, hiring of ushers and police, and other expenses were expected to approximate this same amount. Expenses of the American league players were paid by their clubs and no passes were issued. In addition, profits from the sale of scorecards, amounting to $1,475, and about $2,000 from concessions will be added to the pool.

It Was a Great Show.

There was no question that the crowd got its money's worth. People still were talking today about the military pageantry that preceded the game—the hundreds of marching soldiers, sailors, marines and coast guardsmen, the rolling parade of a mechanized battalion, the big tanks, the raising and lowering of the colors while lumps swelled in everyone's throat—and the one minute test blackout in the middle of the game when 60,000 spectators sat without even the glint of a cigaret to be seen.

It was a great show and it might have been a great game. The soldiers and sailors sat around in the hotel lobby today and rehashed the contest among themselves and Lieut. Cochrane mourned that his team couldn't get just one hit when the bases were loaded in the first inning. But even he admitted, "it would have taken a miracle to get a hit thru that American league infield."

Lon Warneke Comes Back to Cubs Today

Even the news release of the transaction was screwy. It was announced at 5 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 9, 1936, and was made known in Chicago in the late finals of THE TRIBUNE, the information having been obtained thru a telegraphic accident. The Cubs never did have the crust to make formal announcement of the deal.

Wins 22 Games in 1932.

Not counting a brief visit in 1930, Lon was with the Cubs a half dozen years, or a half year longer than he was with the Cards. He wasn't such hot stuff in 1931—he won 2 and lost 4. But did our Mount Ida counterpart of Daniel Boone go to town in the pennant year of 1932! He won 22 and lost 6. Two of the six were lost in Brooklyn on successive days and were the immediate cause of Rogers Hornsby getting the grand bounce from his job as Chicago manager.

In 1933 Lon's won and lost record—18 and 13—wasn't quite so imposing as the year before until you noticed that his earned run average was 2.01. The next two years he was right back in the golden circle—22 victories and 10 losses in 1934 and 20 and 13 in the pennant year of 1935.

In the opening game of the 1935 world series Warneke shut out Schoolboy Rowe and the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 0. Charley Root, Larry French, and Tex Carleton were beaten in the next three games. Then Warneke extended the series by again beating Rowe, the Tiger ace that year, 3 to 1.

They're All Easy for Lon.

Warneke never has reached 20 victories in any year since he's been with the Cardinals, but he's never had a bad season. He won 18 and lost 11 his first year with St. Louis and 13 and 8 was his ration in 1938. In the last three years he has turned in records of 13 and 7, 16 and 10, and 17 and 9.

Going into this season Warneke was up on every team in the league on his lifetime record. He had beaten the Braves 25 times while losing 8 and his score with Brooklyn going into this season was 23 and 10. He had beaten the Giants 31 while losing 22, and his balance with the Phils showed 26 and 9. He had beaten the Pirates 15 while losing 13 and the Reds 29 times while losing 20. His toughest customers have been the Cubs. Going into 1942 he had an edge of one game, 11 to 10. Before he went to the Cardinals he had whipped them 17 times and they had taken his measure a dozen times. His all-time totals to this moment are 183 won and 108 lost.

Vern Olsen will toss today's opener with the Braves, which is the beginning of the Cubs' 13 game home stand. It is said Vern's cheeks are rosy with health and he's eager to register his sixth victory.

Temple and Columbia Add Service Contests.

Princeton, N. J., July 8 (AP).—Princeton university will play its 1942 football games with Navy and Army in Yankee stadium, New York, Asa Bushnell, acting director of athletics, announced today.

"The gas and tire shortages and the limitations of railroad travel to essential purposes together with the increasing length of the working week will make it impossible for Princeton alumni who ordinarily come to Princeton for football games to follow their usual custom next fall," Bushnell said.

"By transferring the Navy and Army games to New York City, we are making it possible for alumni in that area at least to see the Princeton team play."

The schedule:

Oct. 3, Williams at Princeton; Oct. 10, Navy vs. Princeton in New York; Oct. 17, Princeton at Pennsylvania; Oct. 24, Brown at Princeton; Oct. 31, Princeton at Harvard; Nov. 7, Dartmouth at Princeton; Nov. 14, Yale at Princeton; Nov. 21, Princeton vs. Army in New York.

TEMPLE ADDS AVIATION CADETS.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP).—Temple university and the navy preflight school of North Carolina have scheduled a night football game for Oct. 23 in Temple stadium for the navy relief fund, the college announced.

The aviation cadets, expected to be coached by Jimmy Crowley, formerly of Fordham and now a naval reserve officer, complete the Owl's schedule of 10 games.

COLUMBIA VS. FT. MONMOUTH.

New York, July 8 (AP).—Columbia university has added another game to its football schedule, the receipts to go to army relief. Dr. Edward S. Elliott, director of athletics, said the Fort Monmouth eleven would be met in New York on Sept. 26.

VACUUM CLEANER FIRM SALE ASKED BY STOCKHOLDER

Implies Management Puts Own Interest First.

There were two developments yesterday in a stockholders' fight involving the Air-Way Electric Appliance corporation, Toledo vacuum cleaner manufacturer. The issue is whether the present management is to lose stock control to another corporation, the identity of which neither side would reveal.

The first development came when stockholders received a letter from J. M. Doroshaw, Chicago, who claims to be the company's largest stockholder. He urged stockholders to accept his plan, under which the unnamed corporation would purchase a majority of the approximately 353,000 outstanding shares of Air-Way common at $1.75 a share. He also extended the deadline for accepting the offer from July 10 to July 24.

Only 90,000 Shares Needed.

When he first told stockholders of the offer last June 18 he said only 90,000 additional shares were needed, since he and others already had expressed willingness to sell. At that time Air-Way common was selling on the New York Curb exchange at 87½ cents. A sale completed Tuesday was at $1.50 a share.

In his letter yesterday Doroshaw implied management stockholders were more concerned over the substantial income they received in salaries and fees than in whether the stockholders would be benefited by the sale.

"I am willing to sell my stock at the price to net me $1.75 a share—the same price offered you," Doroshaw declared, explaining he believes he can find better investment opportunities with the proceeds.

Nuffer Promises Details.

J. H. Nuffer, company president, supplied the second development. Reached by long distance telephone at his office in Toledo, Nuffer promised full details of the situation will be contained in a management letter which may be mailed to stockholders today, but last night all he would say was:

"Mr. Doroshaw's letter does not carry all of the details which a stockholder should have before making any disposition of this stock. There is every indication of payment of a dividend in the early future."

The fight broke into the open at the annual meeting of stockholders March 24, when Doroshaw and George Coury, also of Chicago, and M. J. Zivian, Detroit, resigned after being reelected to the board of directors.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & BOB BECKER

Features of July.

July 8, 1942.

IN hiking thru the farm fields and woods it's not difficult to jot down a long list of outdoor features which are typical of the month of July. Nature follows the calendar pretty closely. Just as June is the month of bird concerts from hedgerows, fields, and woods, so July can be marked down as the month of maturing young birds and animals. Already the nests of some of the better known song birds are deserted. The occupants are now on their own or being carefully watched by the anxious parents.

For example, a few days ago we accidentally discovered a trio of young catbirds that apparently hadn't been out of their nest very long. They looked both complacent and rather stupid as they squatted on the ground and tried to figure what kind of world it was that they had to live in. They gave us only a few moments to size them up and then, spurred on by the frantic meowing of the parent bird, they vanished into a tangle of shrubbery.

Second Broods Hatching.

While the young of some species of birds are just maturing and literally spreading their wings to travel on their own, other well known species are busy hatching their second broods. That is Nature's pattern in July, a month that is packed full of activity for all living things in field and wood. We have been seeing quite a few young rabbits in the fields. Some of these little cottontails were so immature that they had developed little of that innate shyness of the average cottontail.

On our hike over the farm we missed the glorious singing of wild birds which features the month of June as one of the most delightful periods of the year on the country dweller's calendar. When July comes and with it the task of rearing their young our birds grow quieter. They're busy now with family duties and haven't much time for singing. We have been hearing a few bursts of melody from the catbirds around evening, but the orioles aren't being heard from and we're missing the wonderful concerts from brown thrashers.

Lots of Elderberries.

July also is touching up the fields of the farm with flowering weeds which are starters in the annual flower parade. The first flowers of Queen Anne's lace are out and the Brown-eyed Susans are pouring their golden tints into the fields.

If the outdoor fan who knows his shrubs has been wondering about the possibilities of homemade elderberry wine this fall, he needn't worry about a shortage because the elder plants are loaded with blossoms and some already have fruited. During the last few days we have seen hundreds of these shrubs both on the farm and in the fields we pass on the way. Because of the abundance of rain they look very flourishing. Seeing some of these elder shrubs along a farm hedgerow this week was another reminder to us of how decorative they are. And they are not only ornamental but useful, too. The fruit can be used for pies, jelly, or wine, and dozens of species of birds feed on the purplish black berries.

NELSON TAKES UMPIRE'S ROLE IN WPB SHAKEUP

He'll Decide Army Vs. Civilian Needs.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 8.—A realignment of functions of the War Production board was announced this afternoon by its chairman, Donald M. Nelson, marking a new phase in preparing America to attack the axis.

William L. Batt, WPB vice chairman.

Nelson said the new setup will facilitate and expedite the flow of raw materials in accordance with the needs for a sound civilian economy and the changing requirements of military strategy. He will be the umpire in a rivalry among these demands which is becoming more acute as total requirements far outgrow the supplies of raw materials.

Home Front Recognized.

Asked whether certain civilian requirements are not becoming more acute than military orders, Nelson replied that the importance of a sound home front was well recognized. As an example, he said that chlorine for the water supply of cities was vital, notwithstanding the demands for chlorine for munitions. He said he did not want to amplify this answer for fear of being misunderstood.

Under the new alignment, Nelson said his main job will be to apportion materials inadequate to meet all needs, and he added that this applies to almost all raw materials, metals, lumber, food, and fuel.

"Steel, for example," he said, "is wanted for ships, tanks, railroads, and mines. It will be the WPB duty to learn from the military whether it considers ships or tanks the preferred bidder for steel. It will be the WPB duty to fit these requirements with the needs for railroads and mines."

To Consider World Needs.

The WPB will then allot materials to steel mills and allot steel to users in accordance with the overall program. This overall program, Nelson said, will have to consider the military and the civilians of almost the entire world outside of the axis.

The chairman, continuing, said that the shutdown of production of civilian goods has been practically completed. The conversion to war output has progressed, but is far from being complete, he said.

"Remaining," he said, "are thousands of small plants that must be put to work. Some will be assigned materials to make essential civilian goods at an efficient if not a capacity rate of production."

"With the shrinking supplies of materials, will the big industries be kept at capacity production?" he was asked.

"Not all of them all of the time," he replied. "For example, for reasons of strategy we might reduce the amount of pursuit planes to make materials and parts available for an increased output of bombers."

Batt New "Chief of Staff."

In personnel reassignments, William L. Batt becomes vice chairman of WPB. Nelson's chief of staff, as it were. He has been chairman of a requirements committee. Another new vice chairman, in charge of program determination, under today's order, is James S. Knowlson, formerly director of industrial organization.

Amory Houghton, a glass manufacturer, who has been serving as deputy chief of the bureau of industry branches, was appointed director general of operations. He will be boss of industry and commodity divisions and of regional offices.

Nelson revealed that a general staff of all government war agencies would be announced soon. On this staff, in addition to WPB, will be representatives of the Office of Price Administration, the Bureau of Economic Warfare, the lend-lease authority, the treasury, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the War Man Power commission, the agricultural department, the petroleum and fuel coordinator, the maritime commission, and the armed services.

Henderson to Retain Job.

Other features of the new WPB organizational arrangement include:

Leon Henderson remains as director of the Office of Civilian Supply, serving as chief adviser to the chairman on the changing needs of the civilian economy in wartime.

Formation of a Smaller War Plants corporation, in line with legislation recently passed by congress. This corporation, whose head will also serve as deputy chairman of WPB on smaller war plants, will report directly to the office of the chairman.

Working with the vice chairman on program determination will be the procurement policy division, formerly the division of purchases, under Holder Hudgins. There also will be a new construction program division which will be responsible for considering and programming all plans for capital expansion.

Chicago Housing Authority to Seek 16 Million Loan

New York, July 8 (AP).—Public financing by various local housing authorities amounting to more than 65 million dollars will be undertaken in the next few days. Of the total, more than 50 millions will be in short term obligations, much of it for refunding outstanding loans. Some of the larger projects and the amounts follow: The Housing authority of Atlanta, $15,378,000; Chicago, $16,300,000; Detroit, $20,200,000, and Louisville, $4,916,000.

Iron Age Asks Airing of Plane Output Delays

A full airing of the causes of production delays in west coast aircraft plants was urged yesterday by the magazine Iron Age. It said that late deliveries and lagging production schedules of subcontractors were preventing realization of full production.

Iron Age suggested the freezing of models of war implements, asserting that actual production ceilings of some war industries in the United States cannot yet be defined because of frequent changes in design.

Real Capacity Unknown.

"For example, many aircraft plant officials believe that until the army air corps will permit runs of 500 or more planes, without design changes, the nation and the enemy will not know the full productive capacity of its aircraft plants," the journal said.

It added that, like steel and other industries, the new mass production aircraft industry would like to see the objectives of definite production schedules more nearly attained.

Another problem American industry must face during the next six months, the magazine said, is the maintenance of a skilled labor supply.

Hits Draft of Skilled Men.

It asserted that despite efforts taken so far by the government to keep essential production workers in their jobs, the drafting of sometimes irreplacable labor into the armed forces is causing added concern each week to industry. Training of new personnel for special skills, particularly for handling precision tools in small plants, is difficult and time consuming, Iron Age said.

The magazine estimated that operations in the steel industry this week are at the rate of 98 per cent of capacity, unchanged from last week. The Chicago district rate dropped 1½ points to 101.5 per cent, chiefly, the magazine said, because of a shortage of scrap.

COUNCIL STUDIES NEW FHA CHANGE IN BUILDING CODE

At the request of Federal Housing administration officials the city council yesterday took under consideration new amendments to the building code which would provide for the construction of inexpensive defense homes. In March the council passed "liberalizing" amendments at the request of FHA but, according to Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the building committee, new FHA provisions have made those amendments obsolete.

The new amendments would prohibit the construction of frame dwellings within the fire limits of the city and bar row or duplex houses in areas zoned for single family homes.

They would permit the construction of an indefinite number of dwelling units in a section of row houses instead of limiting the building to four units in accordance with the present ordinance.

STEEL CASTINGS INGOTS SET NEW 6 MONTHS' HIGH

New York, July 8 (AP).—Production of steel ingots and castings in the first half of this year reached a new high of 42,570,247 net tons, more than 4 per cent above that of the comparable 1941 record breaking period, the American Iron and Steel institute announced today.

Open hearth steel production of 37,889,027 tons was 2 per cent above the first half of 1941, Bessemer output of 2,798,856 was 8 per cent higher and electric furnace production of 1,882,364 was about half again as much as that produced in 1941.

BOARD RULES AIR LINE WAS PAID TOO MUCH UNDER MAIL CONTRACT

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics board ruled today that Pan American-Grace Airways, Inc., had excessive net earnings of $1,375,000 between Aug. 22, 1939 and Dec. 31, 1941, from mail contracts, but decided against "recapture" of the amount as "economically unsound and contrary to the public interest."

The board, however, imposed restrictions intended to insure the use of the allegedly excessive profits in the public interest. It ruled the money "should not be devoted to the personal interest" of stockholders thru the payment of dividends, but placed in a special reserve.

The board decided against the recapture policy applied in a recent decision involving American Airlines, now under review, because of the need of the company for ample reserves to act as a "cushion" against future exigencies.

In its decision today, which will not became final until Pan American-Grace has had an opportunity to file exceptions, the board fixed a base rate of 39.38 cents per mile, effective July 1, 1942, for the carriage of mail. This, the board estimated, would amount to a reduction of about $700,000 annually in the total cost of mail service furnished by the company.

NLRB Unfair, Weirton Steel Appeal Claims

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP).—The Weirton Steel company, today charged it had been "wilfully denied a fair and impartial hearing" in a five year old NLRB case and asked the federal Circuit Court of Appeals for a hearing on its claims.

The company, a unit of the National Steel corporation headed by Ernest T. Weir, referred to the National Labor Relations board hearing—one of the longest before the board—on charges the firm violated the Wagner act.

Prejudice Is Charged.

A petition filed here today said the board's decision directing back pay be given to 17 employés, who had been dismissed, and that two independent unions be dissolved, was "invalid and contrary to law by reason of the board's prejudice, hostility, and improper conduct."

It asked a stay of proceedings on the board's recently filed petition seeking enforcement of the order.

The Weirton petition, which was taken under advisement, charged improper conduct not only to the trial examiner and other agents of the labor board who actively participated in the hearing, but to members of the National Labor Relations board at that time, J. Warren Madden, chairman; Donald Wakefield Smith and Edwin S. Smith.

Offer Moving Picture Evidence.

Earl F. Reed of Pittsburgh, general counsel for the company, told the court that the firm had phonograph recordings and moving pictures to prove its allegations. Robert B. Watts, chief counsel for the NLRB, replied that this was "shotgun evidence typical of industrial espionage and the tool and trade of a company lawyer."

One of the company's chief complaints was that it was deprived of the right of counsel when the examiner excluded the company's chief counsel from the case midway thru the hearing, which began in New Cumberland, W. Va., in 1937, and continued, with a number of interruptions, until Jan. 31, 1939.

ELECTRIC POWER FLOW CUT LITTLE IN HOLIDAY WEEK

Power production by the nation's electric light and power industry during the week ended July 4 was 3,424,188,000 kilowatt hours, a decline of 1 per cent from the 3,457,024,000 of the preceding week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. Last week's total, however, was 17.9 per cent above the 2,903,727,000 kilowatt hours generated in the corresponding 1941 period.

The fact that the sharp decrease of the 1941 holiday week was missing from the current report indicated war plant operations regardless of Independence day, statisticians said.

Output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies in the Chicago area last week was 148,646,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 149,122,000 the preceding week and 132,294,000 a year ago.

Northwest Cuts Flights, But Air Express Soars

Northwest Airlines, Inc., reported yesterday it carried more air express in June than during the corresponding month a year ago despite fewer scheduled flights because of the transfer of planes to the armed forces. The air express total was 83,168 pounds, compared with 60,643 in June, 1941.

BEET SUGAR GROWERS' GOAL: MAKE NATION'S LOT MUCH SWEETER!

Denver, Colo., July 8 (AP).—Leaders of the beet sugar industry began outlining plans today to sprinkle an extra spoonful of sugar into the nation's coffee cups.

Beet growers and sugar manufacturers, who reported that sugar rationing had greatly reduced consumption of their product while their output this year had boosted the domestic supply to peak proportions, discussed at a closed conference how to increase deliveries of sugar from refineries' packed warehouses, meet labor shortages in field and factories, package their product to conserve needed materials, contribute the industry's utmost to the war effort.

Demand Slackens in East.

New York, July 8 (AP). — Trade sources reported today the demand for refined sugar had slackened compared with earlier in the week and attributed the decline to exhaustion of the supply of unused certificates. Brokers estimated demand today at around 40 per cent of normal compared with about 50 per cent earlier.

MIDLAND UNITED WOULD DISSOLVE 2 INDIANA UNITS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP).—The Midland United company, a Delaware Holding company now in reorganization, asked the Securities and Exchange commission today for authority to dissolve two subsidiaries, the Traction Light and Power company and the Shirley Realty company, both of Indiana.

Midland said the United States District court in Wilmington had approved the proposal as a means of simplifying its system. It said Traction's indebtedness of $288,550 and 500 shares of $100 par common stock would be exchanged for all of Traction's assets, consisting of 17,906 shares of Public Service Company of Indiana, no par value common, carried at $25 a share and approximately $64,000 in cash.

The Shirley company would be dissolved by selling 1,012 shares of common stock and notes amounting to $1,850 plus $717 interest to the Indiana Industrial Land company for $23,677 cash.

DEEPER VESSEL DRAFTS ON LAKE SHIPPING URGED

Cleveland, O., July 8 (AP).—Deepest upbound vessel drafts on the Great Lakes in more than 12 years were recommended today by the shore captains' committee of the Lake Carriers' association.

Effective immediately, the new loading depths are 20 feet 9 inches for the Amherstburg channel of the Detroit river and 20 feet 3 inches for the middle Neebish channel of the St. Marys river.

These are increases of 3 inches at both controling points over June 3 recommendations. A year ago the draft for the St. Marys river was 19 feet and for the Detroit river 19 feet 6 inches.

Stocks Make Broadest Rise Since January

New York, July 8 (AP).—The stock market today achieved its broadest advance since early January and easily outstripped its best performance since the start of the summer bull swing in late May.

Showing real momentum late in the session after the steels began a vigorous climb, the rise was good for final gains ranging from fractions to around 3 points. The buoyant close was in sharp contrast with the droopy tone of the first hour.

Dealings expanded on the upturn, totaling 576,860 shares, largest since March 6 and compared with yesterday's 332,440. Of 716 issues traded, 491 closed higher and only 87 declined.

Inflation View Is Factor.

Observers in stock exchange circles reported that a fair amount of the day's buying was attributable to renewal of inflation prospects, arising in this instance from a steep jump in grain prices.

But in the case of steel stocks, the outstanding leaders, buyers apparently were inspired by an anti-inflation element—by President Roosevelt's Tuesday press conference remarks which were interpreted by some as indicating he was opposed to a general steel wage increase.

A rise of .8 of a point in the Associated Press 60 stock average carried the composite to the highest level since March. It was the best advance since Jan. 2, closing at 36.9.

CHICAGO LIST STRONG.

Prices rose strongly in trading of 17,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of the 86 issues traded, 53 advanced, 11 declined, and 22 were unchanged. United States Steel, the volume leader, closed 2⅛ higher, and General Motors gained a point. In the half hour following the close in New York gains of ⅛ each were made by Bendix Aviation, Zenith, and United States Steel. Commonwealth Edison lost ⅛ to close unchanged for the day.

General Electric Orders Rise 115 Pct. in Quarter

New York, June 8 (AP).—General Electric company announced today that orders received during the second quarter totaled $566,250,000, compared with $263,760,000 in the like 1941 quarter, or an increase of 115 per cent. Orders received for the six months ended June 30 were $865,370,000.

TREASURY CHIEF ASKS ADVICE ON FINANCING WAR

Turns to Dealers, Banks for Views.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. turned yesterday to the nation's security dealers, banks, and trust companies for advice on financing the war. In a letter to the presidents of the 12 federal reserve banks, Morgenthau solicited the views of the reserve district Victory Fund organizations as to the type or types of securities which the government should offer during August.

The treasury secretary also said he would "be glad to get" any suggestions concerning financing for the next three months. He said that the treasury's 2½ per cent registered issue, due 1962-'67, originally offered May 5 to 14, will be reopened in a few weeks and that the Victory Fund organizations are expected to assist in obtaining subscriptions for this issue as a part of the major financing in August, which will total about 2 billion dollars.

2 Per Cent Bonds Offered.

The treasury turned to plans for August war financing yesterday immediately after offering a 2 billion dollar issue of 2 per cent seven to nine year bonds. Because of the scale of war spending, now approximately 4 billion dollars a month and climbing rapidly, the treasury expects similar borrowing every month to supplement tax collections and war bond sales.

Morgenthau announced last night that the subscription books will be closed for the current offering of 2 per cent bonds of 1949-'51 at the close of business today.

Morgenthau's letter to Clifford S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and chairman of the seventh reserve district Victory Fund committee, said in part:

"Altho the service of the Victory Fund organizations will not be utilized to their full extent in connection with the present offering, any assistance that you can render in broadening the distribution along the lines of the help given by the securities industry in the April offering of treasury certificates of indebtedness will be appreciated."

Headed by Reserve Presidents.

The Victory Fund organizations, chosen from the securities industry, banks, and trust companies, are behind the nation's heavy war borrowing campaign. They are not connected with war bond and stamp sales.

From a national committee headed by Morgenthau and with the presidents of the 12 district reserve banks as members, the organization branches into a committee in each district, with a chairman and an executive manager. The district groups are in turn split into regional committees, each with a chairman. In the Chicago reserve district there are regional committees for Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and metropolitan Chicago.

Wheat Climbs on Parity Loan Vote in Senate

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Industrial consumers of flour placed substantial orders with millers yesterday and subsequent mill buying of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade to lift hedges boosted wheat prices as much as 4¾ cents a bushel. The July delivery sold highest since May 21 as the market recorded the sharpest upturn in months.

Senate passage of a bill providing full parity loans for basic farm crops instigated the action, grain men said. Anticipating probable passage of this measure in the house, flour users rushed to buy before prices could be swept upward by a sharply higher wheat loan rate. Flour prices in Chicago were raised 25 cents a barrel.

Possible Loan of $1.34.

Under present laws farmers can borrow on the average $1.14 a bushel on their 1942 wheat crop. The parity price for wheat on June 15 was $1.34½, but farmers were receiving only around 96 cents on the market.

Profit taking shaved part of the advance in the closing minutes, prices closing 3¼ to 3½ cents higher, with September delivery at $1.22⅞ a bushel. Corn futures gained ½ to ⅝ cent; oats, 1¼ to 1½ cents; rye, 2 to 2½ cents, and soy beans, ½ to 1½ cents. The October bean contract rallied 5 cents from the lowest point at which it sold during the session.

Trade sources reported flour purchases of more than 150,000 barrels. Brokers in the wheat pit on the Board of Trade said, however, the flour business probably was much larger than reported, judging from the buying activities of traders usually handling milling company futures transactions. Grain men said that if wheat should sell at parity the flour would cost $1.65 a barrel more than on the present market.

Buy Below July Future.

Elevator interests reported purchases of cash wheat at 2 cents a bushel below the price of the July future in Chicago. The extent of such buying is expected to be limited by the scarcity of storage space.

The advance in corn futures was limited by hedging pressure resulting from large scale purchases made from country shippers. The amount of corn booked to come to Chicago yesterday exceeded a quarter million bushels, grain dealers reported. Lifting of hedges on corn sold to the industries and other consumers, however, imparted a firm tone to the market thruout the session.

Oats, rye, and soy beans largely followed wheat and corn. Sale of small lots of soy bean oil at Decatur, Ill., at 11 cents a pound, lowest since federal ceilings on oil prices have been in effect, depressed soy bean prices and caused the market to fluctuate wildly.

OLD RUBBER HELD SINCE 1914 SOLD BY CHICAGO FIRM

Between 75 and 100 tons of scrap rubber that has been lying in the warehouse of Berkson Brothers Metal company, 1444-48 Blue Island avenue, Chicago, since 1914 has been sold to the government thru a broker, Irving A. Berkson, secretary of the company, announced yesterday.

He said the scrap, consisting of old bicycle tires, boots, gloves, garden hose, and solid truck tires, became valueless when manufacturers began using virgin rubber almost exclusively for a period after the first World war.

The government is taking the rubber at $25 a ton, which, after labor and other expenses, leaves the company somewhat more than 1 cent a pound, Berkson said. The company, he said, paid about 12 cents a pound for the rubber in 1914.

COSTS OF MANY STAPLE FOODS BOOSTED IN DAY

Butter, Eggs, Some Pork Cuts Rise.

Prices of potatoes, butter, eggs, some pork cuts, and flour were boosted yesterday in the Chicago wholesale market. Increased consumer purchases coming in competition with government lend-lease and army buying accounted mostly for the rise, market men said.

Potatoes sold up to $4 a hundred pounds, highest July price for this major staple since 1936. Wholesale butter prices were up about ¼ cent, with the major consumer grades selling at 36¾ to around 37 cents a pound.

Eggs Highest Since January.

Eggs reached the highest levels since late January as processors seeking eggs to be dried for shipment to England caused the wholesale dealers to pay above 32 cents a dozen.

While federal ceilings heretofore have prevented an advance in pork prices, meat packers said evidently some wholesale interests in the meat trade had higher ceilings than heretofore have been reported. Pork loins, Boston butts, and spareribs advanced ½ cent a pound with top loins selling at 29½ cents.

Flour prices were raised 20 to 25 cents a barrel with family patents advancing to $7.50. An advance in wheat prices and all cereal grains resulted in the boost in the flour market.

Shortage of Red Potatoes.

Agricultural Marketing Service said there is a shortage of red potatoes in Chicago as a result of the large losses sustained in Missouri and Kansas producing sections that normally supply the markets during this season. It reported potato dealers had estimated 2,000 cars of potatoes were lost thru heavy rain and flood damage to the crop in the Missouri and Kansas areas.

Butter and eggs are selling at the highest July levels in the last decade. Egg prices are almost 5 cents a dozen higher than they were a year ago. Lend-lease purchases of dried egg powder in the last year total approximately 200 million dollars and the producers have contracts calling for capacity operation of their plants during most of this year.

BUYING EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS IN FURNITURE FIELD

Two Shows Say Business Is Surprisingly Good.

Volume of buying by retailers during the first three days of Chicago's summer home furnishings markets generally has exceeded advance expectations. This was the report yesterday from exhibiting manufacturers and officials of the two big shows at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart.

"This market is showing a surprisingly good volume," Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, said. "It may not equal July a year ago, when there was an unusual demand, but it will compare favorably with any normal July market."

Birth Rate Hike Reflected.

Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart, said a sample survey in that building indicated buying is ahead of a year ago, with sales Monday and Tuesday equaling the entire volume of the two week January exposition. The gains, he said, have come particularly in furniture and novelty fields, as well as in juvenile items where purchases have been stimulated by a high birth rate in the United States.

Several factors are contributing to the increases, Whiting said. With present plans calling for cancellation of the usual fall market, retailers are buying further in advance than normally. They also are seeking to protect themselves from any transportation shortages which may develop.

D. M. Gaines, vice president of the Saginaw Furniture Shops, Saginaw, Mich., said buying during the first three days exceeded the four opening days of any previous Chicago market.

Small Town Buying Cited.

Ralph Edwards, sales manager of Drexel, N. C., said dealers from small towns, especially those with defense plants, are buying heavily.

Edward J. Houghton, executive of the Ypsilanti Reed Furniture company, said buying to date has exceeded that company's expectations.

Leo Karpen, president of S. Karpen & Brothers, Chicago, also said small buyers are bringing present volume to a satisfactory level.

Dr. Eaton Read of the War Production board's division of civilian supply, told a meeting of the National Retail Furniture association in the American Furniture Mart, that retail inventories are 36 per cent larger and wholesale stocks 40 per cent larger than a year ago. He declared that if inventory regulation is found necessary wholesalers and retailers "will be consulted and a reasonable time allowed to avoid disorderly merchandising and dumping."

Harold F. Coffey, Lenoir, N. C., was elected chairman of the board of governors of the American Furniture Mart.

GASOLINE, FUEL OIL STORES CUT MORE LAST WEEK

New York, July 8 (AP).—Further declines in United States stores of gasoline and heavy fuel oil were reported today by the American Petroleum Institute for the week ended July 4. Stocks of finished and unfinished gasoline totaled 87,014,000 barrels on that date, down 1,382,000 from a revised total of 88,396,000 a week earlier.

Residual fuel oil supplies were down 401,000 barrels at 76,903,000, while stored gas oil and distillates [light fuels] rose 669,000 barrels to a total of 33,520,000.

Crude oil production averaged 3,297,150 barrels daily for the week, a drop of 422,300 barrels from the average of the week before. Refineries cut operations to 75.8 per cent of capacity from 76.5 per cent. Gasoline production was estimated at 10,959,000 barrels compared with 10,713,000 barrels the week before.

RESTAURANT MEN CANCEL MEETING TO CURB TRAVEL

Directors of the National Restaurant association announced yesterday that they have voted to cancel the organization's annual convention and exposition which was to have been held in Chicago Oct. 5 to 9. The action was taken to comply with the request of the Office of Defense Transportation to curtail travel and notice of the cancellation was sent to Joseph B. Eastman, director of the ODT.

In place of the convention, which normally attracts several thousand restaurant operators from all sections of the country, the association will sponsor an emergency war conference in Chicago on Oct. 6, 7, and 8 with a limited attendance.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey estimated yesterday its consolidated earnings for the first half of this year were 43 million dollars after allowance for federal taxes as recommended by the house ways and means committee. COTTON ACREAGE GOAL NOT MET BY FARMERS, JULY REPORT REVEALS

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP).—The 1942 cotton crop may fall 1,500,000 bales short of the production goal set by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

This prospect was indicated by a department report today that cotton in cultivation on July 1 totaled 24,005,000 acres, or 3.8 per cent more than was in cultivation a year ago. Wickard had set a planting allotment of 27,400,00 acres under the federal farm program, and had issued a special appeal urging farmers to plant their full allotment.

The 3,395,000 acre difference between the allotment and the acreage in cultivation could be expected to produce about 1,560,000 bales on the basis of last year's acre yield of 232 pounds.

SPECIALIST GETS BLAME FOR BOND RUN-UP AND FALL

New York, July 8 [Special]. — John W. Hession, specialist for the over-the-counter brokerage firm of Hanson & Hanson, was responsible for the "inside information" which in four months doubled the market value of defaulted mortgage bonds of the Wisconsin Central Railroad company before a 13¼ point break on June 30, Attorney General John J. Bennett said today. Bennett's office has been investigating the price break.

Assistant Attorney General Max Furman, in charge of the inquiry, said Arnold R. Hanson, partner in the brokerage firm, blamed Hession for advancing the tip, said to have been obtained in Washington, D. C., that Canadian Pacific intended to acquire the bonds.

Hanson & Hanson circularized thousands of investors, strongly hinting at this, and the bonds shot up from about 18 to 35 between last February and June 30. The price broke when Canadian Pacific officially denied the rumor.

TRUCK POOLING SOUGHT TO MEET ODT LOAD RULES

Plans for the establishment of a Chicago truck pooling office were discussed yesterday at a meeting of truck line representatives in the Hotel Sherman. Thru pooling the truck operators hope to comply with the Office of Defense Transportation regulation requiring that after July 15 over the road trucks must be loaded on return trips.

Franklin Overmyer, representing several trucking interests, presided at the meeting. Walter McCarron of the Illinois Motor Truck Operators association represented a large group of common carriers and Fred Faulkner represented numerous private carriers.

Common truck carriers have been asked to attend a meeting in the Hotel Sherman Saturday morning to elect three members of the board which will administer the pool under the ODT. William Fullerton, Chicago, is chairman of the ODT advisory committee for Chicago.

FARMERS FLOOD MARKET AND HOG PRICES DIP MORE

Receipts Swelled at All Packing Centers.

Another wave of hog selling swept the country yesterday and resulted in further declines in prices at the stockyards. Soon after a few sales had been made at steady to 10 cents lower prices, the majority of stock sold off 10 to as much as 20 cents.

The average for the session was 10 cents lower at $14.20 a hundred pounds, equaling the lowest average since June 12. A scattering of top grades reached $14.75 at the start, but others, similar to the $15 hogs Monday, sold later at $14.60. Most price pressure was on the biggest weights, widening the range of prices.

Receive Most Since January.

The Chicago stock yards received 23,000 hogs during the day, including directs to packers, the biggest Wednesday run since January. This compared with 16,470 a week earlier. The 11 principal markets handled 68,000, an increase of 9,000 over Wednesday of last week. Increases also were reported at almost all of the smaller points.

A rise of 50 cents a hundred pounds in some cuts of fresh pork in wholesale channels that had been selling below OPA ceilings, coupled with the decline in live costs, brought the live and "cut-out" values of hogs nearer to what packers consider an equilibrium.

Cattle Prices Mixed.

Steers and yearlings ruled strong to 25 cents higher, best grades sharing in the upturn. Top loads reached $15.25. Heifers were steady to 25 cents higher. Steady to weak prices bought most beef cows, canners and cutters. Bulls and calves sold steady.
